3 Section 188 of the principal Ordinance is hereby repealed and the following new section is substituted therefor :— Repeal and replacement of section 188 of the principal Ordinance.

188. (1) The Council shall determine the name by which any street shall be known, and may at any time alter the name of any street. Naming of streets and numbering of houses.

(2) Before any private street is given a name or before the name of any private street is altered, the Council shall cause notice of the proposed name to be posted at either end of such street and to be given to the owners of land abutting such street ; and any such owner may, within fifteen days after the posting of the notice or the date on which such notice is given, whichever is the later, object to the proposed name, by sending to the Council a written statement containing the grounds on which his objection is based.

The Council shall, after considering the objections, if any, determine the name by which such private street shall be known.

2. The object of the amendment to section 110 proposed in Clause 2 is to enable a Municipal Council to make by-laws for the abatement of nuisances, including the prohibition, regulation and control of the use of gramophones, radio sets and other instruments automatically or mechanically producing or reproducing sound.

3. The purpose of Clause 3 is to repeal section 188 of the principal Ordinance and to substitute in its place a new section which will confer power on a Municipal Council to name all streets (both public and private) within the Municipality, to number houses and tenements, and to paint or exhibit the names of such streets and to affix the numbers of houses and tenements on private property. A name will not be given to a private street until the owners of property abutting on such street have been afforded an opportunity of objecting to the name proposed to be assigned thereto by the Municipality.

4. Sections 17 and 19 of the Colombo Municipal Council (Constitution) Ordinance (Chapter 194) provide that the offences specified in those sections shall be tried by a District Judge in the exercise of a special original jurisdiction; and section 75 of that Ordinance provides that municipal officers and servants who have a direct or indirect concern or interest in any contract of the Council shall, in certain circumstances, be guilty of an offence. Section 269 of the Municipal Councils Ordinance (Chapter 193) has to be read and construed as one with Chapter 194 and provides that prosecutions for offences made cognizable before a Magistrate or Municipal Magistrate must be instituted within three months of the date of the commission of such offence. The object of the amendment proposed in Clause 4 is to make express reference to the Colombo Municipal (Constitution) Ordinance in section 269 and to provide that a similar limitation of time shall apply in the case of offences made cognizable by a District Judge under that Ordinance.

Objects and Reasons.

[Vol. III. p. 705.] The object of this Bill is to repeal the Antiquities Ordinance (Chapter 144) and to substitute in its place a new Ordinance which will make better provision for the preservation of the antiquities of Ceylon.

The most important changes introduced by the new law relate to what are termed “ ancient monuments ”, that is to say, antiquities which are immovable property, such as temples, monuments, and buildings. Under our law it is possible for an ancient monument which is of archæological or historical interest, or which is sacred or of religious importance, to be in private ownership. No control can at present be exercised in respect of such monuments and the owner of any such monument may allow it to fall into ruins or may destroy its archaeological importance by incongruous or clumsily executed restorations or additions.

2. Part III. of this Bill deals in detail with ancient monuments and provides (Clause 18) that particular ancient monuments of religious, historical or archaeological importance, which are situated on privately owned land, may be declared to be "protected monuments".

Once an ancient monument has been declared a "protected monument", no work of restoration or repair of that monument and no alteration or addition thereto will be allowed except upon a permit from the Archaeological Commissioner, who is also empowered to revoke a permit in certain cases. An appeal will lie to the Minister for Education against the refusal or revocation of such a permit by the Archaeological Commissioner. (Clauses 21 and 22).

The Archaeological Commissioner is himself empowered by Clause 23 to undertake, with the approval of the Executive Committee and at the expense of Government, any work of restoration, repair, alteration or addition in connection with any protected monument. A further feature in the scheme set out in the Bill for the protection of ancient monuments is contained in Clause 24, whereby power is taken to prohibit or restrict, on lands, situated in the vicinity of protected monuments or of ancient monuments on Crown land, operations of a nature which might damage or injure such monuments—e.g., building, blasting, mining, quarrying. Clause 47 (2) (g) provides for regulations controlling the right of members of the public to have access to any such monuments.

It is considered to be necessary in the public interest that the private right of ownership in a protected monument should be restricted to the extent indicated in the scheme outlined above, but, at the same time, certain safeguards are provided which are an essential part of that scheme. Clause 19 provides that no ancient monument on privately owned land can be declared a protected monument unless previous notice of the intention so to declare it is given in the Gazette and an opportunity afforded to any person interested to place his objections before the Executive Committee. Further, where any regulation is made under Clause 24 interfering with the right of any person to carry on any building, blasting, mining or quarrying operations, and where that person claims to have suffered any loss or damage thereby, procedure is provided for the payment of compensation, assessed by a special Compensation Board, with an appeal to the District Court against the order of the Board (Clauses 25 to 30).

3. Ancient monuments are defined to mean those which date to a period prior to the second day of March, 1815, which is the date of the Kandyan Convention. There are cases, however, of temples, buildings, &c., which, though they do not date back prior to 1815, at the same time seem to be deserving in the public interest of the protection afforded by the law to ancient monuments. Clause 16 of the Bill deals with such a case and provides for the making of an order which will extend to any monument dating to a period prior to 1850 the protection afforded to an ancient monument. It has also been considered advisable to make special provision in Clause 17 for the case of trees whose historical or religious importance make it desirable that they should be brought within the scope of the new law and afforded protection as if they were ancient monuments. Any monument or any tree in respect of which an order under Clause 16 or Clause 17, as the case may be, has been made may then be given special protection by its being declared a protected monument under Clause 18.

Clause 31 sets out certain offences in connexion with ancient monuments and deals specifically with the case of desecration of a monument which is held sacred by any class of persons.

4. Part IV. of the Bill deals with the notification of Archaeological Reserves and makes provision for the protection of such reserves from encroachment.

5. No important change in the present law relating to the discovery of antiquities, (whether accidentally or in the course of excavations) or to the export of antiquities is made, and Parts II. and V. of the Bill largely reproduce provisions found in the Antiquities Ordinance (Chapter 144)

A change in the law is however made regarding the rights of a person who discovers an antiquity which is movable property. All such antiquities are declared to be the property of the Crown, and the present law is that the finder of the antiquity and the owner of the land on which it is found are each entitled to a one-third share of the antiquity, the other one-third share being given to the Crown. In order to induce a finder more readily to surrender possession of an antiquity to the authorities, Clause 3 provides that the full market value shall, where the Crown decides to retain any antiquity, be paid in equal shares to the finder and the owner of the land.

6. Clause 50 effects certain consequential repeals and amendments of other Ordinances.

Colombo, May 25, 1939.

C. W. W. KANNANGARA,
Minister for Education.
