(c) By the insertion of the word "unlawfully" after the word "person" in line 3 of the second paragraph thereof.

By His Excellency's command,

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Colombo, May 15, 1926.

A. G. M. FLETCHER,
Colonial Secretary.

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

UNDER the Dried Meat Ordinance, 1908, no "dried meat," as defined, can be removed from any revenue district constituted a "proclaimed area" by Proclamation issued under section 3, nor can "dried meat" be exported after the issue of a Proclamation prohibiting exportation under section 9. The object of this Ordinance is to enable a scheme to be adopted on the lines indicated in the following letter from the Government Agent, Eastern Province, to the Colonial Secretary :—

No. 202.
Batticaloa Kacheheri,
July 27, 1923.

Destruction of Paddy Crops by Wild Pig.

SIR,—I HAVE the honour to inform you that enormous destruction is annually committed by wild pig to the paddy crops in the Batticaloa District. In addition to loss due to floods and want of rain the havoc wrought by these animals is a constant and considerable source of discouragement to the paddy cultivator.

2. Up to the time when the Dried Meat Ordinance was passed I understand that large quantities of pork were dried and exported from the district and that the trade was a lucrative one.

3. The reason why this export had to be stopped was the fact that when cut up and dried it is almost impossible to distinguish between pork and venison, and consequently large numbers of deer were slaughtered and their flesh dried and exported as pork.

4. If, however, some means could be devised of securing that no venison but only pork was exported the revival of the trade would be of the greatest benefit to the paddy cultivator while providing a useful food supply to the people of the Southern and Western Provinces, to which the pork would be exported.

5. The following proposal is, therefore, submitted for your consideration. Tenders should be called from any persons who wished to purchase the right to receive a licence to export pork from the Batticaloa District under the conditions laid down. One licence for the district or two, for the north and the south, respectively, might be offered. If a large contractor came forward it would probably be best to issue one licence only.

6. The licensee would be required to deposit security for his faithful observance of the conditions and to agree to submit to fines imposed by the Government Agent in the event of his being detected attempting to export venison or committing any similar irregularity.

7. The conditions of the licence would require that all final cutting up, drying, and packing of meat should be done at certain depôts selected and approved by the Government Agent. These depôts would be situated close to main roads where they would be open to the inspection at all hours of a number of Government officers or other persons specially authorised by the Government Agent.

8. No meat should be allowed to be brought to the depôt except with a portion of the skin or the hoofs attached to it so that it could be easily recognized as pork. I believe it would even be feasible to insist that no portion of meat was kept in the depôt or packed except with a portion of the skin adhering to it, but this is a matter upon which persons in the trade would have to be further consulted.

9. The barrels of pork would have to be passed and specially marked or numbered before export, and could only be removed on a pass from the officer authorised to issue such, which should accompany the consignment.

10. The details of the best way of working a system such as this could be worked out by experience. The trade would be a lucrative one, and when the system was once in going order the money paid by the licensee should cover any incidental expenses of supervision.

11. To enable this system to be put into force an amendment of the Game Ordinance would be required empowering the Governor to issue licences for the removal and export of pork.

12. I would suggest that the opinion of the other Government Agents as well as that of the Secretary of the Game Protection Society and other gentlemen of special experience in such questions should be asked for upon my proposals.

13. So serious a matter for the villagers is this destruction of crops by pig, that I would submit that it is matter worthy of serious consideration whether some such proposal as I have put forward could not be adopted and a workable scheme devised.

I am, &c.,

C. V. BRAYNE,
Government Agent.
