MINUTE.

The following Draft of a proposed Ordinance is published for general information :—

An Ordinance relating to Money Lenders.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is necessary that provision should be made for the better regulation of money-lending transactions: Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of Ceylon, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, as follows :

Short title.

1 This Ordinance may be cited as "The Money Lenders Ordinance, No. of 1916," and shall come into operation on such date as the Governor shall, by Proclamation, appoint.

Definitions.

Money Lenders Act, 1900, s. 6.

2 The expression "money lender" in this Ordinance shall include every person who carries on the business of money lending, or who advertises or announces himself or holds himself out in any way as carrying on that business, but shall not include—

- (a) Any mutual, provident, or specially authorized society registered under "The Societies Ordinance, 1891";
- (b) Any society incorporated under "The Building Societies Ordinance, 1891";
- (c) Any society registered under "The Co-operative Credit Societies Ordinance, 1911";
- (d) Any body corporate incorporated or empowered by a special Ordinance to lend money in accordance with such special Ordinance;
- (e) Any person bona fide carrying on the business of banking or insurance;
- (f) Any pawnbroker licensed under "The Pawnbrokers Ordinance, 1893";
- (g) Any person bona fide carrying on any business not having for its primary object the lending of money, in the course of which and for the purposes of which he lends money; or
- (h) Any body corporate for the time being exempted from registration under this Ordinance by order of the Governor in Executive Council.

Indian Contract Act, 1872, s. 16.

A contract is said to be induced by "undue influence" where the relations subsisting between the parties are such that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other, and uses that position to obtain an unfair advantage over the other.

(Original.)

The expression "fictitious" in relation to any amount stated to be due in any promissory note or other obligation extends to a case in which such amount is arrived at by any deduction purporting to be made on account of any interest or premium payable in advance.

Reopening of transactions of money lender.

Money Lenders Act, 1900, s. 1.

3 (1) Where proceedings are taken in any court by a money lender for the recovery of any money lent after the commencement of this Ordinance, or the enforcement of any agreement or security made or taken after the commencement of this Ordinance in respect of money lent either before or after the commencement of this Ordinance, and there is evidence which satisfies the court that the interest charged in respect of the sum actually lent is excessive, or that the amount charged for expenses, inquiries, fines, bonus, premium, renewals, or any other charges are excessive, and that in either case the transaction is harsh and unconscionable, or is otherwise such that a court would give relief, the court may reopen the transaction and take an account between the money lender and the person sued, and may, notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account or any agreement purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation, reopen any account already taken between them and relieve the person sued from payment of any sum in excess of the sum adjudged by the court to be fairly due in respect of such principal, interest, and charges as the court, having regard to the risk and all the circumstances, may adjudge to be reasonable; and if any such excess has been paid or allowed in account by the debtor, may order the creditor to repay it; and may set aside either wholly or in part, or revise, or alter any security given or agreement made in respect of money lent by the money lender, and if the money lender has parted with the security may order him to indemnify the borrower or other person sued.

(2) Any court in which proceedings might be taken for the recovery of money lent by a money lender shall have and may, at the instance of the borrower or surety or other person liable, exercise the like powers as may be exercised under this section, where proceedings are taken for the recovery of money lent, and the court shall have power, notwithstanding any provision or agreement to the contrary, to entertain any application under this Ordinance by the borrower or surety or other person liable, notwithstanding that the time for repayment of the loan or any instalment thereof may not have arrived.

(3) On any application relating to the admission or amount of a proof by a money lender in any insolvency proceedings, the court may exercise the like powers as may be exercised under this section when proceedings are taken for the recovery of money.

(4) The foregoing provisions of this section shall apply to any transaction which, whatever its form may be, is substantially one of money lending by a money lender.

(5) Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this section shall affect the rights of any bona fide assignee or holder for value without notice.

(6) Nothing in this section shall be construed as derogating from the existing powers or jurisdiction of any court.

4 (1) The powers of the court under the last preceding section may be exercised, subject to the terms and conditions of that section, with regard to any money-lending contract entered into as lender by a person mentioned in section 2 (g); as though such person were a money lender, in the following cases; that is to say—

- (a) Where the court is satisfied that the contract was induced by undue influence; or
- (b) Where the lender took as security for the loan a promissory note or other obligation, in which the amount stated as due was to the knowledge of the lender fictitious, or was left blank.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be construed as derogating from the existing powers or jurisdiction of any court.

5 (1) A money lender as defined by this Ordinance—

- (a) Shall register himself as a money lender in accordance with regulations under this Ordinance under his own or usual trade name, and in no other name, and with the address, or all the addresses if more than one, at which he carries on his business of money lender; and
- (b) Shall carry on the money-lending business in his registered name, and in no other name, and under no other description, and at his registered address or addresses, and at no other address; and
- (c) Shall not enter into any agreement in the course of his business as a money lender with respect to the advance and repayment of money, or take any security for money in the course of his business as a money lender, otherwise than in his registered name; and
- (d) Shall keep a regular account of each loan, stating in intelligible words, figures, and denominations the items and transactions incidental to the account, and entered in a book paged and bound in such a manner as not to facilitate the elimination of pages or the interpolation or substitution of new pages; and
- (e) Shall on reasonable request, and on tender of a reasonable sum for expenses, furnish the borrower from time to time with a copy of the said account, and of any document relating to the loan or any security therefor, and shall on the like request allow him, or any person authorized by him in writing in that behalf, to compare such copy with the original; and

Exercise by the court of similar powers with regard to persons other than money lenders.

Registration of money lenders, &c.

(Original.)

(Modified from s. 2 (1) (d) of Money Lenders Act, 1900 and 1911.
Cf. Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879, ss. 64-66.)

Dekkhan
Agriculturists'
Relief Act, 1877, ss. 64-66.

(f) Shall at the time when any payment is made by or on behalf of the borrower on account of the loan tender to the borrower or the person making the payment on his behalf, whether he demand the same or not, a written receipt for the amount of such payment. An entry in any pass book or statement of account furnished to the borrower of the tender shall be deemed to be equivalent for the purposes of this section to the grant of a receipt for the amount so entered.

(2) If a money lender fails to register himself as required by this Ordinance, or carries on business otherwise than in his registered name, or in more than one name, or elsewhere than at his registered address, or fails to comply with any other requirement of this section, he shall be guilty of an offence, and shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, and in the case of a second or subsequent conviction to imprisonment of either description for a term not exceeding three months, or to a fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, or to both.

Provided that if the offender be a body corporate, that body corporate shall be liable on a second or subsequent conviction to a fine not exceeding five thousand rupees.

(3) A prosecution under sub-section (1) (a) of this section shall not be instituted except with the sanction of the Attorney-General or the Solicitor-General, or the Government Agent or Assistant Government Agent of the province or district in which the prosecution is sought to be instituted.

Transactions in contravention of Ordinance void
and unenforceable.
(Halsbury's Laws
of England, Money
and Money
Lending, ss. 93, 99.)

6 (1) Any money-lending contract made in the course of his business by any money lender who is not registered, or by any registered money lender which is in breach of any of the provisions of section 5, or in respect of which he shall not have kept an account substantially in the manner provided for in the said section, shall be void and unenforceable, both as regards the sum lent and as regards any security given in respect thereof.

Money Lenders
Act, 1911, s. 1.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in this section or in section 5—

(a) Any agreement with, or security taken by, a money lender shall be, and shall be deemed always to have been, valid in favour of any bona fide assignee or holder for value without notice of any defect due to the operation of that section, and of any person deriving title under him; and

(b) Any payment or transfer of money or property made bona fide by any person, whether acting in a fiduciary capacity or otherwise, on the faith of the validity of any such agreement or security, without notice of any such defect, shall in favour of that person be, and be deemed always to have been, as valid as it would have been if the agreement or security had been valid;

but in either such case the money lender shall be liable to indemnify the borrower or any other person who is prejudiced by virtue of this section, and nothing in this section shall render valid an agreement or security in favour of an assignee or holder for value who is himself a money lender.

(3) A person shall not be deemed to have had notice of a defect in an agreement or security by reason only that a search in the register established under the Ordinance would have disclosed the defect, or shown that the agreement or security was effected with a money lender.

(4) Nothing in this section shall render valid for any purpose any agreement, security, or other transaction which would, apart from section 5 of this Ordinance, have been void or unenforceable, nor any agreement or security which has before the commencement of this Ordinance been declared void by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Prohibition on money lenders
being registered as bankers.
Money Lenders
Act, 1911, s. 2.

7 (1) No person shall be registered as a money lender under any name including the word "bank," or under any name implying that he carries on banking business; and where any money lender is registered under any such name, the name shall be removed from the register, and a notification to that effect sent to the money lender.

(2) If a money lender, in the course of carrying on the money lending business, issues or publishes, or causes to be issued or published, any circular, notice, advertisement, letter, account, or statement of any kind containing expressions which might reasonably be held to imply that he carries on banking business, he shall be liable on summary conviction to the like penalties as if he had failed to comply with section 5 of this Ordinance.

Regulations as to registration.

Money Lenders Act, 1900, s. 3.

8 (1) The Governor in Executive Council may make regulations respecting the registration of money lenders, whether individuals, firms, societies, or companies, the form of the register, and the particulars to be entered therein, and the fees to be paid on registration and renewals of registration, not exceeding ten rupees for each registration or renewal, and respecting the inspection of the register and the fees payable therefor.

(2) The registration shall cease to have effect at the expiration of three years from the date of the registration, but may be renewed from time to time, and if renewed shall have effect for three years from the date of the renewal.

Penalties for false statements and representations.

Money Lenders Act, 1900, s. 4.

9 If any money lender, or any manager, agent, or clerk of a money lender, or if any person being a director, manager, or other officer of any corporation carrying on the business of a money lender, by any false, misleading, or deceptive statement, representation, or promise, or by any dishonest concealment of material facts, fraudulently induces or attempts to induce any person to borrow money or to agree to the terms on which money is or is to be borrowed, he shall be guilty of an offence, and liable on conviction to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding two years, or to a fine not exceeding five thousand rupees, or to both.

Penalty for taking fictitious or blank promissory note as security.

(Original.)

10 Any money lender and any person mentioned in section 2 (g) who shall take as security for any loan a promissory note or other obligation in which the amount stated as due is to the knowledge of the lender fictitious, or is left blank, shall be guilty of an offence, and shall be liable on summary conviction to the like penalties as if he had failed to comply with section 5 of this Ordinance.

Besetting residence or place of business of debtor.

(Original.)

11 Any money lender who shall beset the residence or place of business or employment of his debtor shall be guilty of an offence, and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, or to imprisonment of either description for a period not exceeding six months.

"Afghans" presumed to be money lenders.

12 If any proceedings to which this Ordinance applies are taken with respect to any money-lending contract in which the lender shall be a person of the class commonly known as "Afghans," such lender shall be presumed to be a money lender, unless the contrary is proved to the satisfaction of the court.

By His Excellency's command,

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Colombo, September 13, 1916.

R. E. STUBBS,
Colonial Secretary.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

THIS Ordinance is an attempt to cope with the abuses of the money-lending system which are said to prevail in Ceylon, and which have for some time past been the subject of public discussion.

2. The Ordinance is based mainly upon the United Kingdom Money Lenders Act, 1900, which—

- (a) Required the registration of all money lenders ;
- (b) Empowered the courts to reopen and revise all money lenders' accounts in cases in which the interest charged was excessive, or the transaction otherwise harsh and unconscionable ;
- (c) Required money lenders to carry on their business at a fixed office and under a registered trade name.

3. In 1911 the Money Lenders Act was amended by a further Act which protected bona fide assignees for value of securities (such as promissory notes) given to money lenders, but required the money lenders in such cases to indemnify the borrower. It further prohibited money lenders making use of any trade name suggesting that they are bankers. These and the other minor provisions of the Act of 1911 have been embodied in this Ordinance.

4. In addition to the provisions above mentioned, certain special provisions are enacted with a view to protecting borrowers from local abuses of the money-lending system.

5. The English Act only deals with persons who carry on regular money-lending business, and does not extend to persons who, in the course of any other business in which they are engaged, lend money for the purposes of that business. In order to render the protection to the borrower more effective, this class of persons is, to a limited extent, brought within the scope of the present draft Ordinance. These persons are not required to be registered, but the court is empowered to reopen and revise their money-lending transactions in any case in which it is satisfied that the contract was induced by "undue influence," or in any case in which it is proved that the lender took as security a promissory note or other obligation in which the amount stated to be due was fictitious, or left blank (see section 4). For the purposes of this section "undue influence" is defined in accordance with the recent amendment of the Indian Contract Act.

6. By section 5 money lenders are required—

- (a) To keep regular and intelligible accounts in books properly paged and bound.
- (b) To furnish copies of their accounts at any time to their borrowers.
- (c) To give receipts for all payments on account, whether the borrower asks for them or not.

For the purpose of these special provisions recourse has been had to the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1877.

7. By section 10 the taking of a promissory note in which the sum stated to be due is fictitious, or left blank by a money lender or by a person who lends money incidentally to his business, is made a penal offence.

8. In view of the objectionable practices attributed to money lenders of the class popularly known as "Afghans," and in view of the fact that this class of persons is in practice very largely composed of itinerant money lenders, it is provided by section 11 that the besetting by a money lender of the residence or place of business or employment of his debtor shall be a penal offence, and by section 12 that any person of the class commonly known as "Afghans" who enters into a money-lending contract as a lender shall be presumed to be a "money lender" under this Ordinance, until the contrary is proved.
