"Improvements relating to resilient or springy slabs, blocks, beams and the like, of different degrees of rigidity."

Another object is to provide a reinforcement from corrugated sheets of metal, synthetic resin and the like. According to a modification cross wires are soldered; welded or otherwise rigidly fixed to the crests of the corrugations of the corrugated sheets

"A cutter for cutting various thicknesses of strips from rubber tyres."

Abstract—This invention relates to cutters.

The cutter consists of a flat sharp blade having two "V" shaped cuts and two holes on either end for the purpose of fixing the blade in position when it is bent down to a square or circular form at the middle. The thickness of the strip required is regulated by a lever which can be fixed in one position by a screw device. The lever actuates a guide held by a clip.
