DRAFT ORDINANCES.

MINUTE.

The following Draft of a proposed Ordinance is published for general information :—

An Ordinance to declare the Law applicable to the Issue of certain Kandyan Marriages.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to declare the law applicable to the issue of marriages between persons subject to the Kandyan law and persons not so subject : Be it therefore declared and enacted by the Governor of Ceylon, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, as follows :

Short title.

1 This Ordinance may be cited as "The Kandyan Marriages Ordinance, No. of 1917."

Issue of certain marriages declared subject to Kandyan law.

2 The issue of the following marriages, that is to say :

- (a) A marriage contracted between a man subject to the Kandyan law and a woman not subject to the Kandyan law and domiciled in the Kandyan Provinces ;
- (b) A marriage contracted in binna between a woman subject to the Kandyan law and domiciled in the Kandyan Provinces and a man not subject to the Kandyan law—shall be deemed to be and at all times to have been persons subject to the Kandyan law.

Saving as to property dealt with on the basis of the decision in Mudiyanse v. Appuhamy (16 N. L. R. 117-120).

3 (1) Nothing in this Ordinance shall affect—

- (a) The mutual rights of the parties in the case of Mudiyanse v. Appuhamy et al. (D. C. Kegalla, 3,236), as declared by the decision of the Supreme Court in that case, or of persons claiming through the said parties respectively ;
- (b) The mutual rights of the parties in any other suit in which the said decision has been followed, or of persons claiming through the said parties respectively ;
- (c) Any disposition of property, or any transaction or family arrangement dealing with property which shall have been duly effected according to law between the date of the said decision and the date of the commencement of this Ordinance on the basis of the law as declared by the said decision ;
- (d) Any case in which the major heirs of any person who shall have died between the said dates, with the concurrence of any curator who shall have been appointed in respect of the estate of any minor heir, in the administration or management of the rents, profits, produce, or income derivable from any property of the deceased in respect of which he shall have died intestate, shall have acted upon the law as declared by the said decision. Provided that—
  - (i.) The fact that such property has been so dealt with has been declared by a memorandum in writing duly executed according to law within one year of the date of the commencement of this Ordinance by all the said major heirs (or, if any of the said heirs shall have meanwhile died, by their respective successors in title), and by any such curator who shall have been appointed as aforesaid ; or
  - (ii.) It shall have been declared by a competent court in an action instituted within one year of the commencement of this Ordinance that the major heirs of such deceased person and such curator, if any, in the administration or management of the rents, profits, produce, or income derivable from the said property, have in fact acted upon the basis of the law as declared by the said decision.

(2) The title to any property within paragraphs (c) and (d) of the last preceding sub-section shall be governed by the law which would have been applied in accordance with the said decision if this Ordinance had not been passed. Provided, however, that the devolution of the title of any such property by way of inheritance from the persons in whom it is treated as vested under this section shall be governed by the law as declared by this Ordinance.

Construction.

“Kandyan Provinces.”

“Marriage contracted in binna.”

“Domiciled.”

4 (1) For the purposes of this Ordinance—

The expression “Kandyan Provinces” means those districts of the Colony which are Kandyan Provinces within the meaning of “The Amended Kandyan Marriage Ordinance, 1870.”

The expression “marriage contracted in binna” includes any marriage contracted in such circumstances that if both parties were subject to the Kandyan law such marriage would be a marriage contracted in binna.

The expression “domiciled” shall be interpreted in the same manner as it would be interpreted if the Kandyan Provinces constituted a separate country.

(2) For the purpose of “The Amended Kandyan Marriage Ordinance, 1870,” and “The Kandyan Marriages (Removal of Doubts) Ordinance, 1909,” the parties to the marriages referred to in section 2 of this Ordinance shall be deemed to be and at all times to have been persons lawfully entitled to contract marriages under the said first-mentioned Ordinance.

By His Excellency's command,

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Colombo, February 6, 1917.

R. E. STUBBS,
Colonial Secretary.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

THE object of this Ordinance is to give effect to the recommendations of the Commission recently appointed on the subject of certain Kandyan marriages.

2. By the Kandyan Convention of 1815 it was declared that the civil rights of all classes of the Kandyan people were preserved to them according to the laws instituted and customs established and in force among them. In accordance with that declaration the Kandyan Sinhalese in matters of marriage and inheritance have been governed by the Kandyan Law instead of the Roman-Dutch Law, which for such purposes is the general law of the Colony.

3. By a decision of the Supreme Court in the year 1913 (Mudiyanse v. Appuhamy, 16 N. L. R. 117) it was, however, in effect declared that no person possessed the personal status of a Kandyan unless he could establish an unbroken Kandyan parentage on both sides up to the date of the cession of the Kandyan Kingdom, and that the estates of all persons who are the offspring of a mixed marriage between a Kandyan Sinhalese and a Low-country Sinhalese, or the descendants of such offspring, must devolve in accordance with the Roman-Dutch Law. It has been generally felt, and has recently been declared by the Report of the Commission referred to, that this pronouncement was not in accordance with Kandyan customary law as understood by the Kandyans themselves. The present Ordinance is, therefore, introduced with a view to declaring that customary law in its generally accepted sense.

4. The Ordinance is in form declaratory, but, in view of the time which has elapsed since the date of the decision referred to, it has been thought necessary to make provision for interests acquired in the interval (section 3). In practice, though the decision has no doubt been acted upon in many cases, it is believed that in the generality of cases the customary law has been followed. The saving of existing rights, therefore (in addition to those of the parties to the case and other cases in which it has been followed, and their respective successors in title), is, in the first place, limited to transactions and dispositions of property which have been duly carried out in the manner prescribed by law. The transactions contemplated are sales, exchanges, devises, gifts, and partitions effected on the basis of the decision. It has been felt, however, that there may be cases in which a family may in the administration of the income of the family property have acted upon the decision without a formal deed of partition or other document. In such cases the income may have been divided according to the principles of the Roman-Dutch Law, and marriages may have been contracted on the expectation that these principles will be maintained. It is thought, therefore, that the effect of the Ordinance should not extend to cases of this description, but as it would not be expedient to leave the question open indefinitely whether any particular property had been dealt with on these principles, it is declared that the fact that it has been so dealt with must appear either by a memorandum duly executed by all the parties interested within one year of the commencement of this Ordinance, or by a decree in an action instituted within the same interval. As family arrangements of this description are necessarily made by the members of the family who are of full age on behalf of all concerned, except in cases in which curators are appointed, it is provided that the parties to such memoranda or actions need only be the major heirs and curators (if any) concerned.

5. It will be seen that sub-section (2) of section 3 further provides that the title to any property within the exceptions above explained is to be governed by the law which would have been applied in accordance with the decision if this Ordinance had not been passed, but that, nevertheless, the general status of the persons concerned will be governed by the Kandyan customary law as declared by the Ordinance, and that the devolution of any such property by way of inheritance from the persons in whom it is treated as vested will be in accordance with that law.
