Colonial Secretary.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

THE object of this Bill is to introduce a tariff to increase the revenue and at the same time to give preference to goods which are the growth, produce, or manufacture of countries forming part of the British Empire. The amount of preference varies with different classes of goods, and is reflected in the various schedules.

2. Opportunity has been taken at the same time to amend the Customs Ordinance in a number of respects so as to bring its provisions more into accordance with the requirements of the present time.

3. Fresh schedules have been inserted in place of Schedules B, C, and D annexed to the principal Ordinance. Schedule B now includes the export duties levied on various goods, and Schedule C now includes a table of prohibitions and restrictions outwards which by the new section 36 A are rendered subject to the same conditions as prohibited imports.

4. Provision has been made for the fixing of tariff values on goods for the purpose of levying duties. At present the basis for the calculation of ad valorem duty is the "wholesale market price." It is therefore a matter of some difficulty at times both for importers and this Department to decide what the actual value is. It is thought that the fixing of tariff values—as is done in India—will be welcomed by the mercantile community, and it will at the same time render the work of the Appraising Department of the Customs easier.

5. Section 16 of the principal Ordinance has been amended so as to provide for the recovery of money erroneously refunded and also to provide for the rate of duty to be refunded in the case of drawbacks. The period within which drawback can be obtained has been extended from six months to two years, as the former period has been found by experience to be too short. Provision has been made for the duty paid on the effects and property of circuses and travelling companies to be refunded in full, as it is found that the regulation which only provides for seven-eighths refund is too severe. This will enable a lump sum to be charged in such cases and thus avoid the necessity for a strict valuation of the properties in detail.

6. Section 37 of "The Customs Ordinance, 1869," allows of articles consigned to a public officer and being the property of the Crown, being passed duty free. There are many occasions when goods intended for Government use are either consigned to an agent who is not a public officer or are bought out of bond. In these cases it is convenient that the goods should also be passed duty free, and this Bill proposes to legalize that procedure. Section 37 has been repealed and a new section inserted.

7. A small amendment has been made in section 39 of the principal Ordinance by inserting the word "dimensions" after the word "value," as it has been found necessary to require importers to state the dimensions of packages on the bill of entry. This is necessary, as warehouse rent and harbour dues are charged in many cases according to the size of the package. A minor alteration has also been made by inserting the words "and dues" after the word "duty" in line 15.

8. Section 48 has been added to so as to make provision for dealing with exports in same manner as imports in regard to the requirements of the bill of entry.

9. A new section 87 A has been added to give legal sanction to a practice which is already in force, namely, that of the performance by a ship's agent of acts which are legally required to be done by the master of the vessel.

10. A new section 102 A has been added to give additional powers to Customs officers for the prevention of smuggling. These additional powers are required to give authority to the recently strengthened preventive branch.

11. Section 104 of the principal Ordinance has been amended so as to penalize illicit exportation of goods. Hitherto only offences relating to importation into the Island could be dealt with under section 104, and no provisions for checking illicit exportation have existed except under the Necessities of War Ordinance.

12. A new section 131 A has been added to deal with a state of affairs which has often proved a serious drawback to the efficiency of the police work. Possession of property which is suspected to be stolen from a boat, quay, warehouse, or wharf of any port renders the possessor liable to a charge of possession of stolen property, and it will be for him to account to the satisfaction of the Police Magistrate for the possession thereof. At present in certain cases owing to the difficulty of ascertaining exactly from what particular warehouse the goods have been stolen, persons guilty of pilfering have escaped punishment.

13. Provision has also been made in this Bill to collect and print together the principal Ordinance and all other amending Ordinances.
