NOTIFICATIONS UNDER "THE PATENTS ORDINANCE, 1906."

THE following Specification has been accepted:—

No. 1,512 of October 3, 1916.

Raymond Munton Ash & Lawrence Charles St. George Carey.

"Improvements in rain shields for rubber trees and the like."

Abstract.—The invention consists of two parts: a collar and an apron. Both collar and apron are formed out of sheet metal of any suitable kind. The collar is formed from a rectangular sheet by folding it lengthwise along the longitudinal centre line and slitting the edges to enable it to be bent round the tree, to which it is secured by wires attached to its ends. Some or all of the outer downwardly hanging sections formed by the slits are bent outwards and upwards to form hooks on which the apron is suspended. The apron is formed from a rectangular sheet by folding over one edge after it has been slit at that edge to enable it to be bent round the tree, to which it is attached by wires as in the case of the collar, and hooked on to the collar by means of the downwardly hanging sections formed by the slits, which are folded inwards for the purpose.

The claims are:—

1. In rain shields for rubber trees and the like a collar made of a strip of metal folded, split, and hooked, and bent round the tree and fastened by wires, substantially as hereinbefore described and illustrated by figures 1, 2, 3, 4, and 8.
2. In rain shields for rubber trees and the like a metal apron folded, split, and bent round the tree and fastened by wires, substantially as hereinbefore described and illustrated by figures 5, 6, 7, 9, and 10.
3. In rain shields for rubber trees and the like a collar or cowl as described in claim (1) and an apron as claimed in claim (2) in combination, substantially as hereinbefore described and illustrated by figures 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10.

Five sheets of drawings.
