NOTIFICATIONS UNDER "THE PATENTS ORDINANCE, 1906."

THE following Specifications have been accepted:—

No. 1,370 of September 20, 1913 (date applied for under section 50 of the Ordinance, May 13, 1912).

James Begg.

"Improvements in spreaders for tea leaf and the like."

Abstract:—

The object of this invention is to provide means for spreading the tea leaf and the like on floors or trays by passing a moving hopper or spreader over the surface desired to be covered, in such a manner that an even spread to the desired depth of the material being treated may be obtained, the means, with certain modifications, being applicable to the stationary hopper spreading the material on moving trays, tables, or webs, or the like. The invention is specially applicable to the spreading of tea leaf in the fermenting house, where hitherto the spreading has been done by hand, but its use is not confined to that purpose.

The claims are:—

1. In a spreader for tea leaf and the like, means for moving the spreader over the surface desired to be covered, substantially as described.
2. In a spreader for tea leaf and the like such as firstly claimed, means for guiding the moving of the spreader consisting of rails or guides, substantially as described.
3. In a spreader for tea leaf and the like such as firstly claimed, means for driving the rake and agitator shaft and propelling arrangements, substantially as described.
4. The combination with a stationary spreader for tea leaf and the like, of means for passing trays on which the material is spread under the spreader, consisting of an endless band or reverse travelling table, whether or not such band or table is driven from the same shaft as the spreader, substantially as described.
5. The arrangement and combination of the various parts, substantially as described and illustrated in figures 1 and 2 of the drawings.
6. The method of laying the rails or guides as illustrated in figure 5 of the drawings, or in a spiral, as described.

Two sheets of drawings.

No. 1,415 of May 14, 1914.

"Improvements in or relating to apparatus for feeding and spreading tea leaf and other similar substances."

Abstract:—

This invention relates to apparatus for feeding and spreading tea leaf and similar substances in even layers of varying thickness according to conditions or requirements upon a surface which usually takes the form of an endless web or row of trays passing below the spreader at an uniform rate, or it may be employed for only feeding tea or other materials into a stationary hopper.

According to this invention there are placed in the base of a hopper a series of oscillating rockers, each alternate rocker oscillating to and fro in opposite direction to the others. The action of the rockers is such as to keep the mass of the leaf in the hopper in motion so that rakes or stirrers to prevent bridging are not essential. The alternate opening and closing of the space between the ends of the rockers and the hopper sides allows the leaf to fall through in two fine streams.

The alternating series of rockers which move in opposite directions may be mounted on parallel shafts, or one shaft may be employed with means for rocking the alternate series of rockers in the manner described. The sides of the hopper may be pivoted and made adjustable in regard to the rockers.

The claims are :—

1. Apparatus for feeding and spreading tea leaf and other similar substances, comprising a hopper or the like having an open base in which is placed a series of oscillating rockers mounted side by side in a row or rows, along an axis or adjacent axes from which the rockers extend laterally, each alternate rocker oscillating to and fro in an opposite direction to the others.
2. Apparatus as claimed in the preceding claim wherein the rockers are of an inverted V-shaped in cross section, substantially as set forth.
3. Apparatus as claimed in the preceding claims wherein the travel of one side of each rocker is greater than that of the other side, substantially as and for the purpose set forth.
4. Apparatus as claimed in the preceding claims wherein a group or series of rockers comprising every alternate rocker is mounted on one shaft and the remaining rockers are mounted on another shaft, the two shafts being placed side by side beneath the rockers, substantially as set forth.
5. Apparatus wherein the rockers are arranged as claimed in claim 3 and are mounted on two shafts which are placed one above the other beneath the rockers, one series or group of which is slotted, substantially as and for the purpose set forth.
6. Apparatus as claimed in the preceding claims wherein the sides of the hopper can be moved towards or away from each other, substantially as set forth.
7. Apparatus as claimed in the preceding claims wherein the rockers are provided with extended toe pieces at the sides, substantially as and for the purpose set forth.
8. The improved apparatus for feeding and spreading tea leaf and other similar substances, substantially as described with reference to figs. 1 to 4 of the accompanying drawings and subject to the modifications referred to, and to the modification described with reference to figs. 5 and 6 of the accompanying drawings.

Two sheets of drawings.
