They must state in their tender the number of lighters (including tonnage capacity of same) that they are prepared to guarantee solely for use in the carrying out of the contract.

14. The tonnage to be taken from steamers and landed daily is to be as follows:—

(a) FOR DISCHARGE AT MUTWAL COALING GROUNDS.

Incorporation of the General of the Salvation Army.

NOTICE is hereby given that a Bill is being introduced into the Ceylon Legislative Council to vest the property of the Salvation Army in the General for the time being. The object of this Ordinance is contained in the following statement:—

A voluntary community or society of Christian persons known as "The Salvation Army" was founded in or about the month of August, 1878, by William Booth (usually known as "General of the Salvation Army") and carried on in Ceylon and other places its work of religion, philanthropy, and benevolence in accordance with the objects and purposes set forth and contained in certain Deeds Poll executed in England on the 7th day of August, 1878; the 24th day of June, 1880; and the 26th day of July, 1904. By these deeds it was declared that the General of the Salvation Army should have power to acquire movable and immovable property for the purposes of the Salvation Army and the said William Booth was declared the first General of the Salvation Army.

William Booth was also interested in a separate and distinct scheme known as the "Darkest England" Scheme, the trusts relating to which are set forth and contained in a Deed Poll dated the 30th January, 1891.

William Booth died on the 20th August, 1912, and on his death William Bramwell Booth was appointed his successor as General of the Salvation Army, and the question of vesting in the succeeding General the title to the various allotments of land and other property then arose.

In order to obviate the necessity for completing the usual necessary legal formalities of transfer according to law and the consequent expense it is proposed to make provision by an Ordinance for the incorporation of the General of the Salvation Army as a corporation sole with perpetual succession.

In sanitary closets in which fæcal matter and other soluble contents are acted upon by a chemical solution, the combination with a closet pan, of a tank or chamber positioned below and in communication with said pan, an endless chain or flexible conveyor movable across the opening between the pan and tank and adapted to be passed through a chemical solution within the tank, and means for actuating the conveyor.
2. In sanitary closets as claimed in claim 1, means for actuating the conveyor, consisting of a rod or rods pivoted to the closet seat or seat cover, adapted to actuate through a pawl or pawls a gear wheel or wheels in engagement with the conveyor on raising or lowering said seat or cover, substantially as described.
3. In sanitary closets in which fæcal matter and other soluble contents are acted upon by a chemical solution, the combination and arrangement of parts, substantially as hereinbefore described and as illustrated.

Improvements in or relating to the preservation and preparation for transportation of oil-bearing raw material, such as nuts, seeds, and copra.

Abstract.—Rubber nuts, walnuts, cohune nuts, kapok seed, or copra are compressed into a solid block for transport by means of a pressure not great enough to expel oil. An apparatus is described in which this can be done by a hydraulic press, the final block being sewn up in jute while still in the press.

The claims are :—

1. A method of preparation for transport and/or preservation of oil-bearing raw material, such as nuts, seeds or copra, which consists in compressing quantities of said material in bulk, under a pressure insufficient to express any appreciable quantity of the contained oil, but sufficient to form a package of greatly reduced bulk.
2. A method according to claim 1, wherein the pressure employed is insufficient to express any of the contained oil, but sufficient to form the material into a coherent block.

3. A method according to claim 1 or claim 2, as applied to nuts or seeds, wherein the nuts or seeds are compressed while within their shells or casings, for the purpose described.

4. A method according to claim 1, claim 2, or claim 3, wherein the oil-bearing material is enclosed in jute or like material, substantially as described.

5. The method of preparation for transport and/or preservation of oil-bearing raw material of the type specified, substantially as herein described.

6. As a new product, a block or package of oil-bearing raw material of the type specified, prepared in the manner set forth in any one for the foregoing claims.

Improvements in or relating to the recovery of soluble nitrogen compounds from solutions thereof.

Abstract.—Nitrogen in an insoluble form is recovered from dilute solutions of soluble nitrogen compounds, such as sewage or solutions of ammonia salts, by maintaining the solution under aerobic conditions in contact with activated carbonaceous material such as straw, dead leaves or bracken. The solution may be allowed to percolate through the straw, or the two may be subjected to air under pressure. The carbonaceous material is activated by being kept in contact under aerobic conditions with a dilute solution of nitrogen compounds for a sufficient length of time, for example, ninety hours. The insoluble nitrogen compounds resulting from the treatment are retained by the carbonaceous matter, the product being available as manure either directly or after storage.

The claims are :—

1. A process for the recovery in an insoluble form of nitrogen from dilute solutions of soluble nitrogen compounds, such, for example, as a solution of ammonium salts, sewage, and the like, which comprises maintaining the solution in contact under aerobic conditions with activated carbonaceous material for example, activated straw, until said carbonaceous material is fully loaded with insoluble nitrogen compounds formed from the soluble nitrogen, or until the greater portion of soluble nitrogen in the solution has been transformed into insoluble compounds.

2. A process as claimed in claim 1 in which the soluble nitrogen is reduced to 10 per cent. or less of the amount in the original solution.

For carrying out the process claimed in claim 1, activating the carbonaceous material by maintaining it in aerobic conditions with a dilute solution of soluble nitrogen compounds, for example, a solution of ammonium salts, for a sufficient period of time, for example, for not less than 90 hours or more.

The described process for the recovery in insoluble form of nitrogen from dilute solutions of soluble
