Short title.

1 This Ordinance may be cited for all purposes as "The Ceylon Post Office (Amendment) Ordinance, No. of 1915."

Addition of sections for the prevention of smuggling of correspondence during the present war.

2 The following sections shall be added to the principal Ordinance, and shall remain in force during the present war, and no longer:

Prohibition against non-postal communications to or from Ceylon.

95. (1) No person shall, without lawful authority, transmit (otherwise than through the post) or convey to or from Ceylon, or receive, or have in his possession for such transmission or conveyance, any letter or any written message from any other person, and if any person contravenes this provision he shall be guilty of an offence, and shall be liable on summary conviction to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding six months, or to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, or to both. Provided that if such letter or written message be intended for transmission or conveyance to any neutral country, such punishment may be enhanced to imprisonment for a period not exceeding twelve months, or to a fine not exceeding one thousand and five hundred rupees, or to both.

(2) This section shall not apply to "shipowners' letters," nor to any other class of letters or written messages that may be for the time being exempted by the Governor.

(3) For the purposes of this section the expression "shipowners' letters" means letters of the owners, charterers, or consignees of vessels inward bound, and of the owners, consignees, or shippers of goods on board those vessels.

Provided that—

- (a) The letters brought in any one vessel to any one person shall not collectively exceed six ounces in weight ;
- (b) The owner, charterer, or consignee shall be described as such on the address and superscription ; and
- (c) In the case of owners, shippers, or consignees of goods it shall also appear by the ship's manifest that they have goods on board the vessel.

Prohibition against sending letters, &c.,
from Ceylon in invisible ink, &c.

96. If any person sends from Ceylon, whether by post or otherwise, any letter or other document containing any matter written in any medium which is not visible unless subjected to heat or some other treatment, he shall be guilty of an offence, and liable on summary conviction to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding six months, or to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, or to both.

Prevention of conveyance of letters, &c., out of or into Ceylon.

97. Any person landing or embarking at any place in Ceylon shall, on being required to do so by any officer of the Police or Customs, make a declaration as to whether or not he is carrying or conveying any letters or other written messages intended to be transmitted by post or otherwise delivered, and, if so required, shall produce to the person making the requisition any such letters or messages ; and any officer of the Police or Customs may search any such person and any baggage with a view to ascertaining whether such person or the person to whom the baggage belongs is carrying or conveying any such letters or messages.

Any officer of the Police or Customs may examine any letters or other messages so produced to him or found on such search, and may transmit them to an officer appointed to censor postal correspondence.

Any person who knowingly makes any false declaration under this section, or on being required to produce any such letters or messages as aforesaid refuses or neglects to do so, shall be guilty of an offence, and shall be liable on summary conviction to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding six months, or to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, or to both.

Offences to be cognizable and non-bailable.

98. The offences referred to in the last three preceding sections shall be cognizable and non-bailable offences within the meaning of "The Criminal Procedure Code, 1898."

3. In the case of correspondence intended for neutral countries (from where it may be forwarded to the enemy) the period of imprisonment is enhanced so that recourse, if necessary, may be had to the Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881.
