(b) that such action is expedient or necessary for the purpose of extending, altering or repairing the mains or waterworks or for the purpose of the connection of service pipes to mains; or

(c) that such action is expedient or necessary by reason of any damage caused to a public standpipe or any pollution or waste of water thereof; or

(d) that damage is caused or likely to be caused to the waterworks by an outbreak of fire.

38. The approval of any private water service pipe or fittings under by-law 23 or the grant of any permission or concession under any of these by-laws to the owner or occupier of the premises on which that service pipe is laid, shall not be deemed for any purpose to attach to the Council any liability for any damage caused by the bursting of any part of the pipe or the over-flow of water from any part of the pipe or fittings.

39. The Council shall not be liable in damages for failure on its part to supply water, whether under a contract or agreement or otherwise, if such failure is due to unusual

(2) When such notice cannot for any reason be given or served personally on the occupier of the premises, the affixing of such notice in a conspicuous place upon the premises shall be sufficient service of such notice for the purpose of this by-law.

41. All moneys payable to the Council under these by-laws shall be paid at the Office of the Council to the Chairman or the officer of the Council authorised to receive such payment.

42. Every contravention of any of the provisions of these by-laws shall be punishable with a fine not exceeding fifty rupees and, in the case of a continuing offence, with an additional fine not exceeding ten rupees for every day during which the offence is continued after conviction or service of written notice from the Chairman of such contravention.

NOTIFICATIONS UNDER "THE PATENTS ORDINANCE, 1906."

THE following Specifications have been accepted :—

No. 2,997 of October 5, 1937.

Edward Joseph Ponniah.

Improvements in and relating to ferry boats (and the like) and means and apparatus for propelling same.

Abstract.—A rope or chain is stretched from bank to bank, and the ferry boat is propelled by a revolving grooved pulley or chain wheel, which engages the rope or chain. Suitable guide pulleys are provided at each end of the boat. The motive power is supplied by an engine fitted with clutch, gear box, reverse drive, &c. The inventor states that a ferry boat worked in this way has more speed and is more economical than one worked by hand labour, or one fitted with screws or paddles.

There are four claims and one sheet of drawings.

No. 3,000 of October 25, 1937.

Joseph Duff-Smith.

Improved battens and tables for the rolling of tea leaf.

Abstract.—The inventor claims the use of a cone-shaped projection for the centre of a rolling table, and set of battens, which have fixed characteristics irrespective of the size of the table to which they are fitted.

In the horizontal plane the shape of the battens, which are preferably eight in number, is determined by the radius of the leading edge ( $15\frac{3}{4}$ " which is concave, and by the radius of the trailing edge (17 21/32") which is convex. In a specimen these are struck with centres on circles 25" and 28 1/4" respectively concentric with the table. The axial length of the batten depends on the size of the "well", but in all cases the tip of the batten is distant 2" from the base of the cone. In section the batten rises almost perpendicularly to the table at the leading edge, and slopes off gradually towards the trailing edge. In addition, the batten is given a slope downward from the edge of the well to the tip of about 1/8".

A vertical section of a specimen of co-operating cone-shaped centre has a convex radius of 2" at its highest point, the sloping portions having a concave radius of 9 1/2". The base of the cone depends on the size of the discharge door, but in every case the height of the cone is 3 1/4".

The inventor states that these battens prevent caking and throwing away of leaf, even when heavy pressure is applied to the leaf.

There are five claims and one sheet of drawings.

No. 3,016 of January 22, 1938 (Date applied for under section 50 of the Ordinance: February 12, 1937.)

Improvements in and relating to machines for rolling rubber coagulum.

Abstract.—(British Patent No. 468,129, Patent of Addition to 447,921.)

This is an adaptation of the machine described in the parent British Specification and in Ceylon Patent No. 2,807, having a battery of rollers and provided with shoots carrying revoluble discs for guiding and supporting the coagulum from each pair of rollers to the succeeding pair. According to the present invention, each shoot is pivoted at one end and counterbalanced by springs in such a way that in normal working position it is horizontal; should the tension in the coagulum between any two successive pairs of rollers become abnormally high, however, the co-operating shoot dips downward and, in doing so, operates an alarm, or actuates an electromagnetic switch which stops the driving motor.

There are two claims and two sheets of drawings.
