SCHEDULE.

Appointment and Duty of Headmen.

1. Each Vidane Arachchi shall ex-officio be the principal local irrigation headman in his division.
2. The Vidane Arachchies shall, under the direction of the District Mudaliyar, have entire supervision of all works of irrigation and paddy cultivation within their limits, assist in collecting people, and superintending works, and shall enforce all rules and customs and bring breaches of the same before the Village Council. These officers shall be liable for any neglect of duty proved to the satisfaction of the Village Council as for a breach of the rules.
3. When the nature of works proposed concern more than one Vidane Arachchi's division, the Government Agent may appoint special supervisors if the Committee so desire.

General Works.

4. During the rainy months all the dams and water-courses in each village shall be inspected three times a week by the Vel-Vidane or the Vidane Arachchi. In seasons of flood inspection shall take place daily, and if any minor repairs are found necessary, they shall be executed by the cultivators of the land at which such repair is needed. But in the event of a serious accident happening to any of the dams or water-courses causing damage requiring immediate repair, the Committee Members and the Vidane Arachchies shall immediately, by beat of tom-tom or otherwise as shall appear most effectual, collect all the owners of the fields of the division or their deputies, and all the cultivators and all parties interested shall be in attendance at the spot, either by day or by night as may be necessary, and they shall forthwith perform the needful work, and as soon as practicable the Vidane Arachchi or, in his absence, the Committee Members shall furnish a detailed report of the circumstances to the District Mudaliyar to be transmitted to the Government Agent.
5. The owners and cultivators of all lands shall clear, repair, and keep in good order the water-courses adjoining their respective fields, and all jointly shall repair the general canals throughout their length and breadth, contributing labour in proportion to the extent of fields they own or cultivate.
6. The dams and amunas across canals and tracts of fields on which more than one subdivision in the division depends for irrigation shall be put up and kept in repair by the joint labour of all the owners and cultivators of lands in the several divisions dependent upon them, and those dams on which only particular subdivisions may depend shall be put up by the joint labour of the owners and cultivators of that subdivision; this labour shall be rendered at the call of the Vidane Arachchi.

New Works.

7. On the application of ten or more of the cultivators of a tract of fields, the Village Council is empowered to authorize the Vidane Arachchies to cause the opening of such new canals, water-courses, and tanks, and erection of new dams, sluices, or gates as the Council may consider necessary for the irrigation and retention or drainage of water, and all the cultivators of the tract are required to do their portion of the work or pay the rate of contribution fixed in money within the time that might be fixed by the Council.

Canals and Amunas.

8. No person shall, for any purpose whatever, obstruct, encroach on, or lessen the width of any water-course or canal.

9. No gaps in any permanent dam shall be allowed to be cut, but pipes shall be inserted in all necessary places by the Vidane Arachchies, the cost of insertion and upkeep of such pipes to be borne by the owners of all lands depending on the outlet jointly at a rate proportioned to the extent of their lands.

10. The chief water-courses shall at all times be kept clear and in good order by the proprietors or cultivators of the lands deriving benefit therefrom.

11. The owners and cultivators of lands shall clear and repair the minor water-courses, &c., adjoining their respective lands.

12. No new amunas or dams to direct water from an ancient dam or amuna shall be constructed without the consent of all parties interested in the water from the amunas, and no person shall break down an upper amuna to make up for a deficiency or failure in the water at an amuna below it except as provided for by rules 14 and 15.

Irrigation and Distribution of Water.

13. The Vidane Arachchies of the respective divisions, with the concurrence of the Mudaliyar of the district, shall regulate the time of irrigating lands one month previous to the commencement of agricultural operations for each harvest.

14. The distribution of water to the lands in the respective divisions shall be regulated by the Vidane Arachchi, and no cultivator or owner under any pretence whatever is to block up the canal or water passage or open a sluice or a dam without the approval of the Vidane Arachchi; and in case of any such obstruction, the Vidane Arachchi is to remove the same himself in the presence of witnesses.

15. If owing to drought or any unexpected accident to a dam the quantity of water available be found insufficient for the season, the Village Council shall make a division to the several subdivisions by allowing the full volume of water to each subdivision for a given time, and such decision shall be final, subject to appeal to the Mudaliyar.

Preparation for Cultivation.

16. The cultivation in each tract shall be commenced on a given day to be fixed by the Vidane Arachchi, with the concurrence of the Mudaliyar of the district, and all the owners or cultivators shall make up their ridges, water-courses, &c., at the same time, and leave proper gaps for the conveyance of water to fields on the lower level.

17. If any person shall wilfully prevent water flowing to the field below his own, the Vel-Vidane shall proceed to the spot with witnesses and open the gaps (wakkadas) himself.

18. The time allowed for ploughing or tilling to each cultivator is calculated according to the extent of his land, and if a cultivator neglects to plough or till in proper time he loses his turn of water.

19. When the fields of any tract have been prepared for sowing, the water shall first be let into the fields in the highest level, the others to be irrigated in succession down to the lowest. In like manner, when the respective turns for watering the crops arrive, the water shall be taken to the fields in the same rotation, the quantity to be regulated by the Vel-Vidane, &c. Provided that if any person shall wilfully prevent the water flowing to the fields beneath his own, either by negligence in the preparation of his own lands or through malice, the headman shall proceed to the spot with witnesses and open the wakkadas, &c., himself.

20. Where water is carried in ancient channels through a tract of paddy field in transit for the purpose of irrigating a tract below it, no person shall divert the water from such water-course to the fields through which it passes, or obstruct, or otherwise injure the same.

21. In case a field or fields in the lower end of the tract are found necessary to be cultivated earlier than the rest owing to possible influx of brackish or high water, the owner or owners of such field or fields should make pitawanas to let out the water flowing when fields in the higher elevation are cultivated.

22. No person shall in any way alter or injure any ridge (inniyara) or boundary between fields in the same tract, and on information to that effect the Vidane Arachchi shall as soon as possible proceed to the spot with witnesses and restore every such alteration to its original state.

23. The limitary dams (or inniyaras) shall be erected and kept up at the joint expense of the proprietors of the paddy fields separated by them.

24. The ridges shall be kept clear of weeds by the proprietors of the adjacent lands.

25. As cultivation is much impeded by the irregular nature of ridges, it shall be lawful for the Village Council to order a rectification of any such impediment, if the same can be done without effecting the interests of the respective land-holders, each party, if so disposed, naming an arbitrator, and the Council another, to fix the new boundary.

26. The cultivator shall, on the occurrence of the first rains after the crops have been reaped, repair all dams and ridges, close the wakkadas, and keep them in good order until the next season for cultivation arrives, and it shall be the duty of the proper headmen to see this done.

Fences, Watch Huts, Sowing, and Reaping.

27. Where custom requires the putting up of fences either for maha or yala, the fences round the whole tract shall be measured off according to the extent held and apportioned to each cultivator, without any regard to whether the fence adjoin his field or not.

28. Watch huts shall be built in fields or tracts and watchers kept whenever required by the Vidane Arachchi, with the approval of the District Mudaliyar.

29. The majority shall decide as to the description of paddy to be sown, and even those not abiding by this decision must conform to the various rules regarding fencing, watching, &c., which apply to the majority, although their crop should arrive at maturity either before or after that of the others, but the majority shall not be bound in like manner for the benefit of the minority.

30. Should a portion of any tract ripen before the rest, the cultivator of that portion shall be allowed by the Vidane Arachchi to reap and store the same, but he shall still continue to contribute his usual amount of assistance towards the protection of the tract until the Vidane Arachchi announces that the whole tract has been reaped and stored.

Paths and Roads.

31. Where any principal path crosses a tract of fields, a ridge of at least 4 feet in breadth must be left for it.

32. Where it is crossed by water-courses, proper "kumbusas" must be provided by the parties requiring the water.

33. No minor road shall be fenced across without the leave of the Government Agent.

Cattle.

34. No person is to tether any cattle in or by any field having growing crops on, or in any field or patch of ground left uncultivated or unsown in a tract of fields under crop.

35. People having cattle in villages in which it is not the custom to fence paddy fields under cultivation should either tether their cattle remote from fields having crops, or should remove them from the village as soon as notice for doing so shall have been given by the Vidane Arachchi by beat of tom-tom, and shall not turn them out loose or bring them back to the village till permission is again given by the Vidane Arachchi to do so.

Miscellaneous.

36. Owners of paddy lands living out of the division shall give the Vidane Arachchi in writing six weeks before the commencement of work for each harvest the names of cultivators of their fields.

37. No proprietor or other person is at liberty to do any act, in his own interest having a tendency to injure the interests of the other proprietors.

38. All obligations under these rules shall be calculated according to the area held by each proprietor.

39. Any person cultivating the land of a proprietor shall be liable to fulfil all the obligations which according to custom that proprietor has to perform.

40. No paddy shall be allowed to remain on the threshing-floor for more than twenty days from the day of reaping of the crop.

41. All matters connected with the irrigation and cultivation of fields not affecting the title to land shall be decided by the Village Council.

42. Should any proprietor neglect or refuse to cultivate his paddy field or any share in it, the Village Council may allow such to be cultivated by any other proprietor or cultivator, who shall not be liable to pay any ground share should the crop fail. Such person shall be liable to all obligations under these rules in respect of such field or share of field.

43. The threshing-floor shall be cleared and fenced with strong stakes by the joint labour of those stacking crops there, and they shall take their turns in watching the stacks.

44. No paddy shall be removed from the threshing-floor at the termination of the harvest until the huwandiram share and the shares of wages due to persons engaged in the cultivation have been paid.
