By His Excellency's command,

Colonial Secretary's Office,
Colombo, June 9, 1930.

F. G. TYRRELL,
Acting Colonial Secretary.

Objects and Reasons.

This Bill is based on the recommendations of the Committee appointed in 1926 to consider the necessary amendments of the Firearms Ordinance, No. 33 of 1916 (Sessional Paper XXXIII. of 1927).

2. Sections 5 and 6 of the Ordinance have been amended, and a new section 5A has been added, by clauses 2, 3, and 4 of the Bill, with the main object of giving applicants for, or holders of, gun licences, firstly an opportunity of being heard before licences are refused or withdrawn, and secondly a right of appeal from refusal or withdrawal. Section 25 (repealed by clause 10), which deals with the renewal of gun licences, is also by clause 2 incorporated in section 5, and the question of renewal of licences is thus brought together under one section. Section 5 is further amended by clause 2, so as to permit applications for the renewal of licences to be made at any time within six months before their expiry, and to authorize within specified areas the renewal of licences for muzzle-loading or breech-loading guns without payment. Clause 2 (3) is an amendment consequential upon clause 2 (4).

3. Clause 3 also adds a new section 5B to the Ordinance for the following reasons. Section 30 of the Ordinance authorizes the Government Agent to renew a gun licence on payment of a fine when the holder has failed to apply for renewal within due time, and in practice the section has been interpreted as making it obligatory to impose a fine in all cases. There is no doubt that this is an unnecessary hardship and the section has therefore been repealed and inserted in a different form as a new section after the new section 5A which also deals with the renewal of licences. In future, the Government Agent may not impose any fine for renewals applied for within one month of the expiry of the licence, and after that time a fine may be imposed or not at the discretion of the Government Agent. It is further provided that the licence holder will not be liable to any penalty for unlawful possession of the gun between the expiry of the licence and its renewal.

4. Clause 5 makes it possible to attach restrictions and conditions to licences to sell guns issued under section 12.

5. Clause 6 extends from ten days to one month the period allowed to the transferee of a gun to apply for the endorsement of the licence in his favour, and consequential amendments have been made in sections 22 (2) (f), 23 (1), and Schedule A, Form G, by clauses 8 (3), 9 (1), and 25 (1) respectively.

6. There does not appear to be any good reason why a gun repairer's licence should be renewed annually, and those portions of the Ordinance which require renewal of such licences have been deleted by clauses 7 and 25 (2).

7. Clause 8 extends from one month to two months the period allowed for the family of a deceased gun owner to possess the gun without a licence (section 22 (2) (d)), and, by this clause also, the possession of a gun after the expiration of the licence will in future be permitted for a period of one month, the previous allowance being ten days only (section 22 (2) (g)). A similar concession has been made (clause 12 (1)) with reference to the period within which a gun is required to be delivered to the Government Agent after the expiry of the licence (section 28 (1)).

8. Clause 8 also amends section 22 (1) so as to make it clear that "herein" means "in this Ordinance" and not "in this section", and further enlarges that section in the following respects also:—

- (1) Possession of a gun which is proved by its owner to be in an unserviceable condition will no longer be an offence.
- (2) The fine for possessing a muzzle-loading or breech-loading gun without a licence where the licence has expired has been reduced to Rs. 15 for a first offence, the existing penalty of Rs. 100 being considered too high.

(3) The provisions of the existing section 42 with regard to the limitation of time for prosecution have been incorporated here for the sake of convenience, and section 42 has been repealed (clause 19).

9. Clause 9 (2) adds a proviso to section 23 (2) which will enable a gun licence to be applied for by, and issued to, an applicant at the same time, if he is in a position to give the number and other necessary particulars of the gun which he intends to buy. This amendment is made with the object of simplifying the procedure for obtaining a gun licence, and obviating the difficulty experienced by persons residing at a distance from the Kacheheri in having to make two journeys before they can obtain a licence.

10. Clause 9 (3) adopts the usual provisions for the laying of orders, rules, &c., before the Legislative Council.

11. Clause 10 reduces the licence fees on breech-loading guns from Rs. 2.50 to Re. 1 per barrel, thus putting them on the same level as muzzle-loading guns; and the power given by the proviso to section 24 to reduce the fee in specified areas for single-barrelled muzzle-loading guns has been extended by this clause to single-barrelled breech-loading guns.

12. The fine for failure to deposit a muzzle-loading or breech-loading gun on the expiration of the licence has been reduced by clause 12 (2) to Rs. 15 for a first offence, the existing penalty of Rs. 100 being considered too high.

13. Clause 13 amends section 31 by extending the time allowed for reporting the loss or destruction of a gun from 7 days to 14 days, and in future it will be sufficient to make such reports to the nearest police station or a headman; suitable instructions will be issued to insure that the information reaches the licensing authority.

14. Clause 14 (1) gives effect to a recommendation by the Fees Revision Committee in 1923 that fees should be charged for permits issued under section 32, but the fee has been fixed at one rupee.

Clause 14 (2) gives power to the Government Agent to issue a permit which will authorize any person who is cultivating crops in common with the owner of a licensed shot gun to use the gun for the protection of those crops. A form of permit has been laid down by clause 23 (4).

15. Clauses 15, 16, 17, and 18 deal mainly with the question of parts of guns. Section 33 (2) makes it an offence to possess any part of a gun, but this provision appears to be too drastic and a proviso has therefore been added by clause 15 limiting the offence to the possession of a serviceable stock or barrel, or a part which appears to be intended for use.

Sections 36, 37, and 38, which at present only refer to guns, have been extended by clauses 16, 17, and 18 to cover unlawful possession, sale, or manufacture of parts of guns, and clause 17 confines the power of entry and search now conferred on peace officers and headmen to peace officers not below the rank of sergeant, headmen not below the rank of korala, vidane arachchi, or udaiyar, and other persons appointed by the Government Agent.

Clause 17 also confers a power of search on peace officers and headmen on suspicion that an unlicensed gun has been used for the commission or abetment of a crime under the Penal Code.

16. Section 44 of the Ordinance authorizes the confiscation of guns for certain offences against the Ordinance. It is considered that this is too serious a penalty in the case of offences under section 22 (possession of an unlicensed gun), and section 41 (possession without licence of a gun which is the property of another person). The references to these sections have therefore been repealed by clause 20 (1), and a new section 44A has been inserted in the Ordinance by clause 21, providing that in such cases the gun may be impounded until the licensee obtains a licence or lawfully sells the gun. The gun may only be forfeited if he fails to do this for a year.

17. Clause 22 amends section 46 so as to authorize the Government Agent to issue temporary gun licences at half fees for not more than six months at any time of the year. This is for the convenience of visitors to the Island who desire to shoot and yet do not require a licence for the whole year. Such persons also, if they arrive in the latter portion of the year, are at present required to take out a licence and renew it on January 1 next.

18. Information supplied to the Committee led them to believe that there is still a large number of unlicensed guns in Ceylon, and it is proposed therefore to deal with this unsatisfactory position by re-enacting section 51 of the Ordinance which has now lapsed, in a slightly different form. This has been done by clause 24, and will enable all persons in possession of unlicensed guns at the date when the Bill becomes law to apply for licences within three months of that date, and will render such persons immune from prosecution until the licensing authority has decided whether their applications can be granted or not. A similar course was adopted in 1922 in the Hambantota District with the result that nearly 1,000 unlicensed guns were produced and licensed.

19. Clause 25 introduces a new section into the principal Ordinance which invests with legal authority the Government Printer's reprints of the principal Ordinance incorporating amendments.

20. By clause 26 (3) the Note to the Licensee on the gun licence contained in Form M in Schedule A to the Ordinance has been considerably enlarged for the benefit of licensees, and now contains all the information which it is necessary for them to have. It is proposed that this information shall be printed in English and in the vernacular on the licence.

21. Section 6 of the Ordinance authorizes the withdrawal of a licence or permit where the holder is convicted under any of the sections of the Penal Code enumerated in Schedule B. It is considered that a conviction under sections 344 and 367 do not necessarily indicate a disposition to use firearms for a criminal purpose and they have therefore been deleted from the Schedule by clause 26. The same clause adds section 355 of the Penal Code to the Schedule and the reference to criminal force, and theft, theft of cattle, &c., have been limited to cases where those offences are committed with the show or aid of firearms.

Colombo, June 11, 1930.

Objects and Reasons.

Ordinance No. 11 of 1842 provides for the payment of pew rents in St. Paul's Church, Kandy, and the Trustees of the Church are required to be renters of at least three sittings therein, and the right to vote is limited to renters of sittings in the Church who have duly paid up their rent. This Bill is introduced in order to carry out the desire of the Congregation, as expressed in a resolution passed by them in March, 1929, to do away with the pew rent system as the sole condition of membership in the Church, and to alter the qualifications for Trustees, by making anyone eligible who is a subscriber of at least Rs. 15 to the funds of the Church, and similarly to give the privilege of voting to those who are subscribers of at least Rs. 5 to the funds of the Church, Clauses 2, 5 and 6 of the Bill also amend sections 4, 15 and 16 of the principal Ordinance so as to make the auditing of accounts and the holding of the Annual General Meeting more convenient.
