Provided that no such street or part of the street shall become a public street and so repairable if, within one month after such notice has been published and exhibited, the owners of the greater part in value of the premises fronting on such street or part of the street have by notification in writing under their hands to the local authority objected thereto.

(4) Where one or some only of the said works have been done under this section, the declaration of the said street or part of the street as a public street shall not preclude the local authority from resolving from time to time to do any other of the said works with respect to such street or part of the street, or from recovering the expenses thereof in the same manner provided by this section.

CHAPTER III.

Back Lanes.

Land to be set apart for
back lanes.
Straits, 1913,
s. 136.

25 (1) The Chairman shall not approve of the plan of any building unless—

- (a) The open space required to be left under rule 5 of the schedule to this Ordinance is shown to abut on a back lane of such width not exceeding twenty feet as may be required by the Chairman; or
- (b) The person submitting the plan shall set apart a strip of his land sufficient, with or without other land previously so set apart, to form a back lane of such width not exceeding twenty feet as may be required by the Chairman.

(2) Such back lane shall, where the Chairman so requires, be situated so as to communicate at each end thereof with the land set apart or to be set apart for a back lane by the owners of the properties on each side thereof, and the same shall wherever possible open upon public streets at both ends, and shall in all cases be free from obstruction throughout.

(3) Where any land is set apart under this section for a back lane, the Chairman shall prepare a plan of the land comprised in such back lane, and shall by writing under his hand declare that the same be taken for a back lane, and shall register the same, together with the plan, in accordance with any Ordinance for the time being regulating the registration of deeds of title to land; and upon such registration the land comprised in such plan shall be deemed to have vested in the local authority, and shall be free from all encumbrances thereon.

(4) Compensation shall be paid by the local authority to the owner of land set apart to form a back lane where at the date the plan was submitted such land was covered by buildings, but not otherwise.

(5) In cases where such setting apart would cause a severance of land belonging to the owner from other land forming part of the same holding, no compensation shall be paid for such severance; but if the lesser portion of the land so severed shall have been rendered useless as a building site on account of the severance, and if the owner so requires, the local authority shall acquire such lesser portion, and shall pay in respect thereof compensation in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(6) No compensation under this section shall be paid until sufficient land has been set apart or otherwise acquired to enable the local authority to form a back lane extending from one public street or back lane to another public street or back lane, or until the expiration of two years from the date of the setting apart, whichever shall first happen.

Back lanes to be constructed by the local authority.

26 (1) The local authority shall properly construct all back lanes set apart or laid out under this chapter when sufficient land has been so set apart or laid out to enable it to form a back lane extending from one public street or back lane to another public street or back lane.

(2) The cost of constructing back lanes shall be borne by the local authority, and may be recovered from the several owners of the land out of which any was set apart or through whose land the back lane is laid out, in such proportions as the area of the land set apart or laid out bears to the whole area of the land forming the back lane of which it forms a part, and such proportionate share due by any owner may be recovered in the same manner and by the same process as a rate.

Means of access to back lanes to be provided.

27 (1) When any back lane is formed, the owner shall provide to the satisfaction of the Chairman a means of access and egress to and from his premises to such back lane for scavenging purposes, and if the owner fails to provide the same within a reasonable time, the Chairman or any officer authorized by him in that behalf may enter the premises and do whatever may be necessary to provide the same, and the amount of the expenses so incurred shall be recoverable from the owner in the same manner and by the same process as a rate.

(2) No person shall erect or maintain or permit to be erected or maintained any obstruction in or over any back lane, and the local authority may where any such obstruction exists take down and remove the same.

CHAPTER IV.

General.

By-laws for regulating and preserving character of special areas.

28 The local authority may by by-law approved by the Governor in Executive Council—

(a) Declare that any area within its administrative limits shall be reserved for buildings of a residential, manufacturing, commercial, or any other special character; and

(b) Make such regulations with reference to buildings in such area as may be necessary to preserve its amenity or to facilitate and secure the purposes for which any such reservation is made.

39 An improvement scheme shall be of one of the following types, or may combine any two or more of such types, that is to say :

- (a) A general improvement scheme ;
- (b) A redistribution scheme ;
- (c) A rehousing scheme ;
- (d) A housing accommodation scheme ;
- (e) A street scheme ;
- (f) A street intersection scheme ;
- (g) A back lane scheme ; and
- (h) A building scheme.

General improvement scheme.

40 Whenever it appears to any Board of Improvement Commissioners or to any local authority that within the administrative limits of the Board or the authority—

- (a) Any buildings which are used or are intended or are likely to be used as dwelling places are unfit for human habitation ; or
- (b) Danger to the health of the inhabitants of buildings in any area or in any neighbouring building is caused by—
  - (i.) The narrowness, closeness, and bad arrangement and condition of streets or buildings or groups of buildings in such area ; or
  - (ii.) The want of light or ventilation or proper conveniences in such area ; or
  - (iii.) Any other sanitary defects in such area ; and that the most satisfactory method of dealing with the evils connected with such buildings and the sanitary defects in such area is a general improvement scheme, the Board or the local authority may pass a resolution to the effect that such area is an insanitary area, and that a general improvement scheme ought to be framed in respect of such area, and may then proceed to frame such a scheme.

Redistribution schemes.

41 (1) Where in any area which is declared by resolution under the last preceding section to be an insanitary area, the authority so declaring shall further resolve—

- (a) That the buildings comprised in such area are so crowded together or so confusedly and irregularly situated that an effective system of scavenging and drainage is not reasonably practicable ;
- (b) That regard being had to the comparative value of such buildings and the sites upon which they are erected, the most satisfactory method of dealing with the area is a redistribution of sites ;

in any such case, and in any case in which the owners of at least two-thirds of the area shall petition the authority in favour of such a course, the authority may frame a scheme (herein called a "redistribution scheme") upon the basis of a redistribution of the sites.

(2) A redistribution scheme shall provide for the following matters :

- (a) A redistribution of the sites of the area among the existing owners ;
- (b) The reservation of such streets, back lanes, and open spaces that may be necessary for the service of the redistributed sites ;
- (c) The payment of compensation to the owners of sites assigned under the scheme in respect of any portion of such assigned sites as may be appropriated for streets and open spaces, subject to the deduction of an equitable contribution by such owners ;
- (d) The construction of such streets, back lanes, and open spaces, and the recovery of the cost of such construction from the owners of the sites abutting thereon in proportion to the length of the premises so abutting.
- (e) The demolition of the existing buildings and their appurtenances by the owners or by the authority in default of the owners, and the erection of buildings by the said owners upon the sites assigned under the scheme in accordance with the scheme ;

(f) The advance to the owners upon such terms and conditions as to interest and sinking fund and otherwise as may be prescribed under the scheme of such sums as may be necessary to assist them to erect new buildings in accordance with the scheme, and if any owner shall so require, in addition to such sum, a further sum not exceeding one year's rental of the original building belonging to such owner.

(3) For the purpose of framing any such scheme, it shall be the duty of the Chairman of the authority to call a meeting of the owners of the various sites comprised in the area, or their various representatives, and endeavour to arrange in consultation with them a redistribution of sites approved by the owners of at least two-thirds of the area. If the Chairman shall succeed in arranging such a redistribution, he shall report to the authority accordingly, and the authority shall thereupon proceed with the scheme. If he shall not succeed in arranging such a redistribution, he shall report to the authority accordingly, and the scheme shall be abandoned.

(4) For the purpose of facilitating such an arrangement, provision may be made—

(a) For the payment of compensation to any individual owner for any special disadvantage in the site assigned to him;

(b) For the payment of an equivalent by any individual owner in respect of any special advantage in the site assigned to him, and for the disposal of any sum so paid; and

(c) For the acquisition by the authority of any building or site comprised in the area.

(5) The following persons, that is to say:

(a) The owner of any building comprised in the area who shall dissent from any such arrangement, and who shall satisfy the authority that the building is so situated that scavenging and drainage is reasonably practicable, and that none of its rooms are unfit for human habitation;

(b) Any lessor or lessee of any site or building comprised in the area who shall be unable to agree with his lessee or lessor with regard to their respective rights to the assigned site or any building to be erected thereon, may at any time within one month after the making of any such arrangement require the authority to acquire the building or site in question. Any person aggrieved by a refusal of the authority to make any acquisition required under paragraph (a) may appeal to the Tribunal of Appeal.

(6) Any owner of any site or building comprised in the area dissenting from any arrangement under sub-section (3) who shall be aggrieved at the site assigned to him may appeal to the Tribunal of Appeal, and the Tribunal on such appeal may award to such owner such compensation, if any, as in the opinion of the Tribunal he may be equitably entitled to.

(7) Upon a redistribution scheme being sanctioned by the Governor in Executive Council—

(a) All leases with respect to any building or site comprised in the area; and

(b) All rights of occupancy under any tenancy in existence at the date of the sanctioning of the scheme, shall be deemed to be terminated, if not previously terminated by agreement, on the expiration of the period prescribed under the scheme in that behalf.

(8) Any sum awarded as compensation to the owner of any property comprised in the area in respect of—

(a) Any portion of a site appropriated for streets or open spaces under sub-section (2) (c);

(b) Any special disadvantage in an assigned site under sub-section (4) (a);

(c) Any grievance by an owner appealing under sub-section (6), shall be paid by the authority framing the scheme, and may be recovered from the owners of the other properties comprised in the area in proportion to the assessed annual value of their original properties in the same manner and by the same process as a rate.

(9) Upon any improvement scheme made under this section being sanctioned by the Governor in Executive Council, the various sites respectively assigned to the various owners under such scheme shall vest in such owners in the same shares and to the extent of the same interests as the original sites, and all the right, title, and interests of such owners in the original sites, and all servitudes affecting the original sites, shall be extinguished, and the sites assigned to such owners, together with all buildings erected thereon, shall be subject to the same encumbrances, charges, trusts, fidei commissa, and all other restrictions on alienation or liabilities (other than servitudes) as the original sites.

(10) It shall be the duty of the authority framing the scheme to issue to all owners of sites comprised in the scheme a certificate under the seal of the authority, with a plan attached, certifying that the assigned site shown in the plan has been assigned to the owners thereof under the improvement scheme in substitution of the original site belonging to such owners also shown in the plan, and every such certificate so issued shall be a sufficient document of title, and in all legal proceedings shall be presumed to be genuine until the contrary is shown.

Rehousing
scheme.
*Calcutta
Improvement
Act, s. 52.*

42 (1) A Board of Improvement Commissioners or a local authority may frame schemes (herein called "rehousing schemes") for the construction, maintenance, and management of such and so many dwellings and shops as they may consider ought to be provided for persons of the poorer and labouring classes who—

- (a) Are displaced by the execution of any improvement scheme sanctioned under this Ordinance; or
- (b) Are likely to be displaced by the execution of any improvement scheme which may be sanctioned under this Ordinance.

(2) The authority framing a rehousing scheme shall not itself construct dwellings or shops under the scheme, unless it is satisfied after due inquiry that no other person is willing and able to construct them, and is prepared to construct, maintain, and manage them under such control as may be provided for by the scheme.

Housing
scheme.

43 (1) Whenever any promoters satisfy any Board of Improvement Commissioners or local authority—

- (a) That housing accommodation is required in any part of its administrative limits for any particular class of the inhabitants of such limits;
- (b) That such accommodation cannot be provided in a satisfactory manner and on reasonable terms without the assistance of the Board or the local authority;
- (c) That the promoters are prepared to carry out a scheme of rebuilding in any area submitted by them under the control of the Board or the local authority;
- (d) That the carrying out of such a scheme would be for the public advantage, the Board or the local authority, as the case may be, may frame a scheme (herein called a "housing accommodation scheme") for the purpose aforesaid.

Street scheme.
*Bombay
Improvement
Act, s. 30.
Calcutta

44 (1) Whenever any Board of Improvement Commissioners or any local authority is of opinion that for the purpose of providing building sites, or of remedying the defective ventilation of any part of its administrative limits, or of creating new or increasing the existing means of communication and facilities for traffic between various parts of the said limits, or for improving or extending the amenities of the said limits, it is expedient to form new public streets or thoroughfares, or to alter existing public streets or thoroughfares in any part of the said limits, it may frame a scheme (herein called a "street scheme") for the purpose aforesaid.

(2) A street scheme—

(a) Shall within the limits of the area comprised in the scheme provide for—

- (i.) The acquisition of any land which will, in the opinion of the authority framing the scheme, be necessary for its execution;

(ii.) The relaying out of all or any land, including the construction and reconstruction of buildings, and the formation and alteration of streets and thoroughfares; and

(iii.) The draining and lighting of streets and thoroughfares so formed or altered;

(b) May within the limits aforesaid provide for—

(i.) Raising any land vested in or to be acquired by the authority which the authority may deem it expedient to raise for the purposes of the scheme;

(ii.) Forming open spaces for the better ventilation of the area comprised in the scheme or of any area occupied by buildings constructed under the next succeeding sub-section;

(iii.) The acquisition of any land adjoining any street, thoroughfare, or open space to be formed under the scheme; and

(c) May within and without the limits aforesaid provide for the construction of dwellings and shops for the accommodation of the poorer and labouring classes, including the whole or part of such classes to be displaced in the execution of such scheme.

(Original.)

(3) The owners of any properties fronting on any street, thoroughfare, or open space constructed under a street scheme shall not, unless account shall have been taken of the increased value accruing to such properties under section 75 (1), be entitled to make any use of the frontage of their properties abutting upon the street or open space without the consent of the authority framing the scheme. It shall be a condition of such consent that the owners shall pay to the authority a sum assessed by the Chairman of the authority equivalent to the increase in value accruing to such property by the execution of the scheme.

(4) Any person aggrieved by the assessment of any sum under the last preceding sub-section may appeal to the Tribunal of Appeal.

Street
scheme.

45 (1) Where in any area already in whole or in part occupied by buildings any local authority or any Board of Improvement Commissioners is of opinion that with a view to afford facilities for the building development of such area it is desirable that such area should be intersected by a new street or new streets, the local authority or the Board of Improvement Commissioners may at the request or with the consent of the owners of not less than two-thirds of the frontages of the proposed new street or streets make a scheme (herein called a "street intersection scheme") for the said purpose.

(2) For the purpose of any such scheme the authority framing the scheme shall acquire—

(a) Any land covered with buildings which it is necessary to acquire for the purpose of providing access to the proposed new street from existing streets; and

(b) Any other land covered with buildings situated within the lines of the proposed new street or streets.

No compensation shall be payable in respect of any other land within the lines of the proposed new street or streets, but all such land shall be deemed to be set apart by the owners for the purpose of the new street or streets.

(3) Where the acquisition of any land within the lines of the proposed new street or streets (not being land required for the purpose of providing access from existing streets), or the setting apart of any land for the purpose of the street, would cause a severance of land belonging to the owner from other land forming part of the same holding, no compensation shall be paid for such severance; but if the lesser portion of the land so severed shall have been rendered useless as a building site on account of the severance, and if the owner so requires, the authority framing the scheme shall acquire such lesser portion.

(4) The construction of the new street or streets shall be undertaken by the authority executing the scheme, and the cost of any work included in the construction of the street from time to time carried out by the authority shall be apportioned by the Chairman among the owners of the properties fronting upon the street in proportion to the lengths of their frontages, and shall be recoverable in the same manner and by the same process as a rate.

Provided that where the owner of any such frontage does not desire to make any use of the new street, and has taken effective means to the satisfaction of the authority framing the scheme to prevent access from his property into the street, the share of the cost apportioned upon the property of such owner shall not be recoverable until the owner of the property, with the assent of the authority, shall make use of the new street.

(5) Any person aggrieved by any apportionment under this section may appeal to the Tribunal of Appeal.

(6) Where any work referred to in sub-section (4) has been done under this section, the authority framing the scheme may, by notice published in the "Government Gazette" and exhibited in any part of such street, declare the same to be a public street, and thereupon the same shall be repairable and maintainable by the local authority to the extent to which any such work has been done.

Provided that no such street shall become a public street if, within one month after such notice has been published and exhibited, the owners of the greater part of the frontages of such street have by notification in writing under their hands to the local authority objected thereto.

(7) Where land has been acquired for the purpose of providing access to a new street from existing streets, the owners of the properties fronting on the land so acquired shall not (unless account shall have been taken of the increased value accruing to such properties under section 75 (1)) be entitled to make any use of the frontage of their properties abutting upon the street without the consent of the authority framing the scheme. It shall be a condition of such consent that the owners shall pay to the authority a sum, assessed by the Chairman of the authority, equivalent to the increase of value conferred upon such property by the making of the new street. Such sum shall be recoverable in the same manner and by the same process as a rate.

(8) Any person aggrieved by the assessment of any sum under the last preceding sub-section may appeal to the Tribunal of Appeal.

Back lane
scheme.
Cf. Straits, 1913,
s. 137

46 (1) Where in any area already in whole or in part occupied by buildings any local authority or any Board of Improvement Commissioners is of opinion that back lanes should be provided for the scavenging of such area, it may make a scheme (herein called a "back lane scheme") for the purpose of providing back lanes of a width not exceeding twenty feet for such area.

(2) For the purpose of any such scheme the authority framing the scheme shall acquire—

(a) Any land covered with buildings which it is necessary to acquire for the purpose of providing access to any proposed back lane from any existing street or back lane; and

(b) Any other land covered with buildings situated within the lines of the proposed back lanes.

No compensation shall be payable in respect of any other land within the lines of the proposed back lanes, but all such land shall be deemed to be set apart by the owners for the purpose of the proposed back lanes.

(3) Where the acquisition of any land within the lines of the proposed back lanes (not being land required for the purpose of providing access from any existing street or back lane), or the setting apart of any land for the purpose of the back lanes, would cause a severance of land belonging to the owner from other land forming part of the same holding, no compensation shall be paid for such severance; but if the lesser portion of the land so severed shall have been rendered useless as a building site on account of the severance, and if the owner so requires, the authority framing the scheme shall acquire such lesser portion.

(4) The construction of the proposed back lanes shall be undertaken by the authority executing the scheme, and the cost of such construction shall be apportioned by the Chairman of such authority among the several owners of the land out of which such back lanes were set apart and through whose lands they are laid out in such proportions as the area of the land set apart or laid out for any back lane bears to the whole area of the land forming the back lane of which it forms a part, and such proportionate share due by any owner may be recovered in the same manner and by the same process as a rate.

*Straits, §1913,
s. 100.*

47 (1) Whenever any Board of Improvement Commissioners or a local authority is of opinion that any land within its administrative limits is likely to be used for building purposes at an early date, it may frame a scheme (herein called a "building scheme") showing the streets, back lanes, and open spaces which it deems necessary to secure proper sanitary conditions, amenity, and convenience in connection with the laying out and use of such land and of any neighbouring lands.

(2) Any plan forming part of a scheme made under this section shall for the purposes of chapter II. of part II. of this Ordinance have the same effect as a plan approved by the Chairman under that chapter.

Provided that the duty imposed by section 22 thereof shall not attach to any person unless and until he shall submit a plan for the erection of a building on some part of the land comprised in the plan.

the scheme.
*Bombay
Improvement
Act, s. 27.

- (a) The fact of the scheme having been made;
- (b) The limits of the area comprised therein;
- (c) The place where particulars of the scheme, a map of the area comprised therein, and a statement specifying the properties proposed to be acquired, redistributed, or otherwise dealt with under the scheme may be seen at all reasonable hours.

(2) A copy of the said notification shall be published during three consecutive weeks in the "Government Gazette" and in one or more of the newspapers circulating within the administrative limits in which the area comprised in the scheme is situated.

(3) During the thirty days next following the first day on which such notification is published, the Chairman of the authority framing the scheme shall serve a notice on the owner of any land or building affected by the scheme stating that such land or building is so affected and the manner in which it is affected, and requiring within thirty days from the date of the service of the notice an answer stating whether the person so served objects to the scheme on any of the grounds specified in the next succeeding section.

Objections to a
scheme.

49 (1) The owner of any land or building affected by a scheme may object to such scheme on any of the following grounds:

- (a) That the area comprised in the scheme does not require an improvement scheme;
- (b) That the form of improvement scheme adopted is not the most satisfactory manner of dealing with the area;
- (c) That the scheme in its application to the property of the person dissenting inflicts undue hardship upon such person, and that it is capable of being modified in such a way as to avoid the infliction of such undue hardship.

(2) It shall be the duty of the Chairman of the authority framing the scheme, on the receipt of any notice of objection, to give the persons making the objections an opportunity of being heard either personally or by advocate or proctor before the said authority shall have finally approved the scheme, and to make a report upon the objections to the said authority.

(3) Where any modifications are introduced into the scheme, the authority shall notify any persons affected by such modifications in such manner as it shall deem expedient, and before finally approving the scheme shall take into consideration any objections raised to such modifications.

(4) Where a right of appeal is provided by this Ordinance in connection with any matter which may be included in an improvement scheme, no person shall be precluded from exercising such right of appeal by reason of the fact that he has not raised an objection to the scheme on any of the grounds specified in this section.

Submission of the scheme to the Government for sanction.

Bombay Improvement Act, s. 28.

50 (1) The authority framing the scheme, after finally approving the same, shall submit it for sanction to the Governor in Executive Council.

- (b) A statement of the reasons for any modifications made in the scheme as originally framed;
- (c) A statement of the objections, if any, received under the last preceding section;
- (d) A statement of the arrangement made or proposed for rehusing persons of the poorer and labouring classes who are likely to be displaced by the execution of the scheme.

(3) When any scheme has been submitted for sanction, the authority so submitting it shall cause a notice of the fact to be published for two consecutive weeks in the "Government Gazette" and in one or more of the newspapers circulating in the locality.

52 (1) The sanction of the Governor in Executive Council to an improvement scheme shall be announced by notification in the "Government Gazette," and upon the publication of such a notification the authority framing the scheme shall forthwith take measures for its execution.

(2) Publication of the notification under this section in respect of any scheme shall be conclusive evidence that the scheme has been duly framed and sanctioned.

53 At any time after any improvement scheme has been sanctioned by the Governor in Executive Council, and before it has been completely carried into execution, the authority framing the scheme may alter it, provided as follows:

- (a) If any alteration is estimated to increase the estimated nett cost of executing the scheme by more than five per cent. of such cost, such alteration shall not be made without the previous sanction of the Governor in Executive Council;
- (b) If any alteration involves the acquisition, otherwise than by agreement, of any land other than that proposed to be acquired under the original scheme, the procedure prescribed in the foregoing sections of this chapter shall, so far as applicable, be followed as if the alteration were a separate scheme.

Power of local authority to use funds for improvement schemes.

- (c) If it decides to proceed, shall cause a copy of both the representation and the report to be given to the owner of the lands on which the obstructive building stands, with notice of the time and place appointed for the consideration thereof.

(2) Every such owner shall be at liberty to attend before the Chairman of the local authority at the time and place aforesaid and state his objections, and after hearing the report of the Chairman upon such objections, the local authority shall make an order either allowing the objections or directing that such obstructive building or part thereof shall be demolished.

(2) Such owner shall be at liberty to attend at the time and place aforesaid before the Chairman of the authority and state his objections, and after hearing the report of the Chairman upon such objections, the authority shall make an order either allowing the objections or directing the proposed demolition.

- 59 Where an order is made under this chapter for the demolition of an obstructive building or part of an obstructive building, and either no appeal is made against the order or an appeal is made, and either fails or is abandoned, the authority making the order may acquire the land on which the obstructive building or the part in question is erected.
- Power of owner to retain site.
- 60 The owner of the land upon which any obstructive building or part of an obstructive building proposed to be acquired under this chapter is erected may, within one month after notice of the proposed acquisition is served upon him, declare that he desires to retain the site of the said building or the said part thereof, and undertake either to demolish it or to permit the authority proposing to acquire the land to demolish it, and in any such case the owner shall retain the site and shall receive compensation from the authority for the demolition of the building or the part of the building in question.
- Acquisition of part of building.
- 61 It shall not be competent for the owner of any building to insist on his entire holding being taken where part only of the building is proposed to be taken as obstructive, and where such part proposed to be taken can, in the opinion of the court or Tribunal determining the amount of compensation, be severed from the remainder of the building without material detriment thereto.
- Provided always that compensation may be awarded in respect of the severance of the part so proposed to be taken, in addition to the value of that part.
- Apportionment of betterment.
Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, s. 38.

- (Original.)
- (2) Where the effect of the demolition of the obstructive building or part thereof is to render fit for human habitation any buildings or parts of buildings which were previously unfit for human habitation, the whole of the amount of such compensation shall, subject to a deduction of such part thereof as shall have been apportioned among other buildings under the last preceding sub-section, be apportioned among the owners of buildings or parts of buildings so rendered fit for human habitation in proportion to the lengths of the frontages of such buildings upon the area cleared of buildings by the demolition.

CHAPTER IV.

Duty of local authority to inspect district. Housing, Town Planning, &c., Act, 1909, s. 17.

66 It shall be the duty of the local authority to cause to be made from time to time inspection of its administrative limits with a view to ascertain whether any dwelling house therein or any part thereof used for human habitation is unfit for human habitation, and for that purpose it shall be the duty of the local authority and of every officer of the local authority to comply with such regulations and to keep such records as may be prescribed by the Governor in Executive Council.

Closing order.

67 (1) If, on the representation of the Health Officer of the local authority or other information given any dwelling house or any part of any dwelling house for human habitation appears to the Chairman to be unfit for human habitation, it shall be his duty to make an order prohibiting the use of such dwelling house or such part thereof for human habitation (herein referred to as a "closing order"), until in his judgment such dwelling house or such part thereof is rendered fit for that purpose.

(2) Notice of the closing order shall be forthwith served on every owner of the dwelling house in respect of which it is made, and any owner aggrieved by the order may appeal to the Tribunal of Appeal.

(3) Where a closing order has become operative, the Chairman of the local authority shall serve notice of the order on every occupying tenant of the dwelling house or the part of the dwelling house in respect of which the order is made, and within such period as is specified in the notice, not being less than seven days after the service of the notice, the order shall be obeyed by him, and he and his family shall cease to inhabit the dwelling house or part of the dwelling house, and in default he shall be liable on summary conviction to be ordered to quit the dwelling house or part of the dwelling house within such time as may be specified in the order. A notice affixed to a conspicuous place in the dwelling house or part of a dwelling house shall be deemed to have been served upon every occupying tenant of such dwelling house or part of a dwelling house.

(4) Unless a dwelling house or part of a dwelling house has been made unfit for human habitation by the wilful act or default of the tenant or of any person for whom as between himself and the owner or landlord he is responsible, the Chairman may make to every such tenant such reasonable allowance on account of his expense in removing as may be determined by the Chairman, with the consent of the owner of the dwelling house or part of the dwelling house, or if the owner fails to consent to the sum determined by the Chairman, as may be made by a Police Magistrate, and the amount of the said allowance shall be recoverable by the local authority from the owner in the same manner and by the same process as a rate.

(5) The Chairman shall determine any closing order made by him if he is satisfied that the dwelling house or part of the dwelling house in respect of which the order has been made is or has been rendered fit for human habitation.

(6) If on the application of any owner of a dwelling house or part of a dwelling house the Chairman refuses to determine a closing order, the owner may appeal to the Tribunal of Appeal.

(7) Where an appeal is made against a closing order, and such appeal is dismissed or is abandoned, the appellant shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees a day during the non-compliance with the order, unless he satisfies the court before which proceedings are taken for imposing the fine that there was substantial ground for the appeal, and that the appeal was not brought merely for the purpose of delay; and where the appeal is heard by the Tribunal of Appeal, the Tribunal may, on dismissing the appeal, impose the fine as if it were the court before which the summons was returnable.

Directions in closing order. Straits, 1913, s. 217.

68 Where a closing order is made under this chapter, the Chairman of the local authority, if the Health Officer has certified in writing that the dwelling house or part of the dwelling house in respect of which the order is made cannot be rendered fit for human habitation without the removal, alteration, or demolition in whole or in part of any partition, compartment, or other structure or erection, or without the execution of such alterations or structural operations as he may specify, may in the closing order direct the owner to carry into effect all or any of the following things :

- (a) The removal, alteration, or demolition of the whole or part of any partition, compartment, or other structure or erection complained of ;
- (b) The execution of such alterations or structural operations as may be so specified.

Power to use premises for other purposes.

69 A closing order made in respect of any dwelling house or part of any dwelling house shall not prevent such part being used for purposes other than those of human habitation.

Marking of closed premises.

See Orr. Light and Air in Dwellings in Bombay, Appendix D.

70 Where a closing order has been made under this chapter, the Chairman of the local authority may cause to be marked upon the door of the dwelling house or room in respect of which such closing order is made, in a conspicuous manner in English, Sinhalese, and Tamil, such letters as shall indicate that such dwelling house or room is unfit for human habitation, and no person shall remove or obscure any letters so marked so long as the closing order remains in force.

Order for demolition.

71 (1) Where a closing order in respect of any dwelling house has remained operative for a period of three months, the Chairman shall take into consideration the question of the demolition of the dwelling house, and shall give every owner of the dwelling house notice of the time (not being less than one month after the service of the notice) and place at which the question will be considered, and any such owner at such time and place shall be entitled to lay any representation he may desire to make before the Chairman and to be heard either personally or by advocate or proctor in support of such representation.

(2) If upon the consideration of the report of the Chairman on any such representation the local authority is of opinion that the dwelling house has not been rendered fit for human habitation, and that the necessary steps are not being taken with all due diligence to render it so fit, or that the continuance of any building being, or being part of, the dwelling house is a nuisance or dangerous or injurious to the health of the public or of the inhabitants of the neighbouring dwelling houses, he shall order the demolition of the building.

(3) If any owner undertakes to execute forthwith the works necessary to render the dwelling house fit for human habitation, and the Chairman considers that it could be so rendered fit for human habitation, the Chairman may if he thinks fit postpone the operation of the order for such time not exceeding six months as he thinks sufficient for the purpose of giving the owner an opportunity of executing the necessary works.

(4) The notice of an order for the demolition of a building shall be forthwith served on every owner of the building in respect of which it is made, and any owner aggrieved by the order may appeal to the Tribunal of Appeal.

Offences.

72 (1) Any person who while a closing order is operative in respect of any dwelling house or part of a dwelling house shall lease or let for the purpose of human habitation such dwelling house or part of the dwelling house, or allow such dwelling house or part of the dwelling house to be used for human habitation, shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each day or part of a day on which such dwelling house or part of the dwelling house is inhabited.

(2) Any person who while any such order is operative shall remove or obscure any letters marked upon any door under section 70 shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and in the event of a repetition of the offence to imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months.

(3) Any person ordered by a Police Magistrate to quit a dwelling house or part of a dwelling house under section 67 who shall after the expiration of the time fixed in the order continue to inhabit such dwelling house or part of a dwelling house, and any person who after a dwelling house or part of a dwelling house has been vacated under a closing order while such closing order continues operative shall inhabit such dwelling house or part of a dwelling house shall be guilty of an offence, and liable to a fine of five rupees for each day or part of a day on which the offence is committed or continues.

PART IV.

GENERAL.

CHAPTER I.

Acquisition and Compensation.

Acquisition proceedings.

73 (1) Where under this Ordinance any land or building or part of any land or building is authorized or required to be acquired for the purposes of the Ordinance, and the amount of the compensation payable in respect thereof is not settled by agreement, the Governor, upon the application of the authority seeking to make the acquisition, may declare that the land or building or the part of said land or building is needed for a public purpose, and may order proceedings to obtain possession of the same for the Government and to determine the compensation to be paid to the party interested under "The Land Acquisition Ordinance, 1876."

(2) Where a special Tribunal of Appeal has been appointed under chapter II. of this part, such Tribunal shall for purposes of the proceedings mentioned in the last preceding sub-section be substituted for the court and assessors provided for by the said Ordinance, and any reference to a District Court, District Judge, or assessors under the said Ordinance shall with the necessary modifications be deemed to be a reference to such Tribunal and the President and assessors of such Tribunal respectively.

(3) Section 44 of the said Ordinance shall not apply to any proceedings under this section where under this Ordinance it is provided that part only of any building may be acquired for any purpose of this Ordinance, and where such part proposed to be acquired can, in the opinion of the court or Tribunal determining the amount of compensation, be severed from the remainder of the building without material detriment thereto.

(4) When the authority has paid the compensation awarded, the Governor may vest such land or building or the part of such land or building in the authority by means of a certificate under the hand of the Colonial Secretary to the effect that the same has been made over to the authority.

Determination
in other cases.

74 (1) Where compensation is payable under this Ordinance otherwise than in respect of the acquisition of land, the amount of such compensation shall be determined by the Tribunal of Appeal.

(2) In assessing such compensation the Tribunal shall, subject to sub-section (3) of the last preceding section and to the rules prescribed by the next succeeding section, observe the provisions of "The Land Acquisition Ordinance, 1876," so far as the same are applicable.

Rules for
compensation.

75 The following rules shall be observed in determining the amount of compensation to be awarded in respect of any land or building acquired, demolished, or otherwise dealt with under this Ordinance:

*Housing of the Working Classes
Act, 1890, s. 41.
Straits, 1913.*

*Bombay
Improvement
Act, s. 49.*

*Calcutta

(1) Regard shall be had to any increase to the value of any other land or building belonging to the person interested likely to accrue from the acquisition of the land, or from the acquisition, alteration, or demolition of the building.

(2) When any addition to, or improvement of, the land or building has been made after the date of the publication of any notification under this Ordinance notifying that it is intended to acquire or otherwise deal with the land or building, such addition or improvement shall not (unless it was necessary for the maintenance of the building in a proper state of repair) be included, nor in the case of any interest acquired after the said date shall any separate estimate of the value thereof be made so as to increase the amount of compensation to be paid in respect of the land or building.

- (3) The estimate of the value of the land or building shall be based on the fair market value as estimated at the date of the publication of any such notification and of the several interests in such land or building, due regard being had to the nature and the condition of the property and the probable duration of the building in their existing state and to the state of repair thereof, and without any additional allowance in respect of the compulsory nature of the acquisition.
- (4) The annual rent of the land or building shall not be deemed to be greater than its assessed annual value. Provided that where any addition or improvement has been made after the date of the last assessment and previous to the date of the publication of any notification notifying that it is intended to acquire or otherwise deal with the land or building under this Ordinance, regard may be had to any increase in the letting value of the land or building due to such addition or improvement;
- (5) If the rental of the land or building has been enhanced by reason of its being used for an illegal purpose, or being so overcrowded as to be dangerous or injurious to the health of the inmates, the rental shall not be deemed to be greater than the rental which would be obtainable if the land or building were used for legal purposes only, or were occupied by such a number of persons only as it was suitable to accommodate without risk of such overcrowding;
- (6) If the building is in a state of defective sanitation or is not in reasonably good repair, the amount of compensation shall not exceed the estimated value of the building after being put into a sanitary condition or into a reasonably good repair, less the estimate of the expense of putting it into such condition or repair;
- (7) If the building being a building used or intended or likely to be used for human habitation is not reasonably capable of being made fit for human habitation, the amount of compensation shall not exceed the value of the materials less the cost of demolition;
- (8) Where only part of a building is acquired or otherwise dealt with, the preceding rules shall apply with such modifications as may be necessary.

Any question under this subsection shall be deemed to be a question of procedure.

(5) A person served with a notice under this section shall not be entitled to object to the validity of any proceeding under this Ordinance on the ground that some other person was not served with a notice, unless such first-mentioned person was thereby prejudiced.

(iii.) Any building erected or raised before the commencement of this Ordinance to which no objection could have been taken under any Ordinance or by-law then in force, though exceeding the height provided for by this rule, may be re-erected to its existing height.

London Building Act, s. 49.

(iv.) Where any existing buildings forming part of a continuous block or row of buildings exceeds the height provided for by this rule, nothing in this rule shall prevent any other building in the same block or row belonging at the date of the commencement of this Ordinance to the same owner from being carried to a height equal to, but not exceeding, that of the existing buildings.

(vi.) Notwithstanding anything in this rule, it shall be lawful for the Chairman in any area not occupied wholly or mainly by residential buildings, after giving an opportunity of being heard to the owners of all other buildings which may be thereby affected, to authorize any building to exceed any limit of height provided for by this rule to such extent as he may deem fit.

(2) No structures shall be erected upon the area so reserved other than such latrines, bathing, and cooking places as may be allowed by local by-laws, or in the absence of such local by-laws as may be approved by the Chairman.

Rule 3.—Every room in a domestic building which is used or is intended to be used as an inhabited room must comply with the following conditions:

- (a) It must be in every part not less than 10 feet in height;
- (b) It must have a clear superficial area of not less than 120 square feet;
- (c) The whole of at least one side must be an external wall abutting on the open air;
- (d) It must be provided, for the purposes of ventilation, with doors or windows opening either directly or through an open verandah into an external open space having an aggregate opening of not less than one-seventh of the superficial floor area of the room, the aggregate opening of the windows not being less than one-fifteenth* of such floor area;
- (e) Every such window must open on to a standard light plane.

A "standard light plane" for the purposes of this rule means a plane drawn upwards and outwards from the edge of the floor of any room at an angle of  $63\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$  to the horizontal, and not impinging on any building, wall, or other obstruction.

Rule 4.—Where a window is situated on the side or interior face of a building, the external open space referred to in the last preceding rule—

- (a) Must extend along the whole wall of the room;
- (b) Must be of such width that no portion of such face shall intersect any of a series of imaginary lines drawn across the open space from the limit opposite to such face at the level of the ground at an angle of  $63\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$  to the horizontal;
- (c) Must in no case be less than  $7\frac{1}{2}$  feet in width;
- (d) Must either be exclusively attached to the building or be dedicated to public use.

Provided that where the owners of two adjoining buildings have registered at the office of the local authority an agreement binding each other to preserve a common open space between the two buildings, or if the same person is the owner of both buildings, where such person has registered at the office of the local authority a declaration binding himself to preserve such common open space, such common open space may be treated as the open space required by this rule.

Rule 5.—(1) Subject to any local by-laws requiring the reservation of a larger area in special localities, there must be in the rear of every domestic building an open space extending along the entire width of the building and belonging exclusively to the building, unless the rear of the building abuts upon a public street or lane of not less than 20 feet in width which is dedicated to public use.

Provided that if the rear of such building abuts on a public street or lane which is less than 20 feet in width, the owner on giving up to the local authority a sufficient portion of his land to make such public street not less than 20 feet wide may be allowed to build up to the edge of his remaining land without being required to leave any such open space.

(2) The minimum distance across such space from every part of the building opposite to the boundary line shall at no place be less than 10 feet.

(3) No portion of the building shall intersect any of a series of imaginary lines drawn across such space at an angle of  $63\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$  with the plane of the ground, such lines being drawn from the line limiting the width of such space at the side opposite to the building which is the more remote from the building.

(4) For the purposes of this rule the rear of a building shall be deemed to be that face which is farthest from any street on which the building is situated.

Provided that where the building is situated on more than one street, the rear of the building, unless the Chairman otherwise directs, shall be deemed to be that face which is farthest from the widest of such streets.

Rule 6.—If any person desires to build a domestic building in a street laid out before the commencement of this Ordinance upon a site which is of such a nature that it is impracticable to provide an open space in the rear of the building of the dimension prescribed by the last preceding rule, the Chairman may relax the provisions of that rule.

Provided that—

- (a) Such open space shall be left as the Chairman may consider practicable, having regard to the circumstances of the case;
- (b) Not more than two-thirds of the total area of the site shall be occupied by the building.

Access from single room

Rule 7.—(1) Where any building is composed mainly or wholly of single room tenements, there must be reserved along the side of the building an open passage exclusively belonging to the building of not less than 20 feet in width, so as to secure direct access to the street for each tenement which would otherwise be unprovided with such access.

(2) Where the owners of two adjoining buildings of such description have registered at the office of the local authority an agreement binding each other to reserve a common passage between their respective buildings, or if the same person is the owner of both buildings, where such person has registered at the office of the local authority a declaration binding himself to preserve such common passage, the width of such common passage need not exceed 20 feet.

street.

Rule 8.—(1) Every new street defined or approved by a local authority shall be of not less width than—

- (a) 40 feet if the street is intended for carriage traffic; or
- (b) 20 feet if the street is intended for foot traffic only.

(2) Nothing in this rule shall be deemed to prevent the local authority from laying out service passages for sanitary purposes of any width less than 20 feet.

By His Excellency's command,

Colonial Secretary.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

THE object of this Ordinance is to deal with the state of affairs disclosed by the recent outbreak of plague in Colombo, and with the various problems to which that outbreak has directed public attention.

2. As in the case of Bombay, the outbreak of plague in Colombo has led to a more thorough consideration of the sanitary conditions of the city, and has emphasized the imperative necessity of taking measures, in a systematic and scientific manner, to correct the evils which have already been suffered to grow up, and to prevent in the future the development of these and similar evils. The outbreak of plague in Colombo has more than a mere local significance. Colombo, being the chief distributing centre of the Colony, may become a source of infection to the planting and other districts. The insanitary condition of the capital is, therefore, a standing menace to the prosperity of the Island and the lives of its population.

3. It has been found that the evils which exist in Colombo are not confined to Colombo alone, but have developed and are liable to develop in other places in the Colony in which the progress of the Colony and the consequent growth of population, combined with the want of proper regulation and control, have led to the creation of congested areas and insanitary conditions of life.

4. The sanitary legislation of the Colony at present falls far short of the general standard which is being adopted throughout the British Empire. In recent years very great attention has been directed to sanitation, and certain general principles have been evolved, which are being applied, not only in Great Britain, but also generally in the British Dominions throughout the world. The most important English Acts in which these principles have been embodied are "The Public Health Act, 1875," "The London Building Act, 1894," "The Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890," "The Scottish Burgh Police Act, 1892," "The Housing, Town Planning, &c., Act, 1909." In the East in recent years the same principles have been embodied in legislation in Calcutta, Bombay, the Straits Settlements, Hong Kong, and other places. The present Ordinance has been based upon a study of this legislation, and upon the experience gained in its practical application to the places referred to.

5. Although the present Ordinance originates from the outbreak of plague in Colombo, its application has not been confined to Colombo or to Municipalities generally, but it has been made applicable to all the local Government areas of the Colony, and in addition to any special areas not at present under the control of any local Government authority in which the special evils at which the Ordinance aims are found to exist. There are at present three classes of local bodies in the Colony, namely, Municipalities, Local Boards, and Sanitary Boards. The legislation regulating the powers of these authorities has in recent years shown a marked tendency to unification, and it is hoped that before very long a general Ordinance will be projected for the consolidation and co-ordination of the legislation dealing with all these three classes of local authorities. The present Ordinance accordingly applies to all alike.

6. The special features requiring correction which have more particularly grown up in Colombo are the following:—

- (a) The growth in the population of Colombo and the expansion of the trade of its port have led to a great congestion of the labouring population, more particularly in the areas in the vicinity of the harbour. These areas being already fully built over, accommodation has been provided for the congested population by the subdivision of existing dwellings into insanitary cubicles, with a complete disregard of all principles of lighting and ventilation;

- (b) Areas have been suffered to grow up in which houses, huts, and buildings have been crowded together without any sort of regulation of their situation or approaches, and in such a manner that it is impossible to provide for their drainage, scavenging, and sanitary control ;
- (c) There are large areas in Colombo which are not provided with regular streets, and in others the blocks enclosed by streets are altogether excessive in size. The result is that the buildings erected around and in these blocks have an inordinate depth and an inadequate frontage, and are thus deprived of proper lighting and ventilation.

The conditions mentioned in the last two heads—(b) and (c)—make it impossible under existing conditions for landowners to develop their property in the manner most advantageous both to themselves and to the public.

7. On the other hand, it may be observed that some of the evils which have grown up in Bombay and Calcutta have not yet made their appearance in Colombo. In Bombay and Calcutta, where the area of the city is much more restricted than that of Colombo, the labouring population is massed in lofty buildings composed of single-room tenements, and so crowded together as to be a permanent source of disease. Up to the present most of the houses in Colombo consist only of one storey. High buildings have, however, made their appearance in the Fort and in a less degree in the Pettah. It is imperative that increased accommodation must be provided for the labouring classes in the neighbourhood of their work. This can only be provided by raising the height of the buildings in which they are lodged. There is a distinct danger, therefore, that the evils which have grown up in Bombay and Calcutta may be reproduced in Colombo. The present opportunity should be seized to make such a development impossible.

8. The Ordinance is divided into two main divisions :—

- The first, dealing with measures intended to safeguard the future ; and
- The second, dealing with measures intended to correct the mistakes of the past.

The mistakes of the past are due to the fact that up to the present there has been no adequate regulation of either buildings or streets. The present Bill aims at putting the regulation of both upon a satisfactory basis.

9. Part II., Chapter I., Buildings.—There are provisions in all the Ceylon local Government Ordinances dealing with the control by the local authority of the erection of buildings. They are at present neither uniform nor complete. The chapter now presented constitutes a code for dealing with this subject, which, it is hoped, will be found complete and efficient.

10. It must be read in connection with the first seven rules of the schedule. The following observations are made on the subject of the schedule here submitted :—

One of the most distinct tendencies of modern sanitary legislation is to lay down definite standards for the guidance of local authorities. These standards indicate a minimum which should be observed, and which are of general application. It is considered that this is preferable to giving a free hand to each local authority to devise by-laws fixing standards according to local conceptions.

Following the precedent of the London Building Act and other statutes, these definite standards have accordingly been introduced into the Ordinance itself. Summarily stated these standards deal with the following subjects :—

- (1) The height of buildings ;
- (2) The proportion of the site that may be built upon ;
- (3) The reservation of open spaces in the rear of buildings ;
- (4) The fitness for human habitation of each room in a building as regards dimensions and the provision of light and air.

The rules in the schedule here presented are based mainly upon the Calcutta Building Rules, which for this purpose have been collated with the provisions of the London Building Act. The requirement in rule 3 (d) of a "standard light plane" is based upon the experience of the Bombay Improvement-Trust (see "How to check the Growth of Insanitary Conditions in Bombay City," and "Light and Air in Dwellings in Bombay," by the Hon. Mr. J. P. Orr, I.C.S., Chairman of the Bombay Improvement Trust). Special attention is drawn to this rule, as universal experience shows that the provision of light and air is the most essential measure for dealing with plague and tuberculosis.

11. Chapter II., Streets.—This chapter defines the principles which regulate the provision of streets in building development. Section 16, though new in terms, lays down what is the accepted principle in all the legislation on this subject, namely, that persons desiring to develop their properties by building houses within administrative limits must dedicate streets for the purpose and construct them in accordance with the requirements of the local authority. There are only two points to which attention need be called in this chapter : (a) The minimum width of streets ; (b) the construction of private streets.

12. The minimum width of streets is dealt with by rule 8 of the schedule. This "40 feet rule" is the one which is now being generally adopted in all parts of the British Empire, both in the East and West. See "The London Building Act, 1894," "The Scottish Burgh Police Act, 1892," "The Straits Municipal Ordinance, 1913," "The Hong Kong Public Health and Buildings Ordinance, 1903," "The Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911," By-laws for Johannesburg, Cape Town, &c.

13. The provisions dealing with the construction of private streets are based upon those of "The Straits Municipal Ordinance, 1913," and "The Bombay Municipal Act, 1888." They are upon the general lines of the corresponding provisions in "The Public Health Act, 1875," and "The Private Street Works Act, 1892," but reduced to a more simple and convenient form.

14. Chapter III., Back Lanes.—The provision of back lanes for sanitary purposes is now a recognized part of all modern legislation on this subject. The proposed enactments submitted in this chapter are based upon "The Straits Municipal Ordinance, 1913."

15. Chapter IV. deals with two points :—

- (1) By-laws for regulating and preserving the character of special areas. This requires no comment.
- (2) The provision of public arcades in commercial streets (section 29). It has been the practice in the Fort in Colombo for firms reconstructing large commercial buildings, either voluntarily or in return for corresponding concessions by the Municipality, to provide public arcades on the ground storey, which are at once a convenience to the public and an advantage to the owners of the building. The object of section 29 is to ensure regularity in this respect.

16. Part III., Remedial Measures.—The object of this part of the Ordinance is to correct and reform existing conditions. It has been found in Bombay and Calcutta that the most satisfactory method of treating this problem in a large city is to establish Improvement Commissioners, and the precedents of these two cities have accordingly been followed. The Ordinance provides for the appointment of Improvement Commissioners in such areas as the Governor shall determine, and enumerates the various classes of improvement schemes which may be promoted either by the Improvement Commissioners or the local authority.

17. In framing this part of the Ordinance the following principles have been kept in view :—

- (a) It is desirable that the procedure laid down by the Ordinance should be as elastic and adaptable as possible. It is accordingly provided that improvement schemes may be carried out either by the Commissioners or the local authority, or by both in combination.
- (b) It is also thought desirable that wherever possible an improvement scheme should be carried out by private capital and private enterprise under the control of a public authority, rather than that the public authority should embark upon enterprises which may be costly to maintain and which it may not be able to maintain at a profit. It accordingly provides in every possible way for the co-operation of the Improvement Commissioners and the local authorities with private promoters.

18. Of the eight species of improvement schemes enumerated in section 39, three, that is to say, the general improvement scheme, the rehousing scheme, and the street scheme, are based upon the experience of Bombay and Calcutta ; two (the back lane scheme and the building scheme) are taken from the Straits Municipal Ordinance ; and three (the redistribution scheme, the housing accommodation scheme, and the street intersection scheme) are original.

19. With regard to the street intersection scheme (section 45), this has been devised to deal with the problem of the excessive size of street blocks referred to above in paragraph 6 (c).

20. The redistribution scheme (section 41) has been devised for the purpose of dealing with the problem of the crowded and irregularly arranged areas referred to in the same paragraph (b). This scheme has nothing to correspond to it in any modern English legislation, but the principles it embodies appear to have been adopted in Germany.*

21. The procedure to be adopted for the consideration and sanctioning of these improvement schemes is that already in use in the Bombay and Calcutta Improvement Acts. It should be added that the model for a great part of the legislation of Bombay and Calcutta was "The Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890."

22. The difficulty which has confronted all persons attempting to carry out improvement schemes, whether in England under "The Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890," or in Bombay and elsewhere, has been that hitherto the only type of scheme adopted has been that of acquisition accompanied by wholesale clearance. The cost of this method of dealing with the problem has been found to be prohibitive, and consequently only comparatively small areas can be thus dealt with. It has been found necessary, therefore, to devise other means of attacking insanitary areas. The subject has necessarily been very fully considered in Bombay, and as a result of it the Chairman of the Improvement Trust in that city has put forward certain proposals which have been adopted in this Ordinance.

23. Mr. Orr's proposals are briefly these :—

- (a) That instead of carrying out the wholesale clearance of an insanitary area, the Improvement Commissioners should attack individual houses which are either themselves insanitary or impose insanitary conditions on neighbouring houses.
- (b) That inasmuch as the persons chiefly affected by insanitary areas are the labouring classes, who, as a rule, live in single room tenements, the point of attack should not be the whole house, but the individual room, and that pressure should be brought to bear upon the owners of insanitary houses to demolish and reconstruct their properties on proper sanitary principles by closing and keeping closed all rooms which do not comply with a definite standard of fitness for human occupation.
- (c) That for the purpose of these measures use should be made of the provisions contained in those chapters of "The Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890," and "The Housing, Town Planning, &c., Act, 1909," which deal with obstructive buildings and closing orders.

* It may be interesting to note that a similar expedient was proposed by Sir Christopher Wren in connection with the remodelling of London after the great fire which succeeded the visitation of the plague in 1666 :—

"One point of great interest in the description which we have quoted of Sir Christopher Wren's plan of London may well be again mentioned here, namely, his proposal that the boundaries of all existing properties should be disregarded and that the individual parcels of land should all be temporarily given into the hands of public trustees or commissioners so that they might be rearranged and the area divided, each person receiving back, not his own plot exactly, but as nearly as possible the equivalent of it in the shape of a plot of land arranged to suit the new roads and new groupings of buildings proposed. It is interesting to find thus early suggested by Wren a form of solution for this difficult problem in connection with town planning which has been adopted in Germany. The city of Frankfurt possesses compulsory powers for thus rearranging boundaries of plots under what is known as the lex Adickes. Other cities have to depend on promoting voluntarily arrangements for the exercise of indirect pressure to secure this rearrangement of plots."—"Town Planning in Practice," Raymond Unwin, p. 113.

It is pointed out by Mr. Orr that the method of wholesale clearance involves a large disturbance of the labouring population of the area, and that the very great expenses involved in the clearance are thus enhanced by the necessity of rehousing the displaced inhabitants, and it is suggested that in attacking areas on the lines of his proposals there will be a diminution alike of the expense of the improvement scheme and of the inconvenience caused to the inhabitants of the area improved.

24. The chapters of "The Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890," and "The Housing, Town Planning, &c., Act, 1909," dealing with obstructive buildings and closing orders have accordingly been embodied in this Ordinance, with necessary modification in Chapters III. and IV. of Part III.

Two special modifications require attention :—

- (a) In the chapter on obstructive buildings, section 62, two proposals will be found dealing with the "apportionment of betterment." The first of these—sub-section (1)—is taken from the Act of 1890. The second—sub-section (2)—is based upon the proposals contained in the next succeeding chapter, namely, that dealing with closing order for insanitary dwellings. This latter chapter enables the Chairman of the local authority to close any room which is unfit for human occupation. The elimination of an obstructive building will restore a great number of rooms so closed to a condition of fitness for human occupation. The result is that by the sacrifice of the obstructive building these rooms are saved from extinction, and it is accordingly just that the owners of these rooms should jointly pay the cost of the elimination of the obstructive building.
- (b) Reference has been made to a definite standard of fitness for human occupation. This will be found defined in section 89. It is obvious that if this standard were to be enforced at once in Colombo, such a step would cause a very considerable displacement of population. It is accordingly provided by section 89 that the rule shall not come into general application until after the lapse of five years from the coming into operation of the Ordinance, except in the case of areas dealt with by improvement schemes, when provision will necessarily be made for the rehousing of the persons displaced.

25. Part IV., Chapter I., Acquisition and Compensation.—This chapter in section 75 contains certain important new principles in regard to compensation, which are mainly derived from "The Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890," and which have been already adopted in Bombay, Calcutta, and the Straits Settlements.

26. Chapter II., Tribunal of Appeal.—Under English legislation the local Government Board exercises a controlling authority over local authorities, which is found extremely salutary. Appeals from administrative orders of local authorities are in many instances made, not to the ordinary courts, but to the local Government Board, and the Board having special experience of these appeals and the subjects to which they relate is able to secure the adoption of uniform principles. In "The London Building Act, 1894," a special Tribunal called "The Tribunal of Appeal" was established for hearing a great number of incidental appeals of this description. The orders appealed from are in most cases orders based upon definite standards, and not upon individual views of expediency or policy, and the Tribunal established under that Act is of a professional character, one member being an architect and another a surveyor. In the Bombay and Calcutta Improvement Acts a similar special Tribunal was established, and to this Tribunal was committed the task of hearing appeals in the acquisition proceedings necessitated by those Acts.

27. In this Ordinance a similar Tribunal has been constituted, which will not only deal with the acquisition proceedings, but will hear appeals in the same manner as in the London Act, and will thus be able to exercise supervision of the local authorities on those matters on which in England it is exercised by the local Government Board.

28. Chapter III., Miscellaneous Provisions.—Section 90 lays down a standard for overcrowding. In this respect it follows the general policy of the Ordinance, which substitutes fixed standards for official discretion. At present overcrowding is prohibited, but there is no definition of what constitutes overcrowding. Overcrowding in this Ordinance has a special significance, in view of the rules regulating compensation under this Ordinance. The standard in force in Singapore and Hong Kong has been approximately adopted.

29. The effect of the Ordinance may be summarized as follows :—

It consists of two main parts : the first preventive, and the second remedial.

The preventive provisions give the local authority a strict control of both houses and streets, and lay down definite standards for application to both. These standards are in no case excessive. They limit individual discretion, but safeguard the welfare of the community as a whole.

The remedial section—

- (a) Provides for the appointment of special Improvement Commissioners ;
- (b) Enumerates the various forms of improvement schemes which may be undertaken either by the Commissioners or by the local authority ;
- (c) Provides a common procedure for all these schemes : and
- (d) Strengthens at once the general law and the power of local authorities and Improvement Commissioners with reference to improvement schemes by introducing into Ceylon the principles in force in England with regard to the removal of obstructive buildings and the closure of insanitary dwellings.

30. The subsidiary portion of the Ordinance reforms the principles of compensation at present in force, and introduces a special Tribunal charged with the duty of administering these reformed principles and of supervising the application of the new standards introduced by the Ordinance.

By His Excellency's command,

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Colombo, June 29, 1914.

R. E. STUBBS,
Colonial Secretary.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

THE object of this Ordinance is to repeal "The Aerial Navigation Ordinance, No. 18 of 1912," and to replace it by one which will be more in exact conformity with the present Imperial legislation.

2. The Ordinance of 1912 was based upon the Aerial Navigation Act, 1911. In some respects the Ceylon Ordinance went beyond that Act, and anticipated the provisions of a further Aerial Navigation Act passed in 1913. It has been thought desirable in the interests of uniformity, instead of amending our own legislation, to repeal it, and to re-enact it in, so far as possible, identical terms with the present English Acts.

3. The present Ordinance in its actual effect extends Ceylon legislation only in one particular, namely, in giving power to shoot at aircraft disregarding signals. (See section 8.)

4. In one respect the existing Ceylon legislation is restricted. "The Aerial Navigation Ordinance, No. 18 of 1912," did not limit the purposes in respect of which the Government was authorized to prohibit the navigation of aircraft over areas within the Colony. Section 3 of the present Ordinance, in accordance with the Imperial precedent, limits these purposes to two, namely:—

- (a) The protection of the public from danger; and
- (b) The defence or safety of the Colony.

5. Two special provisions of previous Ceylon legislation, namely:—

- (a) The power to order the detention of aircraft pending trial; and
- (b) The power to confiscate aircraft used for purposes prejudicial to the interests of the State, though not comprised in the Imperial legislation, are here retained.
