DRAFT ORDINANCES.

MINUTE.

The following Draft of a proposed Ordinance is published for general information :—

An Ordinance to make better provision for the Administration of the Estates of Deceased Persons, and to amend, and add to, certain provisions of "The Civil Procedure Code, 1889," relating thereto.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make better provision for the administration of the estates of deceased persons, and to amend in certain respects, and add to, certain provisions of "The Civil Procedure Code, 1889," relating thereto: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of Ceylon, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, as follows:

Commencement.

1 This Ordinance shall come into operation at such time as the Governor shall, by Proclamation in the "Government Gazette," appoint.

Repeal.

2 There shall be repealed as from the commencement of this Ordinance so much of "The Civil Procedure Code, 1889," as is specified in schedule A hereto, and so much of any other Ordinance as is inconsistent with this Ordinance.

Interpretation clause.

3 In this Ordinance the expressions "This Code" and "The Civil Procedure Code" shall mean "The Civil Procedure Code, 1889."

Registrars of Deaths to register value of estates of deceased persons, and to report on such value to Government Agents and District Courts. Vidane Arachchies also to report. Government Agents to have right to intervene in testamentary proceedings to contest valuation.

Estate of person dying intestate or leaving a will without an executor to vest in court until issue of letters of administration. On issue of letters estate to vest in administrator. No executor or administrator to be deemed to be divested of title to immovable property of estate until execution by him of formal conveyance.

4. It shall be the duty of every Registrar of Deaths on receiving information of a death under the provisions of Ordinance No. 1 of 1895 to make inquiry and ascertain to the best of his power whether the estate and effects left by the deceased amount to or exceed in value one thousand rupees, and if after inquiry he has reason to believe that such estate and effects are of such value, to enter the fact in a special column in the register, and also to report the same forthwith to the Government Agent of the Province within which he officiates as Registrar, and to the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the death occurred. It shall also be the duty of the Vidane Arachchi of each district to report to the Government Agent of the Province, at such times and in such manner and form as the Government Agent shall prescribe, the death of any resident in his district leaving property amounting to or exceeding in value one thousand rupees. Every Government Agent shall have the right to intervene in any testamentary or administration proceedings in any court as a party thereto for the purpose, if he deems necessary, of contesting the correctness of the valuation of the estate and effects of any deceased person by an executor or administrator or other person.

5. When any person shall, after the coming into operation of this Ordinance, die (a) intestate and leaving property amounting to or exceeding in value one thousand rupees, or (b) leaving a will whereof he has appointed no executor, or whereof the person appointed executor has predeceased such person, and there is no provision in the will for the substitution of any other person as executor, or (c) leaving a will whereof the person appointed as executor is unwilling to act as such, or after being noticed by the court having jurisdiction to grant probate of such will to take steps to obtain probate neglects or refuses to do so, or is deemed by such court for any cause whatever to be unfit or unsuitable to be entrusted with the administration of the estate and effects of the deceased, and in cases falling under any of the alternatives under head (c) the court makes a record of the fact or facts therein mentioned, the title to the entirety of the estate and effects of such person and to all property movable and immovable left by him of whatsoever nature and wheresoever situated, shall vest in the court having jurisdiction to issue letters of administration in respect of the estate and effects of such person until such court issues such letters. And where such person has died out of Ceylon, the title to such property as aforesaid shall vest in the Supreme Court until such court shall have made order under section 518 of the Civil Procedure Code appointing any District Court to have sole testamentary jurisdiction over the estate and effects of the deceased, when it shall vest in such District Court until it issues letters of administration as aforesaid. Provided that no Judge of any court or any other officer thereof shall be subject to any liability, civil or criminal, by reason of title to property having vested in such court as aforesaid, or be liable to any proceedings at the instance of any person whomsoever for any official act of commission or omission in respect of such estate and effects as aforesaid; and provided also that when letters of administration as aforesaid are issued, such title as aforesaid shall vest exclusively in the administrator whose rights, duties, and liabilities shall, except as provided by this Ordinance, be the same as under the law heretofore in force; and provided further that nothing in this Ordinance shall affect the power of District Courts to issue as heretofore letters of administration in respect of the estate and effects of persons dying intestate leaving property below the value of one thousand rupees; and provided also that before a court makes a record that an executor nominated by a deceased testator is unfit or unsuitable to be entrusted with the administration of the estates and effects of the deceased, it shall, with notice to such executor, make full inquiry into the alleged causes of unfitness or unsuitability, and adjudicate upon the issues arising with reference thereto.

No executor or administrator shall be deemed to be divested of title to any immovable property vested in him as such, unless and until he or the court shall have executed a conveyance in the manner and form hereinafter, to wit, in sections

732 and 733 of the Civil Procedure Code provided, or he shall have executed such an instrument conveying such property as is required by law to be executed for the purpose of conveying an interest in immovable property. Provided that nothing herein contained shall affect his liability to be divested of title to such property by any other means provided by law.

6 The following section shall be substituted for section 541 of the Civil Procedure Code :

Court may require an executor to give security at any stage of testamentary proceedings, and may limit the amount of security to be given by an administrator.

In cases of the issue of probate security shall not ordinarily be required, but the court may at any time at any stage of testamentary proceedings make order, for reasons to be recorded by it, requiring an executor to give security for the due administration of the estate to such extent and in such form as to the court may seem expedient; and in cases where the grant of administration is limited in regard to the dealing with the property which is the subject thereof, it shall be within the discretion of the court to dispense with the giving of the bond under section 538, and in all cases the court may limit the amount secured by the bond to the value of the movable property which appears to the court likely to come into the hands of the administrator and to be liable to misappropriation. Provided that every order dispensing with the bond or limiting the amount to be secured thereby in cases of administration shall adjudicate upon the facts upon which the court intends it to rest.

7 The following proviso shall be added to section 545 of the Civil Procedure Code :

Provided that in any case in which the court in its discretion issues letters of administration to the Public Trustee constituted by the Public Trustee Act, 1906 (6 Edward VII., chapter 55), or to any person applying for him or on his account, such trustee or person shall not be required to give any security for the due administration of the estate, but he shall be subject to the same liabilities and duties as if he had given such security.

8 The following further proviso shall be added to section 547 of the Civil Procedure Code :

Title of heirs who have possessed an intestate's estate regarding it as an estate less than one thousand rupees in value.

Provided further that in the case of any person who has died intestate since the coming into operation of this Code, if his heirs shall during a period of at least five years have possessed or dealt with property belonging to his estate as if letters of administration to such estate had not been necessary, the title to such property of the said heirs or those claiming title under them shall not be deemed invalid by reason only that letters of administration to the said estate have not issued.

9 The following sections numbered as hereunder shall be added to chapter LIV. of the Civil Procedure Code and inserted after section 721 :

No action to be instituted by an executor or administrator without the leave of court.

722. It shall not be competent to an executor or administrator to institute, without the express sanction of the court previously obtained, an action for the recovery of any property belonging to the estate which is being administered by him, or, without such sanction as aforesaid, to institute any action or legal proceeding whatever for and on behalf of such estate. The court shall not allow such sanction unless it is satisfied that the estate cannot be further administered without the institution of such action, or that it is to the manifest advantage of those interested in the estate that such action should be instituted.

Summary procedure for the recovery of debts admitted to be due to the estate of the deceased.

723. In the case of any debt due to the estate the executor or administrator shall apply to the court in which the estate is being administered for a notice on the debtor requiring him to appear before such court and admit or deny the debt. The court shall thereupon either issue such notice or issue a commission to any other District Court or Court of Requests empowering and directing it to issue such notice, and such court shall thereupon issue such notice.

If the person noticed fail to appear before the court that has issued notice, or appear before it and admit the debt or any part of it, such court, if it be the court in which the estate is being administered, shall forthwith enter up a decree in favour of the executor or administrator for the amount of the debt or the amount admitted, or, if it be the court to which a commission was issued as aforesaid, shall report to the court that issued such commission the fact of default or of admission as aforesaid, and such last-mentioned court shall thereupon enter a decree as aforesaid. Where it is sought to enforce a right of sale under a mortgage, the provisions of section 201 shall apply to the decree. A decree entered under this section shall be capable of execution in the same manner as a decree in a civil action under this Code, and if entered for default shall be liable to be opened up for cause shown to the satisfaction of the court that has entered up such decree. An order as to costs of proceedings under this section shall be in the discretion of such court.

Course to be adopted as regards debts not admitted.

724. If on notice served as provided in the last preceding section the person noticed appear before the court that issued notice and deny the debt or any portion thereof, such court, if it be not the court in which the estate is being administered, shall forthwith report the fact of such denial to the court in which the estate is being administered, and the latter court shall thereupon, or if the denial of the debt or part thereof be made to it direct in the first instance, either authorize the executor or administrator to institute a regular action for the recovery of such amount, or shall direct the executor or administrator to assign to the devisees under the will or heirs the debt or so much thereof as has been denied; provided that the court shall always adopt the latter course, unless, in consequence of the indebtedness of the estate or by reason of any inconvenience that is likely to ensue to heirs, their number being large, or for some other good and sufficient reason, the court deems it expedient to order otherwise.

Debtors to the estate may pay debts into court and obtain receipts.

725. It shall be competent to any person indebted to the estate of a deceased person that is being administered in any court, or who becomes a debtor to an executor or administrator as such after the grant of probate or letters of administration, to pay into such court to the credit of the estate any sum of money in full or part satisfaction of his debt. The court shall thereupon receive such sum of money and grant to the person paying a receipt therefor, and give notice to the executor or administrator of the fact of such payment.

The court to order executor or administrator to pay debts and sell property to enable him to do so.

726. The court may at any time require an executor or administrator to pay forthwith any debt due by the estate out of funds in his hands or in deposit in court to the credit of the estate. The court may also at any time order, after notice to parties interested, if it deems such notice expedient, and subject to such terms and conditions as it deems proper, the sale of any property belonging to the estate to enable the executor or administrator to pay any debt that he may at any time be required by the court to pay; and it shall be the duty of the executor or administrator to pay such debt or sell such property when so ordered.

Notice of action in any court against executor or administrator to be given by such court to court in which estate is being administered. Executor or administrator not to consent to judgment without leave of court.

727. When an action is instituted against an executor who has obtained probate or an administrator in a court other than that in which the estate is being administered, it shall be the duty of the Judge of such court to give forthwith notice of such action to the court in which such estate is being administered, and it shall not be competent to an executor or administrator against whom an action has been instituted in his representative capacity to consent to judgment in such action without the express sanction of the court in which the estate is being administered.

Executors and administrators to register addresses in court.

728. It shall be the duty of every executor or administrator to register his address in court, and to notify to the court any change of address. An executor or administrator failing to register his address or notify any change of address shall be guilty of an offence, and be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Executor or administrator failing to attend court when noticed to be guilty of contempt, and to be liable to punishment.

729. An executor or administrator who fails to attend the court in which the estate is being administered when noticed to do so by such court, the notice being served on him personally or left at his registered address, shall be liable to be fined by such court as for contempt. The fine that the court may so impose may be any sum not exceeding one hundred rupees, and it may be imposed in the absence of the executor or administrator and without his being called upon to show cause against such punishment, and such fine may be recovered as directed in section 799 of this Code. Provided, however, the court may on the application of an executor or administrator so fined in his absence may on sufficient cause being shown by him explaining his default remit the whole or any portion of the fine imposed on him.

Executors and administrators to be liable to pay costs of notices necessitated by their defaults.

730. The court may in its discretion condemn an executor or administrator to pay personally the costs of any notice issued on him at the instance of the court, where such notice is necessitated by any default on the part of such executor or administrator, and such costs may be recovered by execution issued at the instance of the court as in the case of a decree for the payment of money in an ordinary civil action.

Executors who are created trustees by will to carry out trusts which cannot be executed within twelve months to carry out such trusts thereafter without reference to Court.

731. Where a will directs possession of any property by the executor named therein for the purpose of carrying out any general or special trust which cannot be carried out within a period of twelve months from the date of the grant of probate, or where by the will the executor is charged with any trust which cannot be conveniently executed within such period, the executor shall not be required or permitted to execute such trust in his capacity as executor, but he shall file his account under section 553 and close the estate, taking over such property as may be available for carrying out such trust, and carry out the same as a mere trustee without further reference to the court, or being subject to its orders in the testamentary proceedings.

Form of conveyance of property by executors and administrators to devisees and heirs.

732. For the purpose of conveying immovable property to a devisee or heir, an executor or administrator may make out and execute a conveyance in duplicate before the Judge or Secretary of the court in which the estate is being administered according to the form in schedule B hereto, or in such other form or expressed in such other terms as the court may deem expedient. Such conveyance shall be binding and of force although not executed before a notary public. The Judge or the Secretary shall take charge of the duplicate and transmit the same to the Registrar of Lands for the district in which the land conveyed is situated in like manner as now is, or hereafter shall be, required to be done by notaries in respect of deeds executed before them. Such conveyance shall not on execution be liable to any stamp duty.

Where an executor or administrator omits to convey property the Judge may do so for him.

733. If an executor or administrator decline or omit to execute a conveyance of immovable property in favour of a devisee or heir when required by the court to do so, the Judge may execute such conveyance on behalf of the party in default. Such conveyance shall have the same effect as if it were executed by the party ordered to do so, and shall be subject to the provisions of section 732.

Appeals from orders under this chapter to be treated as interlocutory appeals.

10 Section 722 of the Civil Procedure Code shall be numbered 734, and the following words added thereto: "And such appeal shall be treated as an appeal from an interlocutory order and disposed of as speedily as possible."

11 The following chapter shall be substituted for chapter LV. of the Civil Procedure Code:

CHAPTER LV.

Of the Settlement of the Accounts of Executors and Administrators and the Partition of the immovable Property of the Estate.

Intermediate accounting, voluntary.

735. An executor or administrator may at any time voluntarily file in the court from which grant of probate or administration issued to him an intermediate account, and the vouchers in support of the same.

Intermediate accounting, compulsory.

Extension of time for filing account under section 553, and contesting correctness of items therein and orders thereupon.

Partition of immovable property of estate according to scheme agreed to by heirs.

Court may settle scheme of partition where heirs cannot agree. Sale of property where partition is impracticable. Remedy of heir prejudiced by deceased's title to portion allotted to him being defective.

Issue of commission to appraise or survey property to be sold. Purchase by several persons jointly not to be permitted if joint possession of property sold be deemed to be inexpedient.

736. The court may in any case at any time, and either upon application of a creditor or party interested or of its own motion, make an order requiring an executor or administrator to render an intermediate account.

737. The court may at any time on sufficient cause shown by an executor or administrator extend the time for filing the account mentioned in section 553, and on such account being filed, the court shall issue notice thereof to such persons as the court may deem to be interested in such account. It shall be lawful for any person whom the court may deem to have an interest in the estate of the deceased to contest the correctness of any item in such account or to claim the insertion of any further item therein. In the case of any such contest or claim the court shall summarily inquire into the same, framing, if necessary, issues that may appear to it to arise between parties interested or between any one or more of them and the executor or administrator, and in such inquiry adjudicate upon all matters in issue and amend the account accordingly. An adjudication under this section shall, subject to appeal, be final and conclusive between the parties to any contest as aforesaid. Provided that if after such inquiry as aforesaid any question appear to the court to be a fit and proper subject for decision in a separate regular action, the court may refer the parties interested in such question to such an action and accept the said account subject to amendment or further amendment after the decision of such action. Provided further that if, where such account is filed, it appear to the court to be deficient in any respect, the court may refuse to accept it, and return the same to the executor or administrator for amendment.

738. For the purpose of facilitating the final distribution of an estate by an administrator, the heirs may agree to a scheme of partition of the immovable property, and submit the same to the court for approval. If the same be approved by the court, the partition proposed may be sanctioned by it, and thereupon the administrator shall grant conveyances under section 732 in terms of such scheme. Provided that the court shall not approve such scheme if it involves joint possession of any separate portion of land or other immovable property by two or more persons, and it appears to the court to be inexpedient to allow such joint possession.

739. If the heirs cannot agree to such a scheme of partition as is mentioned in section 738, or the court does not approve any scheme submitted as aforesaid, the court may cite all such parties as to it may seem to be interested in the immovable property of the estate and, after such inquiry as it may deem to be necessary, settle a scheme of partition, and direct the administrator to grant conveyances under section 732 accordingly. Provided that if the court find it impracticable to partition such property, it may direct the sale of the right, title, and interest of the deceased in and to such property or any portion thereof on such terms as to it may seem desirable and divide the proceeds among those entitled thereto. Provided further that, in the event of partition, if it be found after partition that any heir is prejudiced by reason of the title of the deceased to the portion allotted to him being defective, such heir shall be entitled to recover his loss pro rata from his co-heirs. The right to such recovery shall be barred in six months after the discovery by the heir of the defect in the title of the deceased.

740. For the purpose of enabling the court to decide whether property should be partitioned or sold as provided in section 739, the court may issue a commission to any person or persons to appraise or survey the said property or any portion thereof, and direct such remuneration as it may deem to be adequate to be paid to such person or persons but of the estate, and in the event of a decree for sale the court may prohibit the acceptance of a bid by more than one person or by one person on behalf of several for the property of the estate or any portion thereof, and may refuse to sanction the completion of the sale of such property or portion thereof in favour of more than one person, if the court deems it inexpedient to allow more than one person to be joint owners of such property or portion thereof.

Colonial Secretary.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

THIS Ordinance is intended, in the main, to facilitate the administration of the estates of deceased persons. In addition to provisions directly serving this purpose, it contains provisions intended to check the undervaluation of estates and to force into court estates that are by law required to be administered, to ensure an unbroken chain of title from the deceased to property left by him, to prevent as far as practicable the subdivision of the property left by a deceased person into infinitesimal shares, and to enable the Public Trustee constituted by "The Public Trustee Act, 1906," and those representing him to obtain letters of administration, whenever necessary, without giving security for the due administration of the estate.

2. It is made the duty of Registrars of Deaths and native headmen of the rank of Vidane Arachchi to report to Government Agents the death of every person who dies leaving an estate which, so far as they can ascertain, is of sufficient value to require administration; and Government Agents are given the right of contesting the correctness of the valuation of the estates that are being administered.

3. The indiscriminate and unnecessary institution of actions by administrators is provided against, and facility afforded them to recover uncontested claims without recourse to regular actions.

4. The present cumbersome procedure for the judicial settlement of estates is repealed, and a simpler and more effective method of judicially settling the accounts of administrators is substituted in its place.

5. Provision is also made for the termination, more speedily than under the present practice, of proceedings, so far as the bare administration of the estate is concerned, in cases in which executors have been appointed as trustees in respect of trusts which it would take a long term of years to carry out.

6. In order to ensure a proper chain of title from the deceased to property belonging to his estate, and also to prevent the alienation of such property without administration by those claiming to be heirs, it is provided that the estate of a person dying intestate should, in the first instance, vest in the court. The necessary restrictions and safeguards are provided for in the Ordinance to protect the interests of the heirs.

7. As regards the prevention of the subdivision of property into infinitesimal shares, it is provided that where those interested cannot agree to a proper scheme for division, the court may, as a step in administration, partition the estate among the heirs, or, when such partition is impracticable, sell property and divide the proceeds.

8. The provision to enable the Public Trustee under the Act referred to in section 7 to apply for and obtain letters of administration without giving the usual security is similar to that in the English Act. There is always the security of the British Government in the case of administration by the Public Trustee.
