(1) By the addition at the end of by-law 2, of the following:—"and a further key plan on a separate sheet showing the position of all adjacent premises, thoroughfares, roads, streets, and ways within a radius of 250 yards, based on the latest town plan issued by the Surveyor-General and drawn to a scale of not less than 88 feet to an inch. The plans shall be in triplicate and shall remain the property of the Council.

On the completion of the building if, in the opinion of the Chairman, extensive alterations in the original plans have been carried out in course of erection, he may direct a fresh set of plans including all such alterations to be submitted, and such plans shall thereupon be submitted."

(2) By the substitution in paragraph 3, of by-law 3 for the words "nor shall such premises contain living rooms," of the following:—"and living rooms shall not be provided in such premises, except with the consent of the Chairman in writing."

(3) By the insertion between paras. 1 and 2 of by-law 7, of the following:—"Notice in writing shall be given to the Chairman of any intention to admit the public to any show or performance during the progress of any repairs or re-decorations which necessitate the use of scaffolding, cradles or machinery involving risk of injury, obstruction, fire or panic. If the Chairman so requires, the premises shall be closed to the public until the work has been completed, and the scaffolding, cradles and machinery removed."

(4) By the addition at the end of by-law 9, of the following:—"All permanent decorations shall be of incombustible material, and no temporary decorations, hangings or curtains (exclusive of those on the stage) shall be used without the written permission of the Chairman."

(5) By the insertion as new by-law 10A, of the following:—"Fire appliances and equipment of a type approved by the Chairman shall be efficiently maintained. They shall be in the charge of a fireman, or if a fireman is not employed, of some other suitable person specially nominated for the purpose, who shall see that they are always available for use."

(6) (a) By the insertion as new by-law 11A, of the following:—"If required by the Chairman the fire hose shall be subjected to a water test once a year, and if a fireman is employed a record of such test and also of any other tests or repairs to such appliances and equipment shall be recorded in his log-book."

(c) A separate circuit shall be taken from the source of supply for the projector circuit, so as to prevent any accident to this circuit from affecting the general lighting.

(d) Each of the main circuits shall be separately protected by an efficient linked switch, and by a fuse on each pole.

(e) All conductors used shall be of approved make and grade, and efficiently protected against mechanical injury. If metal conduits are used they shall be mechanically jointed and electrically continuous, and efficiently grounded. The passage of conductors through walls, floors, and ceilings shall be protected by the use of armoured insulated conduits, glazed stoneware, porcelain tubes or other approved devices.

(f) All fuses and distribution boards shall be of the completely protected type and so constructed as to enable the fuse holders to be handled for renewal of the fuse wires without risk of touching live metal.

(g) Portable lamps for the orchestra, or similar lighting, shall be connected to a separate circuit or circuits from the distribution fuse boards.

(h) The electrical installation shall be in charge of a competent person whether the operator or another, who has received an adequate electrical training for his duties.

(16) By the deletion from by-law 73, of the paragraphs (a) and (d) and the substitution of the following therefor:—

(a) Cylinders containing any gas under pressure other than acetylene gas shall be constructed, tested and filled in conformity with the recommendations set out in the schedule to these by-laws either of the Committee on the manufacture of compressed Gas Cylinders appointed by the Home Office in 1895 or of the Committee on Compressed Gas Cylinders appointed by the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research in 1918.

(d) The tubing shall be of sufficient strength to resist pressure from without and shall be properly connected up.

(17) By the addition at the end of the by-laws of the following schedule:—

II.—EXTRACT FROM FIRST REPORT (*) OF THE GAS CYLINDERS RESEARCH COMMITTEE. (1918).

Summary of the Recommendations for Ordinary Commercial Cylinders for storage and transport of the so-called "Permanent" Gases.

(i.) The cylinders should be solid drawn.

(ii.) The material should have the following chemical composition:—

Carbon: Between 0.43 per cent. and 0.48 per cent.

Sulphur: Not to exceed 0.045 per cent.

Phosphorus: Not to exceed 0.045 per cent.

Manganese: Between 0.5 per cent. and 0.9 per cent.

Silicon: No to exceed 0.3 per cent.

(iii.) The general conditions for the supply of the material should be as given in paragraph 26.

* The Report of the Committee is obtainable from H. M. Stationery Office, Adastral House, Kingsway, price 7s. 6d.

(iv.) Cylinders after manufacture should be raised to a temperature not less than 820°C. and not exceeding 850°C. in a furnace, remaining within the furnace only for sufficient time to ensure that all parts of the cylinder are at the same temperature. Before the temperature falls appreciably they should be removed, and allowed to cool in still air in such a position that they are not subjected to draughts.

(v.) Mechanical tests should be made on the material of one finished cylinder in every batch, or, in cases in which the number in any batch exceeds one hundred, on one finished cylinder in every 100.

(vi.) The results of the tensile test should conform to the following conditions :—

The yield stress should not be less than 20 tons per sq. in.

The maximum stress should not be less than 40 tons per sq. in.

The elongation on the 6 ins. gauge length of the specimen shown in Fig. 1 should be not less than 14 per cent.

(vii.) Impact tests should be made on the material of cylinders which are not less than 6 ins. in diameter. The mean energy required for the fracture of three test-pieces as specified in para. 32 should not be less than 3 ft. pounds for the transverse tests and 5 ft. pounds for the longitudinal tests.

(viii.) Before the necking operations, each cylinder should be examined for maximum and minimum thickness, and for external and internal surface defects.

(ix.) The maximum working pressure should be 120 atmospheres or 1,800 lbs. per sq. in. until there is general agreement amongst gas compressors that a higher limit is desirable.

(x.) The stress due to working pressure should not exceed 10 tons per sq. in.

(xi.) One finished cylinder in every batch, the minimum number being one in every 100, should be subjected to, and prove satisfactory under, the flattening test specified in para. 37.

(xii.) The proof pressure in the hydraulic test, after heat treatment, should not exceed 200 atmospheres or 3,000 lbs. per sq. in.

(xiii.) The permanent stretch shown by the water jacket test should not exceed 10 per cent. of the elastic stretch.

(xiv.) In cases where cylinders are closed at the end by welding, a further hydraulic test not exceeding 190 atmospheres or 2,850 lbs. per sq. in. should be imposed in order to prove that the cylinders are watertight.

(xv.) The weight of any cylinder of a given type should not be less than an agreed minimum dependent upon the designed thickness.

(xvi.) Cylinders should be periodically examined to determine the amount of corrosion and to ascertain that there are no surface defects.

(xvii.) Each cylinder should undergo the hydraulic test specified in paras. 38 and 39 at least once in two years.

(xviii.) If in the case of any particular cylinder, re-heat-treatment is considered to be desirable, that specified in para. 28 should be given. After this re-heat-treatment the cylinder should again be thoroughly examined and be subjected to the hydraulic test.

(xix.) A record should be kept of all tests made at the cylinder maker's works, and copies forwarded to the purchasers of the cylinders.

(xx.) Provided that the valves are adequately protected by screwed-on caps, cylinders need not be protected by coir mats.

(xxi.) All cylinders should be marked with—

(a) Manufacturer's and owner's mark and rotation number.

(b) Last date of hydraulic test.

(c) Last date of heat treatment.

Abstract.—The soldering, welding or metallising metal is supplied in the form of its oxide or haloid salts mixed with alkaline earths haloids to increase the fusibility of the melt and also decrease its volatility. A mixture of cadmium chloride and stannous chloride in such proportions as to yield 10-30% of cadmium and 70 to 80% of tin is also described to which an alkali fluoride is added as flux. The transformation is brought about by external heat and heat of reaction on the surface or parts to be treated. Finely divided metal may also be added to the mixture.

Improvements in or relating to the Treatment of Tea Leaf.

Abstract.—The process consists in feeding the leaf to a band conveyor evenly spreading the leaf on it, feeding the leaf on the conveyor between rollers to crush the leaf and remove all adhering moisture and then passing the more or less crushed leaf to a feed hopper which is caused to travel automatically over the top of the drying chamber. The crushed leaf is then spread on pivotally supported trays which can be rotated through 180 degrees. The crushing rollers are provided on their peripheries with hollow rubber coverings adapted to be filled with gases at higher pressures and temperatures.

There are twelve claims and four sheets of drawings.
