WITH reference to the Notification dated September 14, 1907, published in the Gazette of the 27th idem, the following copy of a memorandum, which contains particulars of recent decisions regarding the examination of candidates for admission to the Royal Military Academy or the Royal Military College and of candidates for commissions in the Regular Army, is published for general information.

By His Excellency's command,

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Colombo, June 9, 1911.

HUGH CLIFFORD,
Colonial Secretary.

Decisions arrived at by the Army Council regarding the Regulations governing Admission to the Royal Military Academy and Royal Military College and Appointments to Commissions in the Regular Army.

1.—LIMITS OF AGE FOR ENTRANCE TO THE ROYAL MILITARY ACADEMY.

The lower limit of age at which candidates are permitted to compete for admission to the Royal Military Academy will be reduced to 16½ years, commencing with the competitive examination to be held in November—December, 1911. The extension of the course at the Royal Military Academy from three terms to four terms will first apply to a portion of the successful candidates at the competitive examination to be held in November—December, 1911.

The upper limit of age at which candidates are permitted to compete for admission to the Royal Military Academy will remain at 19½ years, as at present. It will be reduced to 19 years eventually, but due notice will be given as to the date from which the reduction will take effect.

2.—LIMITS OF AGE FOR ENTRANCE TO THE ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE.

The lower limit of age at which candidates are permitted to compete for admission to the Royal Military College will be reduced from 17½ to 17 years, commencing with the competitive examination to be held in June—July, 1912. The extension of the course at the Royal Military College from two terms to three terms will first apply to a portion of the successful candidates at the competitive examination to be held in June—July, 1912.

The upper limit of age at which candidates are permitted to compete for admission to the Royal Military College will remain at 19½ years, as at present. It will be reduced to 19 years eventually, but due notice will be given as to the date from which the reduction will take effect.

3.—AGE FOR ADMISSION TO ARMY QUALIFYING EXAMINATIONS.

The age for admission to the Army Qualifying Examinations is reduced from 17 years to 16 years for the examinations to be held in September, 1911, and March, 1912, after which no further examinations will be held by the Army Qualifying Board (see paragraph 6 (f)).

4.—CONDITIONS FOR ISSUE OF LEAVING CERTIFICATE (FOR ARMY PURPOSES.)

The definition of a Leaving Certificate (for Army purposes) hitherto given in the regulations for admission to the Royal Military Academy and the Royal Military College, and in the regulations under which commissions in the Regular Army may be obtained through other channels of entry, is cancelled, and the following definition is substituted:—

“A Leaving Certificate for Army purposes is a certificate which testifies to a certain standard of proficiency in the subjects stated in these regulations, and which is granted by certain bodies to candidates not less than 16 years of age who have attended a course of study at a school approved by the Army Council.”

5.—ANTEDATING OF COMMISSIONS GRANTED TO CANDIDATES NOMINATED BY THE UNIVERSITIES.

The question of the antedating of commissions granted to candidates nominated by the Universities is at present receiving the consideration of the Army Council, and a decision will shortly be published.

6.—ARMY ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS FROM APRIL 1, 1912.

The various regulations under which commissions may now be obtained in the Regular Army will, subject to the above-mentioned changes, continue in force until March 31, 1912.

New regulations to give effect to the following decisions, which concern only the literary examinations for entrance to the Regular Army, will shortly be issued, and will come into force from April 1, 1912:—

(a) The possession of a Leaving Certificate, or of a certificate of having passed the Army Qualifying Examination, will not be included in the qualifications required for admission to a competitive examination for the Royal Military Academy or the Royal Military College. The possession of such a certificate will not exempt a competitor at an examination held after March 31, 1912, from the necessity of qualifying in certain obligatory subjects (see paragraph 6 (c)).

These certificates will, however, retain their value as qualifications in other respects (see sub-paragraph 6 (e)).

(b) The examinations for admission to the Royal Military Academy and Royal Military College to be held in the summer of 1912, and each half-year subsequently, will be conducted as heretofore by the Civil Service Commissioners, and will be named “Army Entrance Examinations.” These examinations will combine the functions of the present examinations for Leaving Certificates (for Army purposes), the present Army Qualifying Examinations, and the present competitive examinations for admission to the Royal Military Academy and Royal Military College.

(c) A candidate for admission to the Royal Military Academy or Royal Military College by competition will, in order to be eligible to be included in the list of successful competitors at an Army Entrance Examination, be required to qualify at that examination, in each of the obligatory subjects* for admission to the Royal Military Academy or Royal Military College, respectively.

The aggregate of the marks in the obligatory and optional subjects* obtained by a candidate who qualifies in the obligatory subjects will decide his place on the competitive list.

The qualification gained by a candidate at an Army Entrance Examination will not exempt him from the necessity of qualifying for competitive purposes at any subsequent Army Entrance Examination.

* For table of subjects, see sub-paragraph 6 (g) of this memorandum.

(d) Candidates for commissions in the Regular Army, other than candidates for admission to the Royal Military Academy or Royal Military College by competition, and those admitted to the Royal Military College on the nomination of the Army Council (see Memorandum B), viz. :—

- (1) Candidates for admission to the Royal Military College as King's Cadets, Honorary King's Cadets, King's Indian Cadets, Honorary King's Indian Cadets, and Pages of Honour ;
- (2) Officers of the Special Reserve, the Malta, the Bermuda and the Channel Islands Militia, and officers of the Territorial Force ;
- (3) Officers of the Colonial Military Forces ;

who, under the present regulations, are only required to obtain a Leaving Certificate or an Army Qualifying Certificate as their literary qualification will, after March 31, 1912, be required instead to qualify at an Army Entrance Examination (see sub-paragraph 6 (b) ) as follows :—

- (i.) A candidate for a commission in the Royal Artillery will be required to qualify in each of the obligatory subjects* of the examination for entrance to the Royal Military Academy.†
He will be permitted to take up this examination in two parts, the one part consisting of sub-heads (i.) to (iv.) inclusive, the other part sub-heads (v.) and (vi.).
Either part may be taken up first, or the two parts may be taken up at the same examination.
In order to qualify in either part a candidate must qualify in each subject of that part at one and the same examination.
- (ii.) A King's Cadet, Honorary King's Cadet, King's Indian Cadet, Honorary King's Indian Cadet, Page of Honour, and a candidate for a commission in the Cavalry, Guards, Infantry, or Army Service Corps, will be required to qualify in each of the obligatory subjects* of the examination for entrance to the Royal Military College.†
- (iii.) To be eligible to attend an Army Entrance Examination a candidate must have attained the age of 16½ years on June 1 for a Summer examination, and on December 1 for a Winter examination.

(e) A Leaving Certificate or an Army Qualifying Certificate obtained under the present regulations by a candidate mentioned in paragraph 6 (d), (1), (2), and (3) will count as a qualification (except in the case of certain candidates for the Royal Artillery mentioned below) after the introduction of the new regulations on April 1, 1912.

A candidate mentioned in paragraph 6 (d), (2), and (3), whose Leaving certificate or Army Qualifying certificate, obtained under the present regulations, does not include both Mathematics I. and Science, will be required, in order to become eligible after March 31, 1912, for a commission in the Royal Artillery, to qualify in "Mathematics B," or Science, or both these subjects, as the case may be, at one and the same Army Entrance Examination.

A candidate who under the present regulations requires, in order to complete his Leaving certificate for Army purposes, to qualify in Practical Measurements, or Geometrical Drawing, or both these subjects, will, after March 31, 1912, be permitted to complete his qualification by qualifying in "Mathematics A (Elementary)" at an Army Entrance Examination.

A candidate mentioned in paragraph 6 (d), (2), and (3), in possession of qualifications which under the present regulations exempt him from obtaining a Leaving certificate or an Army Qualifying certificate will, after March 31, 1912, be exempt from qualifying at an Army Entrance Examination. In order, however, to be considered qualified for the Royal Artillery he will be required to produce evidence that he has attained the standard in the subjects of "Mathematics B" and Science required for qualification at the Army Entrance Examination.

(f) The last examination in England and Wales for the Leaving Certificate (for Army purposes) will be held in the Michaelmas Term, 1911, and the last Army Qualifying Examination in March, 1912.†

The programme of all literary examinations to be held up to the Summer of 1913, inclusive, is given in paragraph 7 of this memorandum.

(g) The obligatory and optional subjects at the Army Entrance Examination for admission to the Royal Military Academy and Royal Military College, respectively, will be as follows :—

(v.) Mathematics B .. .. .	2,000
(vi.) Science (Physics and Chemistry) .. .. .	2,000

In addition to his optional subject in Class II. a candidate may take up Freehand Drawing, for which 400 marks will be allotted. From the marks for Freehand Drawing such proportional deduction will be made as will prevent indifferent draughtsmanship from receiving any credit.

A candidate cannot take up the same modern language both as an obligatory and as an optional subject.

If a candidate takes up both French and German, the language for which he obtains the higher marks will be reckoned as his obligatory language.

The optional subjects in Class II. have no counting minimum of marks.

* For table of subjects, see sub-paragraph 6 (g) of this memorandum.

† In the case of candidates for commissions in the Regular Army through the Special Reserve, Territorial Force, &c., and the Colonial Military Forces, certain literary qualifications will, as hitherto, be accepted in lieu of qualification at an Army Entrance Examination.

‡ These two examinations will be held to suit the convenience of the candidates mentioned in paragraph 6 (d). Candidates for admission to the R.M. Academy and R.M. College by competition should not attend these examinations, as certificates thus gained would carry no exemption in their case.

(ii.) English History and Geography .. .. .	2,000
(iii.) Mathematics A (Elementary) .. .. .	2,000

(f) Mathematics C (Higher) .. .. .	2,000

In addition to his two optional subjects in Class II., a candidate may take up Freehand Drawing, for which 400 marks will be allotted. From the marks for Freehand Drawing such proportional deduction will be made as will prevent indifferent draughtsmanship from receiving any credit.

A candidate cannot take up the same modern language both as an obligatory and as an optional subject.

If a candidate takes up both French and German, the language for which he obtains the higher marks will be reckoned as his obligatory language.

The optional subjects in Class II. have no counting minimum of marks.

A candidate (other than a candidate for a Cavalry cadetship, a Guards cadetship, or for the West India Regiment) may present himself for admission to the Royal Military Academy or Royal Military College at the same examination, expressing a preference for one or the other institution. A candidate who so presents himself will count for the Royal Military College his marks in the obligatory subjects for the Royal Military College and the best two of his remaining subjects.

Attention is drawn to the following points in the above tables of subjects:—

- (i.) The subjects "Elementary Mathematics," "Mathematics I." and "Mathematics II." in the present Army Qualifying or Competitive Examinations are re-named "Mathematics A (Elementary)," "Mathematics B," and "Mathematics C (Higher)," respectively.
- (ii.) One modern language (French or German) is an obligatory subject for either the Royal Military Academy or Royal Military College.
- (iii.) In addition to "Mathematics B," Science is included in the obligatory subjects for the Royal Military Academy, and is an optional subject for the Royal Military College.
- (iv.) The obligatory subjects for the Royal Military Academy and Royal Military College are six and four in number, respectively. Candidates can exercise no option in the obligatory subjects to be taken up, except in the case of the one modern language, for which they can select either French or German.
- (v.) Latin and Greek are each given an independent status as optional subjects only.

Both can therefore be taken up by a candidate who competes for admission to the Royal Military College. As, however, only one optional subject is allowed for the Royal Military Academy, a candidate for that institution cannot take up both Latin and Greek.

- (vi.) The subject "History" (not "English History and Geography"), at present an optional subject in the competitive examination only, ceases to be a subject for either the Royal Military Academy or Royal Military College.

- (vii.) The qualifying minimum for obligatory subjects is 33 per cent.

- (viii.) The total marks allotted to each subject, except Freehand Drawing, remain unaltered at 2,000.

The total marks allotted to Freehand Drawing are raised from 250 to 400 (a deduction will be made to prevent indifferent draughtsmanship receiving any credit).

- (ix.) A candidate in possession of "Certificate A," obtained in the Officers Training Corps will continue to be entitled to add 200 marks to his aggregate.

- (x.) The syllabuses of the various subjects will be slightly modified to meet the new conditions under which the Army Entrance Examination is to be held.

The revised syllabuses, which will be issued shortly, will be embodied in the regulations which will come into force from April 1, 1912.

- (xi.) Applications to attend an Army Entrance Examination, either as a competitor for admission to the Royal Military Academy or Royal Military College (see sub-paragraph 6 (c) above), or for the purpose of qualifying only (see sub-paragraph 6 (d) above), will be made to the Secretary, Civil Service Commission, under conditions similar to those under which applications for admission to the competitive examinations are now made.
