Schedule to the principal Ordinance.

Objects and Reasons

Under section 3 (2) of the Notaries Ordinance (Chapter 91), a proctor who has a warrant authorising him to practise as a notary in English is entitled, on passing a language examination in Sinhalese or Tamil, to a warrant authorising him to practise as a notary in the language in which he has passed the examination. A notary, who is not a proctor and who practises in either Sinhalese or Tamil, does not enjoy this advantage, and has, if he desires to practise in the other vernacular language, to serve once again as an articulated clerk, and also to pass examinations in a number of subjects. The object of Clauses 2 and 3 of this Bill is to place all notaries (whether or not they are also proctors) on the same footing, by providing that, when they desire to practise in another language, it will be only necessary for them to pass an examination in that language.

2. The Governor has the power under section 5 of the Ordinance to relax the ordinary rules as to the qualifications of a notary and to grant warrants to persons to practise as notaries who have neither served as articulated clerks nor passed all the prescribed examinations. This provision was included in the Ordinance with a view to assisting backward areas. With the spread of education and the improvement in the methods of transport, the need for this provision has disappeared, and it is, accordingly, to be repealed by this Bill. As it is not intended that this repeal should affect persons who are in practise now by virtue of warrants granted under the provision in question, Clause 6 of the Bill provides that such persons should continue to practise as before.

3. The question has been raised whether the provisions of rule (23) of section 30 of the Ordinance relating to the numbering of deeds should, in the case of deeds which have been executed before more than one notary, be observed by every notary attesting such deeds. The practise to-day among reputed firms of notaries is for every notary attesting such a deed to number the deed. For the purpose, however, of resolving all doubts on this matter, a provision has been included in this Bill which states that every such notary should comply with all the requirements of rule (23) relating to the numbering of deeds. [Clause 8].

4. There is some doubt in certain quarters as to the manner in which, and the extent to which, notaries should, in the case of deeds executed before more than one notary, observe the requirements of rule (24) of section 30 of the Ordinance relating to the preservation of protocols and the keeping of monthly lists of deeds attested by them. The practice to-day among well established firms of notaries is, for the notary who first attests such a deed to keep as his protocol, the copy of the deed that has been signed by all the parties and the witnesses, and, for the other notaries who attest such a deed, either to be supplied by the notary first attesting it, or to supply themselves, with certified copies of the deed. A small number of notaries, however, have questioned whether this rule applies in the case of such deeds at all, and have said that its applicability should be restricted to deeds which are executed before one notary only. To remove all doubts on this matter, it is proposed in this Bill that the notary who first attests the deed should retain, as his protocol, the copy of the deed signed by the parties and the witnesses, while the other notaries attesting the deed should supply themselves with certified copies of the deed, such copies being deemed to be their protocols for all the purposes of the said rule (24). [Clause 8].

5. The other amendments made by this Bill are either in the nature of consequential amendments or refer to matters of detail.
