Every person who, on arrival at an aerodrome is considered liable to surveillance up to the expiration of the period of incubation of the disease may, however, continue the voyage on condition that the fact is notified to the proper authorities of the place of arrival and of each subsequent landing place in Ceylon, either by means of an entry in the journey log book or by some other method sufficient to secure that such person can be subjected to medical inspection in any subsequent aerodrome on the route.

48. No person who is liable to observation under these regulations shall be authorized to continue his voyage until the expiration of the period of incubation; provided that if the disease suspected is other than yellow fever, such authorization may be granted with the approval of the proper authority of the place of destination.

49. In the case of diseases other than yellow fever, surveillance shall not be replaced by observation unless the proper authority is of opinion that—

- (a) the circumstances are such that it would not be practicable to carry out surveillance with sufficient thoroughness;
- (b) the risk of introduction of infection into Ceylon is considered to be exceptionally serious; and
- (c) the person who would be subject to surveillance cannot furnish adequate sanitary guarantee.

50. In applying sanitary measures to an aircraft coming from an infected local area, the proper authority shall, to the greatest possible extent, take into account all measures which have already been applied to the aircraft in any other sanitary aerodrome abroad or in Ceylon, and which are duly noted in the journey log book carried on the aircraft.

51. No aircraft which arrives at an aerodrome in Ceylon from an infected local area in or outside Ceylon and which has already been subjected to satisfactory sanitary measures shall be subjected a second time to these measures in Ceylon unless, subsequent to the first mentioned application of sanitary measures, any incident has occurred which calls for the application of further sanitary measures or unless the aircraft has, except to take fuel, called at an infected aerodrome.

52. The proper authority shall, whenever requested, furnish free of charge to the pilot of the aircraft, a certificate specifying the nature of the measures and the methods employed, the parts of the aircraft treated, and the reason for the application of these measures. The proper authority shall also issue free of charge to each passenger arriving by an aircraft in which a case of one of the quarantinable diseases has occurred a certificate showing the date of the arrival of such passenger and the measures to which he and his luggage have been subjected.

53. Where an aircraft has been occupied by a person suffering from plague, cholera, yellow fever, typhus or smallpox, the detention of such aircraft shall be limited to the period necessary for it to undergo the prophylactic measures applicable.

54. The pilot of any aircraft who is not willing to submit to the measures prescribed by the proper authority may continue its voyage. Such aircraft shall not, however, land in any other aerodrome in Ceylon except for purposes of refuelling.

55. The pilot of any aircraft referred to in regulation 54 may be authorized to land goods on condition that such aircraft is isolated and that the goods are subjected to prophylactic measures, if the proper authority considers such measures to be necessary.

56. The pilot of any aircraft referred to in regulation 54 may be authorized to disembark passengers at their request on the condition that such passengers submit to the measures prescribed by the proper authority.

57. Any aircraft may take in fuel, replacements, food or water while remaining in isolation.

58. In any case where no journey log book is carried on an aircraft, any fact required by these regulations to be noted or certified in the journey log book shall be noted or certified in a separate book to be kept for the purpose.

59. Fees.—Fees and charges for sanitary and medical services rendered to any aircraft or person shall be paid by the pilot or by such person as the case may be at the rates set out in the Schedule hereto.

"Improvements in or relating to tiffin carriers and the like."

Abstract.—A tiffin carrier in which the means for securing the containers comprise three or more vertical straps of which one or more are rotatable. The fixed straps are rigidly connected to an upper and a lower disc, and the movable straps have horizontal arms pivotally attached to these discs. In one form of construction three fixed straps are provided, with one rotatable strap; in another there are provided two diametrically opposite fixed vertical straps, and two movable straps having common horizontal arms which are pivoted at the centres of the top and bottom discs. The fixed straps are extended below the bottom disc to form a rest or support for the tiffin carrier.

Two diametrically opposed vertical straps either fixed or movable may be joined together at the top by a handle.

A small chamber may be provided at the top for holding a napkin, and slotted brackets may be provided on one of the vertical straps to hold knife, fork, and spoon.

Means are provided for locking two or more tiffin carriers together. The movable strap of a tiffin carrier can be locked in position by means of a hasp and staple to prevent removal of the containers.
