LAHIRU FERNANDO

The Final report of the Vijith Malalgoda Committee on Easter Sunday Attacks comprises facts that the former Defence Secretary Hemasiri Fernando had never stated before that Commission as evidence. Presidential Commission of Inquiry Probing the Easter Sunday Attacks was told on Monday.

During his testimony, Fernando said that the report had neither presented his evidence correctly nor had he placed his signature at the end of any evidence declaring that the content is accurate.

"This report was to be submitted within two weeks. How could they prepare a fair report within that period after submitting interim reports too", the witness said.

Fernando said, appointing former IGP N.K. Ilangakoon and former Law and Order Ministry Secretary Padamasiri Jayamanne who were in office at the time when Zahran Hashim began his extremist activities is not ethical.

Cross-examining the witness, Fernando's lawyer Dilshan Jayasuriya questioned whether the Malalgoda Committee had submitted its final report when former President Maithripala Sirisena made the controversial statement that then IGP Pujith Jayasundara and Hemasiri

Fernando should be held responsible for the attack. Then, Fernando replied that the statement was made by Sirisena before this report was submitted.

"I do not accept those allegations. What the former President highlighted was that former IGP and me not informing him of the intelligence information on a possible attack. However, I had never communicated intelligence information to the President during my tenure. It was continuously done as a tradition by the Director of the State Intelligence Service (SIS)", he said.

whether then President Sirisena had instructed at the National Security Councils (NSC) held before the attack to arrest the mastermind Zahran Hashim. Fernando replied that there was no need to issue such an order by the President as the security forces had already received an arrest warrant for Zahran.

Fernando also said that the SIS did not submit to him any report relating to the attack between April 4 and 20 nor its Director SDIG Nilantha Jayawardane looked for an appointment to meet him during that period as well.

Jayasuriya also asked the witness

Police spokesman DIG Rohana said Makandure Madush succumbed to his injuries while the two CCD officers have been admitted to the Colombo National Hospital.

Police succeeded in recovering a heroin haul weighing over 22 kilograms along with two pistols from the housing scheme.

The CCD recovered a stock of heroin weighing over 10 kgs from Kotikawatta area based on the information provided by Makandure Madush last Saturday as well.

DIG Ajith Rohana said that the suspect has been involved in the murder of former Southern Provincial Councillor Danny Hittetiya in 2006 and a number of criminal activities that took place in Colombo and other parts of the country.

Makandure Madush who had been hiding in Dubai for several years was arrested in 2018 by Dubai Police during a party thrown by him. A number of known persons in the music field from Sri Lanka had also been invited to this drug fuelled party held in a plush hotel in Dubai.

Dubai police arrested 31 persons including Makandure Madush and Sri Lankan celebrities at this party.

DIG Ajith Rohana said that this underworld gangster was deported to Sri Lanka by Dubai authorities on May 5, 2019 after repeated requests made by the Government. The Criminal Investigations Department (CID) arrested the suspect upon his arrival at the BIA and it had been conducting investigations after obtaining a detention order from the Court.

This underworld figure was handed over to the CCD to conduct further investigations against him on October 16.

Madush had led his underworld and drug operations from Dubai and had allegedly been involved in the prison bus attack in Kalutara in 2017 where seven inmates including Madush's rivals died.

Opposition Leader Premadasa then questioned the Health Minister, "Does it mean that we have two laws, one for the MPs and one for the people? What sort of law is that?" In reply Minister Wanniaarachchi pointed out, "I did not say that there are two laws. I only said that this House does not come under the definition of public place mentioned in the gazette. The opposition leader shows an irresponsible manner because he comes here without reading. He is wasting the time of this august assembly.' Opposition Leader Premadasa then observed, "Now the Speaker too has started wearing the mask after I pointed it out to him. Can we remove the mask while we speak?" to which Minister Wanniarachchi pointed out, "You have a responsibility. You have a citizenry duty. It is upto you to

At this juncture the Speaker said that the argument should stop so that the House could proceed with its agenda. However, the Opposition Leader Premadasa went on to say, "The minister does not understand what I say. She is giving an answer of koheda yanne, malle pol (Where are you going? Coconuts in the basket!) style." to which Minister Wanniarachchi gave a swift reply, "It is the opposition leader who follows the koheda yanne malle pol style not me. He has not read the gazette properly and talks without knowing the facts."

Premadasa then said to the Speaker, "We call on to suspend settings so that seating arrangement could be changed in accordance with regulations. Thereafter we can meet here."

Environment Minister Mahinda Amaraweera recently paid a visit to inspect the illegal constructions around the Bolgoda Lake and to observe destructive methods of disposing garbage that harm the water bodies. Most of the constructions around the Bolgoda river are constructed targeting the tourism industry and ninety percent of them had failed to obtain authorisation. Thirty-five such illegal constructions were identified during the visit and the environmentalists pointed out to the Minister that there are several more illegal constructions tives around the Bolgoda Lake. Minister Mahinda Amaraweera stated that the National Environment Act (NEA) will be amended soon to increase the fine and jail-term imposed for illegal constructions. Parliament sittings... From page 01 The Speaker noted: "The UK

Parliament met even when t he German Lutwaffes bombed London into rubbles during the World War II, likewise our Parliament too will continue to meet irrespective of the threat from the pandemic"

Opposition Leader Sajith Premadasa raised concerns over the implementation of health regulations in the Chamber at the commencement of yesterday's sittings. He said that the Health Minister released a special gazette on October 15 imposing regulations including making it compulsory for everyone to wear a mask and to maintain one meter physical distance every time. "As per the Article 4 of the Prevention of Diseases Act not complying with those regulations is a punishable offence. As per the Article 5 of the Increase of Fines Act No 12 of 2005, those who transgress the regulations stipulated would either be punished with fine between 2000 to 10,000 rupees or with a six month term in jail. Now these regulations are not maintained here.There is no physical distance in the sitting arrangements in the House. Laws are broken here in Parliament where the laws are imposed. Do we have two laws for the country? Why do we not follow those regulations in the House? I call on the Speaker to suspend sittings till the seating arrangements are changed keeping one meter distance as per the regulations and thereafter we could meet here. Are we supposed to wear the mask while we speak or not?" In reply the Speaker said that Premadasa could prefer either option. Leader of the House Minister ments we reached at the party leaders' meeting which was attended by leaders of the opposition parties and ministers of the government with the Speaker presiding. There we all agreed for this week's sittings and we also approved the agenda. We work according to that agreement. I think the Opposition Leader has not been appraised by the representatives of the opposition on the agreement we reached.' In response to the same question, Health Minister Pavithra Wanniarachchi said the Opposition Leader should properly go through the gazette notification before wasting time of the House. "The Opposition Leader has not read the gazette properly. Please do not come here without reading to talk about the gazette. The gazette has interpreted properly where those regulations should be adhered. It has defined the term public place where the regulations should be followed.

MP Sumanthiran submitted the draft bill availing himself of the privilege of presenting a Private Member's Bill to the Secretary General of Parliament.

The draft bill contains a provision allowing Parliament to declare public health emergency state through a resolution passed by two-thirds of members' vote upon the written advice from the Health Services Director General.

"Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any other law, during the period of a public health emergency, and to the extent that is reasonable, any person may access any public service, including the issuance or renewal of identity documentation, the issuance of birth, death or marriage certificates, the issuance of certificates of absence, and the issuance or renewal of licenses, through remote electronic

The Minister also added that majority of those who harm the environment are not poor people but wealthy businessmen and as a society, we must detest the activities that are being carried out by destroying the environ-means, whereby the person is not required to be physically present for the purpose of receiving such service," the bill read.

The bill also proposes the setting up of a Public Health Emergency Council consisting of the President, Prime Minister, leader of the opposition, ministers of Health, Social Welfare, Environment, Home Affairs, Science and Technology, Defence, Police, Finance, Foreign Affairs, Education, Director General of Health Services etc for the effective use of resources for the detection and containment of the contagious diseases.

The council would have the powers of adopting measures necessary to counter the diseases including enhancement of public awareness and uninterrupted supply of goods and services, says the draft bill.

page 3 DN NEWS WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 2020 Garment workers, their contacts, family members being treated very well - Army Commander

Allegations strongly refuted

The Army strongly refuted the allegations that garment workers, their contacts and family members are mistreated and it is fabricated attempts to tarnish COVID-19 humanitarian roles.

"In full compliance with laid down strategic guidelines, once a need to move any close contact of a COVID-19 positive patient arises, troops, engaged in COVID-19 preventive tasks, inform all of them by phone well in advance and request them to be ready ahead of such preventive evacuations. In many instances these evacuees even after arrival of the troops, do take more time to prepare before they board the buses but such instances are tolerated and managed,", National Operations Centre for Prevention of COVID-19 Outbreak (NOCP-CO) head Chief of Defence Staff and Army Commander Lieutenant General Shavendra Silva said.

"We are there only to take suspected patients who have got in direct contact with the patient. We fully understand their predicament, but they should realise the gravity of the situation as it could be transmitted easily to society. Despite heavy workloads, I personally inquired into those allegations, but found that they are completely false. I sometimes get down even photos of those meals as well and closely keep in touch with authorities. Those Quarantine Centres are run by tri servicemen and this congestion took place only during first few days when we had to cope with some 800 odd evacuees. People should note that we are trying to prevent the transmission into society and respective PHIs and Medical Officers are informed of our arrival to take away suspected cases. We are a group who gave away their mattresses and mosquito nets for the benefit of others and their dedicated services should not therefore be insulted or downgraded " he added

"Identical to others, we treat garment workers, their contacts and family members, too, in the best possible way considering them as our own brothers and sisters," Lieutenant General Silva said.

"The mechanism that has so far effectively completed the quarantining over 52,000 persons, and is still engaged in the same with over 10,000 in island-wide tri service-managed Quarantine Centres, has been well appreciated by health authorities and profusely commended as evidenced through their positive feedbacks received to-date, and the Army performing a humanitarian role is here to be of assistance to Public Health Inspectors, Epidemiologists, Health authorities and other related agencies as part of health security at national level. The Army with other sister services is doing its utmost for the greater benefit of our society as the defenders of the nation and wants to ensure minimising further transmission of this deadly virus to other areas. All people with common sense should therefore understand challenging roles the Army is playing and continue to cooperate with these efforts, some of which would perhaps have unintentional shortcomings, and help negate possibilities of further spreading of the virus," the Commander of the Army appealed.

Lieutenant General Shavendra Silva, while strongly and flatly denying those unfounded and fabricated allegations, maintained that all those intentional fabrications bear all the hallmarks of a precursor to a bigger future machination the interested elements are now mapping out to tarnish or ridicule the role of the troops when the whole country is afflicted with a global health challenge of this magnitude.

He requested Media personnel to conduct their own investigations and find out for themselves how those quarantine procedures are adopted and what is going on there without levelling unfounded accusations.

Korean Prime Minister calls Prime Minister Rajapaksa

Korean Prime Minister Chung Sye-kyun called Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa yesterday morning, and discussed a number of areas of mutual interest while expressing the desire to enhance relations between the two countries.

While congratulating Prime Minister Rajapaksa on the victory at the recently-concluded General Election, Prime Minister Chung said he looks forward to continue working with Sri Lanka to strengthen bilateral relations.

The two leaders also discussed technical assistance for the Ocean University, for which the Korea International Cooperation Agency (KOICA) has already provided assistance.

"I hope we can continue collaborating on the project to expand it," Prime Minister Rajapaksa said.

Other areas discussed included investment and tourism.

"When the situation with the pandemic improves and air travel is back to normal, I would like to request your support in encouraging your investors to consider investing in Sri Lanka," Prime Minister Rajapaksa said.

"We also want to increase tourism from Korea," Prime Minister Rajapaksa said.

Prime Minister Rajapaksa invited Prime Minister Chung to visit Sri Lanka after the COVID-19 situation is under control, and the Korean Prime Minister said that he has never visited Sri Lanka before, and expressed interest in a visit.

PARLIAMENT NEWS DN page 4 WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 2020 No sooner first COVID-19 case detected, preventive measures were taken – Health Minister

No sooner the first COVID-19 case was detected from the Minuwangoda garment factory, the Government took immediate steps to prevent it from spreading and directed around 1,500 workers of the factory to quarantine centres without delay and subjected them to PCR tests, Health Minister Pavithra Wanniarachchi said.

She was responding to a question by Opposition Leader Sajith Premadasa in Parliament yesterday, alleging that the Government had failed to disclose how the first infected patient had contracted the virus. "We are receiving information about the first detected patient, and once we have obtained the relevant information, we will present it to Parliament. We cannot present inaccurate information to Parliament and therefore, we request for a little more time to compile all the information we have and present a full report regarding this matter," the Minister said.

She said, however, that the Government's main aim was to contain the spread of the virus no sooner they were notified the first detection. "At all times, the Government, President, Prime Minister and I as the Health Minister have implemented the recommendations of the health experts. Since the first detection, the health officials, Tri-forces commanders and myself have met daily to discuss the situation and make decisions. Moreover, according to specialist doctors, the accuracy of these PCR tests is only around 70 per cent. Sometimes, if the

swab sample is not taken properly, the PCR test would not give the correct result," the Health Minister said.

The Minister said hat

this is a global pandemic and until a vaccine for the Coronavirus is found and every single citizen is inoculated, there is no escape from it. "We had conducted around 40,000 PCR tests and after March there were no community infections reported. However, as we were receiving many appeals from our migrant workers who were facing numerous hardships, we had no choice but to bring them back. Many of them were detected with the virus and even though there were no community infec-

health experts, although we request returnees to do their PCR tests prior to arriving in the country, sometimes their infection does not show in the PCR test. In most cases the PCR test can only detect the virus after several days into the infection. However, the highest chance for the virus spreading is within the first seven days of the infection," the Minister said.

In response to the question by Premadasa regard-tions, over 200 positive cases are being treated at ing a particular aircraft that had arrived here and the number of persons on that flight, Minister Wanniarachchi said that around 40 persons had arrived on that flight but there were no Indians on the flight. She said that those who arrived in the country on that flight were quarantined from September 22 to October 20. Those who arrived on that flight were quarantined by the institution at the Sheraton Hotel in Kosgoda. Minister Wanniarachchi said that while the returnees had undergone 14-day quarantine, they had also selfquarantined at their homes for 14 days. The quarantine at the centre had been carried out under the military, while self-quarantine was supervised by the Provincial PHIs.

The Health Minister said that an allowance of Rs. 5,000 will be made to those who are unable to engage in employment due to the travel restrictions in areas where police curfew has been imposed and for those who have lost their livelihoods.

Forest density will be increased to 35 per cent – Minister Ratnayake

at Deduru Oya. Minister Chamal Rajapaksa said that swift measures had been taken against the unauthorised cultivations. The law is not strong enough to take certain legal measures against

Strengthening export economy vital for solid economy - Minister Gunawardena

Strengthening export economy is vital for solid economic growth and to balance macroevariables, conomic Trade Minister Dr. Bandula Gunawardena said yesterday. He was presenting several orders to the House concerning the Export Development Act for approval.

Minister Dr. Bandula Gunawardena revealed in Parliament yesterday that the Ministerial Council on Export Development, which was established to develop the export sector had not met for 28 years. After 28 years, however, this Council met under the chairmanship of President Gotabaya Rajapaksa,

Dr. Gunawardena said. "This ministerial council on export development is supposed to consist of all ministries that are directly linked to our export items, such as, for example, the Agriculture Ministry, Minor Exports and so on. The Council is expected to evaluate the export sector, propose policies, draw an export development plan and then establish and monitor export development authority. Unfortunately, the council has not met for 28 years. The last time the council met was during the time Lalith Athulathmudali was the Trade Minister. For any

Dr. Gunawardena said that Sri Lanka has been recognised as noble trader in the international market with rich export items. Sri Lanka was a centre for international trade. Gunawardena tabled a report by the CINTEC on creating a powerful battery using locally extracted graphite. "For all these years,

At least 25 per cent of the export development fund should be directed to encourage exporters and researchers,' Dr. Gunawardena said. Samagi Jana Balawegaya (SJB) MP Dr. Harsha De Silva joining the debate said that they fully agree with Dr. Gunawardena's proposal to allocate or use the export development fund to develop Rural Housing and Construction and Building Material Industries State Minister Indika Anuruddha said that former Housing Minister Premadasa Sajith constructed had houses only in 84 villages in Hambantota during the Good Governance Government.

He said that former Minister Premadasa had commenced constructing houses in 333 villages in the Hambantota District. However, Premadasa could not complete them as he utilised funds of the houses in 249 villages to construct the roads and provide water and electricity to the 84 villages that he completed.

State Minister Anuruddha said that he could not complete the houses in 333 villages as he had got approval for the funds to construct the houses only. He said, however, he had spent the funds of 249 houses to construct the infrastructure. "People in 249 villages are helpless," State Minister said. "Although this situation is worse in Hamban-tota, the scenario in all the districts is the same," he said.

State Minister Anuruddha was responding to queries by Hambantota District MP Dilip Wedaarachchi during the round of questions for oral answers.

The State Minister said that Sajith could not contest from Hambantota because of this reason, and he had to contest from Colombo. He said that Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa had discussions with the Indian Government with regard to the Indian Government funding to construct houses for the low income families. He added that the Premier had convinced the Indian Government to discharge a section of the fund to commence the construction of the houses and to discharge the full amount in stage-wise.

He said that during the Good Governance Government, the agreement was to discharge the full amount after completion of the construction. However, it failed as the low income groups could not complete the construction, he said.

Human-Elephant conflict will be minimised next year – Minister Ratnayake

The Government plans to minimise the Human-Elephant conflict by 2021, Wildlife and Forest Conservation Minister C.B. Ratnayake yesterday said. He made this observation delivering the reply speech to the adjournment motion moved by MP Chinthaka Mayadunna concerning Human-Elephant conflict.

Minister Ratnayake said that the human and elephant conflict has a long history. "There needs to be a comprehensive plan to solve this issue. Due to loopholes in this strategy, the issue is not solved yet. Death count from both parties is on the increase. My objective for 2021 is to minimise this human elephant conflict. We are seeking expertise from different parties who are involved in this matter. We understand that there are a number of shortcomings from the part of the Wildlife Department. We are planning to establish security posts near electric fences. We are also trying to make the payments of compensations to the victims. We will also look into forming proper habitats for elephants. Elephants are extremely sensitive to their corridors. But our people construct houses blocking them. So, we are trying to find solutions for all these matters. We will utilise new technology when finding solutions as well,' he said

Take action against EP Governor for rousing racism – TNA MP Shankiyan

(TNA) MP Rasamanickam Shankiyan alleged that Eastern Province Governor Anuradha Yahampath had violated his privileges as an MP and called on Speaker Mahinda Yapa Abeywardena to take action against him.

MP Shankiyan raising a privilege issue in Parliament yesterday, said the Governor had issued malicious and false media statements. "The Batticaloa District MPs including myself met Eastern Province Governor Anuradha Yahampath on October 14 by prior appointment. Governor Yahampath, thereafter, issued statements to the press stating that I led the delegation, which behaved in a manner unbecoming of Parliamentarians by demanding land on the basis of ethnic proportion. The Island newspaper of October 15 quoted the Governor's Media Unit and stated that the Governor found fault on communal identity to gain political mileage. It identifies me as having led the delegation. Similar statements have appeared in other Sinhala and English newspapers. That statement issued to the press by the Governor violates my privileges as an MP. This statement has caused malicious harm to my reputation and tarnished my reputation as an MP. Therefore, I urge you to take action against Anuradha Yahampath. I read the article in the Island. It says Eastern Governor locks horns with TNA politicians."

Speaker Mahinda Yapa Abeywardena replied that there is no need to read the article. "You can present your privilege issue," he said.

"In fact, this issue has nothing to do with lands or ethnic demarcation. It is pasture land between Mailaththamadu and Madawana belonging to Chenkaladi. It belongs to the Batticaloa District Tamil National Alliance with TNA politicians for claiming lands based Mahaweli B Zone. There are 200,000 milch cows grazing here for many years. The cows produce around 17,000 litres of milk daily. We met with the Grama Niladhari, Divisional Secretary and District Secretary to point out that those pasturelands are being divided into five-acre plots and distributed for various purposes. The District Secretary has now been transferred out because she spoke up on this matter. We met the Director-General of Mahaweli. I met Irrigation Minister Chamal Rajapaksa too to discuss this matter. There is a circular regarding 22,000 acres in the area. When I took up the issue I am labelled a racist. These media circuses depict me as a communalist. Sinhala readers think that I arouse communal issues. There is no such thing. This is pastureland. Milch cows grazing there do not know whether those are Sinhala or Tamil lands," he added.

Devotees

Katargama senior PHI Saman Dissanayake has requested devotees visiting the sacred city to strictly adhere to the health rules in place in view of the Covid-19 pandemic.

He said that it was a must for the pilgrims to wear facemasks and maintain social distance and wash hands before entering the Maha Devalaya.

Dissanayake said that only a limited number of devotees would be allowed to be present when rituals are taking place inside the Maha Devalaya.

He also said that social distance must be maintained when paying homage to the Kirivehera and Maha Devalaya.

The SPHI said that a large number of devotees came from various parts of Sri Lanka to Kataragama recently and requests residents too to strictly follow prescribe health guidelines.

Continue extreme caution against COVID-19 - WHO

The World Health Organization (WHO) today cautioned against any relaxation of response following the recent slight decline in COVID-19 cases in the South-East Asia region, saying the pandemic continues unabated and our response only needs to be strengthened to curtail virus transmission.

"There should be no complacency in declining numbers in recent weeks. The region still reports large numbers of COVID-19 cases. We need to continue to do our very best to curtail the pandemic," WHO South-East Asia Regional Director Dr. Poonam Khetra-pal Singh said. The upcoming festival season and the approaching winter/ cold season threaten to aggravate the situation if we let our guards down, she said. The member countries have been making concerted efforts scaling up capacities for timely detection, testing, tracing contacts, isolating the affected and providing hospital care to those who need it. "Our relentless efforts need to continue with more vigour," the Regional Director said. We must continue taking responsibility as individuals of the need to maintain physical distance, hand hygiene, cough etiquette and wear a mask when and where needed. People must remember the three Cs - avoid crowded places, avoid closed settings and avoid confined and enclosed spaces with poor ventilation.The co-circulation of seasonal influenza and COVID-19 in the winters may present challenges for health systems and health facilities, since both diseases present many similar symptoms. Many of the same measures that are effective in preventing COVID-19 are also effective for preventing influenza, including physical distancing, hand hygiene, covering coughs, ventilation and masks. WHO is working with countries to take a holistic approach to the preparedness, prevention, con-piratory diseases, including influenza and COVID-19. For the third week in a row, the WHO South-East Asia Region has registered 6 – 8 per cent decline in the number of COVID-19 cases, mainly due to a decrease in reported cases from India

he killing of notorious drug kingpin and organized crime mastermind Samarasinghe Arachchige Madush Lakshitha alias Makandure Madush yesterday during an alleged shootout while accompanying the Police to a location of a massive narcotics haul in an apartment complex in Maligawatte may have removed from our midst a most dangerous underworld figure and international drug runner, but it will not herald the end of the drug business per se given the deep inroads it has made into various layers of society and the dimensions it has assumed even involving top law enforcement officers and banking and financial institutions.

The circumstances under which the shootout took place and its veracity are now the subject of a Magisterial Inquiry. Police Spokesman Attorney- at-Law DIG Ajith Rohana has stated that Police officers were empowered to act in self defence if at any time in the course of their duty they are threatened with bodily harm.We make a point of this since even in the past there have been instances where criminal suspects accompanying Police officers to sites of hidden weapons allegedly turning violent and attempting to overpower the officers concerned only to be gunned down in the process. In this particular case, a rival gang had entered the picture, further complicating security arrangements.

Be that as it may, the removal of this leading underworld figure from our midst should be hailed, whatever the circumstances, but equally, it is foolhardy to assume that the narcotics network in its entirety would cease to operate in this country in the absence of the "Godfather" drug lord. There are others including his disciples who are still at large and proved elusive to the law. If not, how can one account for such large hauls of narcotics being detected almost on a daily basis while Madush continued to languish behind bars since his deportation from Dubai. True, he may have been in contact with his lieutenants while being locked up - what with the details of collusion of Police and Prison officials surfacing from time to time in the media.

Certainly, the deep involvement of members of the law enforcement has complicated matters and is perhaps the chief reason why so far we have been unable to seriously tackle the narcotics problem. Only yesterday newspapers reported that a jailor was nabbed with Rs.4.5 million worth of drugs in her possession providing an inkling as to how deep and widespread the drugs trade has penetrated into the most unlikely and unsuspecting realms.

All eyes on Parliament and 20A

he build-up of political ten-sion and excitement has been evident as the two-day debate of the 20th Amendment to the Constitution (20A) kicks off today with all eyes now turned towards the Legislature.

The 'Ayes' and 'Nos' in the country's supreme law making body tomorrow will decide the fate of this Constitutional Amendment which seeks to strengthen the Executive by doing away with the 19th Amendment (19A) except for a few Clauses.

The 20A Bill, which will make a paradigm shift in the country's governance, has again stolen the spotlight amidst the fresh Coronavirus scare. The citizenry is watching and waiting with bated breath to know the final outcome.

A healthy Parliamentary debate where all parties get to place their views on record has been enabled and it is up to the MPs to make the best of it with constructive proposals and criticism. After an extensive debate from 10 am to 7.30 pm today and tomorrow, the Third Reading, where the Government will bring in the Committee Stage Amendments, will begin and the House nod will be sought Clause by Clause. It will be interesting to note which hands will be raised for and which hands will be raised against the Bill, and also which Members will dodge the vote.

Both the Government and the Opposition were fortifying their camps prior to the debate and were keen to make sure all their Members attend the sittings without fail. This is the first critical vote in the two-month old Ninth Parliament, and hence the first instance to test the loyalties of the Members in the Government as well as the Opposition.

Former President and SLFP Leader Maithripala Sirisena

THE GAZETTE OF THE DEMOCRATIC SOCIALIST REPUBLIC OF SRI LANKA Part II of Angeri 28, 2020 SUPPLEMENT

on Monday evening, it has been decided to make three more salient revisions to the Bill to reach a compromise. Minister Wimal Weerawansa speaking to the media following the meeting said it was agreed to retain the existing constitutional provisions on Government auditing and limiting the number of Cabinet Ministers. Under the third revision, it has been agreed to limit presentation of 'Urgent Bills' only for matters of national security or a disaster. The above progressive decisions might settle the objections to the Bill to a certain degree. Even though Ministers including Wimal Weerawansa, Udaya Gammanpila and Vasudeva Nanayakkara expressed their contention over various provisions in the 20A, including the Clause that enables dual citizens to enter Parliament, they also made it clear that they do not intend to inconvenience the Government. The Government hierarchy is optimistic that they will soften their positions to toe the line when the Bill is taken up in Parliament as they have done before. However, there is still a question mark on the votes of State Minister Vidura Wickramanayake and MP Dr Wijeyadasa Rajapakshe. Dr Rajapakshe did not get a Cabinet or State Ministerial portfolio. Dr Rajapakshe and Wickramanayake had been firing salvos at some of their recent encounters with the media.

Chief Opposition Whip MP Lakshman Kiriella

after four days of careful consideration of arguments for and against the Bill could be seen as an early sign of victory for the Government.

Though the Court said that four Clauses of the Bill were inconsistent with the Constitution, it also stated that such inconsistency in two of them would cease when the proposed Committee Stage Amendments were incorporated.

The Court has proposed that restor-ing the citizens' right to file Fundamental Rights applications in relation to any alleged infringement resulting from the acts of the President would rectify the inconsistency of another Clause. One can see that the Supreme Court has struck down only one Clause out of the 58 Clauses of the proposed Bill. That Clause sought to remove a provision which says that the failure of a public officer to comply with directions and guidelines of the Election Commission is an offence. The Government has already said that the Bill would be amended in line with the Court ruling.

- Now that the man said to be the leading operative of the narcotics business in the country has been disposed of, the law enforcement should lose no time in carrying out the mopping up operations in earnest. The dragnet should be thrown far and wide. A start should be made by inquiring into the finances of the deceased drug lord.
- Recent arrests of leading members of the narcotics trade in the City revealed how hundreds of millions of rupees in bank accounts had been moved around freely. This in a scenario where an ordinary citizen is subjected to probing questions when he/ she deposits even a measly Rs.100,000 in a bank, as to the source of the money.Why this exception to the rule?
- Defence Secretary Major General Kamal Gunaratne (Ret.) said he would summon a meeting of all banking heads to ascertain how such large amounts of money came to be accepted without question. Not only that, in the possession of the suspects were luxury vehicles and large extents of land and property. How did all these pass muster with the relevant State bodies with no questions asked? Why did the Department of Inland Revenue overlook the billions of rupees in bank accounts and the source of the luxury assets in the possession of suspects?
- Neutralizing the financial strength of those in the drug business is akin to winning half the battle. This way they will not be in a position to buy over persons with influence who will facilitate their operations without hindrance.
- It also not inappropriate here to suggest that the Bank accounts of all top police officers together with their assets should be subjected to scrutiny from time to time, particularly in the wake of the arrest of top Police Narcotics Bureau sleuths found to have collaborated with leading drug barons.
- The elimination of Makandure Madush is bound to see a lull in the drug business for some time. This opportunity should be seized upon by law enforcement agencies to move in with urgency to smash up the whole network without allowing room for other operatives to regroup and restore the status quo. The Police have been presented with the ideal opportunity to go for the kill at a time the local narcotics distribution network is obviously lying paralysed with the removal of its criminal mastermind.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

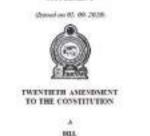

Crime, money, drugs - are all linked. -Matthew Vaughn

Pressure groups

The Government, which emerged victorious with an overwhelming mandate of the people at the last General Election, has a number very close to a super-majority in Parliament. With its aligned parties which contested the Election separately, the Government does not fall short of the 150 votes it requires for the Bill's passage, but the differences of opinions of several Members of the Government ranks on 20A have led to some uncertainty on their votes in support.

It was against this backdrop that the political higher-ups in the Government were reported to have been in discussion with several Opposition MPs to rope them in to support the Bill. As the numbers game was on in Parliament, the Opposition camp led by SJB leader Sajith Premadasa was trying to guard its team, knowing that its Members, especially those in the minority parties, could switch their allegiances any moment.

The Opposition, in an attempt to buy more time to face the debate of 20A, used COVID-19 as an excuse to demand a postponement of the debate. Chief Opposition Whip MP Lakshman Kiriella officially communicated the above request to the Speaker on Monday also observing that the one-metre distance is not adhered in the Parliament Chamber seating.

Ordend to be Bublished by the Matthe of Justice

At the same time, the Government was under pressure from civil society groups and religious leaders to re-consider the changes proposed by 20A. Among them were nationalist groups, professional bodies and influential Buddhist monks who put their shoulders to the wheel to seal an unprecedented electoral win for the President and the incumbent Government.

Towards a consensus

Well aware that the numbers matter to sail the 20A Bill through Parliament effectively, the Government was trying hard to simmer down tensions within its own camp and find common ground on the Bill's content. Sticking points of 20A had been discussed and clarified over and over again at its group meetings prior to the debate in order to remove any doubts.

In a crucial Cabinet meeting presided by President Gotabaya Rajapaksa

Landmark court ruling

The Supreme Court determination, which was officially read out by Speaker Mahinda Yapa Abeywardena in Parliament yesterday, boded well for the Government's endeavours. This landmark ruling delivered by the Supreme Court five-judge bench headed by Chief Justice Jayantha Jayasuriya, PC,

The Government is seen resolute to push the Bill through Parliament at this stage, and it maintains that that 20A would serve as a transitional amendment till a new Constitution is drawn up with broad consultation of all stakeholders. In fact, the Expert Committee appointed to compile an in-depth report on making a new Constitution has now called for public views and proposals setting an extensive process in motion. The Committee has outlined 12 broad topics for any interested citizen or group to make submissions on or before November 30.

The way things stand now with less than 48 hours for the decisive vote of the 20A Bill, political analysts believe, the Government Members will close ranks at the end of a heated debate.

In a queer twist of fate, former President Maithripala Sirisena, under whose leadership 19A saw the light of day in 2015, is slated to make a 180-degree turn and vote in support of 20A to see the back of 19A. He together with his colleagues in the Sri Lanka Freedom Party (SLFP) may find themselves in an awkward position during the debate. The former President, however, turned out to be a staunch critic of 19A following the 52-day political crisis in October 2018.

Looking at the recent political developments, it will also be interesting to see what stance the MPs representing the All Ceylon Makkal Congress (ACMC) led by MP Rishad Bathiudeen, Sri Lanka Muslim Congress (SLMC) led by Rauff Hakeem and the Tamil Progressive Alliance (TPA) led by Mano Ganeshan will take on 20A. MP Bathiudeen was remanded on Monday ending a week long CID operation to trace his whereabouts, and he is expected to turn up in Parliament this week.

A heated political atmosphere can be expected throughout the debate. As the vote approaches, the political excitement will be at fever pitch and more last minute changes to the Bill could come up before its fate is sealed tomorrow night.

OPINION

RAJPAL ABEYNAYAKE he New Delhi Metro was designed and built by Indians with an Indian engineer E. Sreedharan in charge. The Sri Lankan Government now mandates that all software procurements have to give priority to Sri Lankan companies. The same applies to the construction and furniture sector.

Will Sri Lankan engineers be able to build something akin to the Delhi Metro one day? Perhaps. The new laws on procurement are a good start. There was a time Sri Lanka had engineering talent wizardry, such as the well-known B.D. Rampala of Sri Lanka Railways (SLR), for instance.

But this is the era that countries haplessly worship at the foreign godhead. The pandemic however has accelerated the need to utilize local talent, but the new laws on procurement are in line with the President's election pledge that came before the pandemic.

Lalithasiri Gunaruwan in his now well-known chat with the President – the video was all over social media – says there are happy local engineers and unhappy ones. The happy chaps are smug over the contracts they gave over to the foreigners; the unhappy ones are those that seek local innovation at every turn, and don't get foreign favours.

But can we do the 'Delhi Metro' equivalent with local talent? What's meant is not a Sri Lankan metro. There is no such metro construction that's envisaged, at least not yet. But it's the mindset. Can we re-imagine the way we do major projects, in the vital sectors - transport, infrastructure, road building, etc?

It's worth remembering Rampala who launched the Ruhunu Kumari and the Yal Devi and introduced the concept of express long-distance rail travel. It is said that he drove the train himself on Ruhunu Kamari's first introductory run to its destination in Matara.

When Rampala first introduced diesel engines from the Ratmalana railway workshop, these British imported machines soon began developing faults. He improvised, and revamped the ailing engines using his own methods. British engineers who came to know were dumbstruck and they incorporated Rampala's innovations into their own engine repair technology. Rampala was later awarded a MBE in the Queen's Honours List.

But that was a different era. Over time, the railways gradually went to seed. People wouldn't trust a rail system that ran packed, dirty trains that broke down at the drop of a hat, and never worked to schedule.

OBSTACLES

If there are any Rampalas in any tech and industry sector today, would they put their hands up? That's what is effectively being asked by the Government which has made into law the new procurement regulations giving priority to domestic bidders - nay, basically compelling the use of domes-appointed. He has since contributed to similar underground rail projects in other key Indian cities as well.

The Indian Metro venture took in tech input by placing Hong Kong Metro officials etc. in an advisory capacity, but essentially the Delhi Metro was built at home. There were enormous obstacles, as Delhi is a city of 18.9 million people which is almost the entire population of this country, and had an enormous network of underground systems for sewerage disposal, water supply, etc.

systems and when the DMRC asked the relevant departments to move these underground systems to make way for the Metro, the response was lethargic.

Sreedharan's answer was to get his own crews to do it. So, moving a sewerage disposal system elsewhere that would have normally taken three to four years, was done by Sreedharan and his men in three months. The entire Delhi Metro system was constructed and delivered ahead of schedule.

menting a project of this magnitude would have the JVP rapidly picking holes as they do with any venture that's done quickly and efficiently for the public good.

That's how the JVP tries to score political points – by demolishing what others do. Let's consider that later, but how is Sri Lanka supposed to get anything underway, leave alone a Metro project, when the new economic realities, post-pandemic, have made debt repayment difficult as well?

in finding the money, but whatever the regular projects that could be tackled should be done as much as possible pooling local talent and resources, and the Government's new stipulations on tech procurement, etc, is a first step.

India's Metro Man

E. Sreedharan

Lanka is still lagging at 99 out of 190 economies in the World Bank's annual Ease of Doing Business Index. That's not surprising. Registering a business is still a nightmare, even though supposedly the Registrar of Companies is online, and offers an online facility, etc.

Those who use the online systems know what a nightmare it is to opt for those devices and obtain a completed registration. The roadblocks, harassment and corruption mount at each stumbling block that a SME faces in the course of establishing any type of enterprise.

These things have to change radically in tandem with the Govern-ment's policy transformations on other matters such as procurements. But, also talking of procurements, anyone who has had any experience dealing with State tenders knows that there are certain Government entities that go out of their way to keep local business from securing a tender award.

This is due primarily to the fact that they do shady deals with certain foreign bidders. They get bribes and other inducements to give awards to foreigners and are therefore eager to find any loophole to award the tender to foreign suppliers despite the domestic preference guidelines.

PROTECTED

In India the Metro project worked partly due to the fact that there were folk such as Sreedharan who resolved to go through with it no matter what the obstacles were. Sri Lankans are only too aware of the nattering nabobs in the JVP for instance who would create obstacles if there are none.

They have lost whatever political capital they had due to this negativism and yet their mindsets have not changed. Tilvyn Silva has the audacity to say they protected the Army with a supply of masks, but the JVP got in the way and criticized, and is doing that once more by saying they saved the Army while the President endangered the Army by deploying the forces in Welisara.

That's hilarious after the JVP hadn't lifted a finger to assist the Forces that did all the work. The new procurement guidelines that are geared at tapping local potential are bound to come in for flak from the JVP, and more.

The JVP's recruitment of new faces hasn't changed its core character and these new brooms sweep as badly as the old ones. The criticism has been mindless – and the old threadbare attacks about corruption and plunder have been re-launched.

The potential for change to a great extent is with the SMEs, and the Government is giving the SME sector or at least sections of it a leg up with the new procurement policy. But the bureaucracy has by and large been anti-SME due to the foreign baksheesh that comes their way through contracts.

Changed procurement policies necessarily have to be augmented by cleaning the Augean stables of the bureaucracy, the way Sreedharan did by taking matters into his own hands by getting the DMRC to do the work when Government departments refused to move sewerage and other systems out of the way of the Metro. Somebody like Sreedharan needs to put his hand up here too, and it's hoped somebody will.

tic bidders - in software, construction, furniture procurements, etc.

The Delhi Metro was first conceived with JICA funding and apparently the Japanese mandated that a Chief Executive be appointed to the DMRC that oversaw the Metro project. It's how Delhi's famous Metro Man E. Sreedharan came to be

I have heard of the blues. I've heard of jazz. I've heard of rap. I can recognize rap. I remember someone saying, perhaps in a song, something along the following lines: 'Rap music is not black music, it is the latest black music.' And I remember someone else telling me that most music genres in North America were the creations of black artistes.

And I remember what an Ethiopian artiste in a restaurant in Boston had to say by way of an educational interlude. If I remember right, the name of the restaurant was 'Asmara' which is now the capital of Eritrea. Back then, it was part of Ethiopia. There's politics in the name, but I didn't know that then. The artist didn't get into it either. He spoke of his instrument. The krar or krar-harp, a five or six stringed bowl shaped lyre. 'This is what the guitar evolved from,' he said. I would later learn about Black Athena the three volume treatise on the Afroasiatic roots of the so-called 'classical civilization' written by Martin Bernal. I digress.

I know very little about music. I wouldn't be able to distinguish jazz from the blues. Naturally, I didn't know that there was a thing called 'Chicago Blues'. I didn't know of William James Dixon (1915–1992). I didn't know that quite apart from being a musician, vocalist, arranger and record producer, he is also known as one of the most prolific songwriters of his time who, as Wikipedia has it, "next to Muddy Waters, is the most influential person shaping the post World War II sound of the Chicago Blues." I didn't know that he received a Grammy and was inducted into the Blues Hall of Fame, the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and the Songwriters Hall of Fame

I didn't know about Huddie Ledbetter either; Huddie, of whom my friend Krisantha Sri Bhaggiyadatta states, '[He] learned that if we gonna say something, we shouldn't waste people's time.' Kris posted the following lines from Huddie's 'Bourgeois Blues':

Yes, Washington's a bourgeois town I got the bourgeois blues Gonna spread the news all around Home of the brave, land of the free I don't wanna be mistreated by no bourgeoisie Lord, in a bourgeois town Yes, the bourgeois town I got the bourgeois blues I'm gonna spread the news all around Well, I didn't know about Willie

Dixon and I didn't know that he was jailed by the US government for refusing to go to war against Korea. In 1983 he released what is probably the most radical song he's penned. It was titled 'It don't make sense if you can't make peace.' You have made great planes to span the skies You gave sight to the blind with other men's eyes You even made submarines stay submerged for weeks But it don't make sense you can't make peace You take one man's heart and make another man live You even go to the moon and come back thrilled Why you can crush any country in a matter of weeks But it don't make sense you can't make peace... That was 37 years ago. This song is not talked of much. Wikipedia doesn't mention it. Wikipedia doesn't mention that he was jailed

and as such doesn't have to say why he was jailed. Useful information source, but then again, it just goes to show that bourgeois town spreads convenient news for the most part and that we got to counter it by telling the other side of the story. The bad news about stuff; for example the fact that the difference between fascism and capitalism is that the latter is dressed better, powdered and frilled. The same monster underneath.

There's history and there's 'hidden story'. Had Kris not mentioned Huddie and Willie (and Elizabeth Cotton: 'Freight train, freight train, run so fast...Please don't tell what train I'm on... They won't know what route I'm going ... "), I wouldn't have known about Chicago Blues. I wouldn't have known about the kind of radicalism these artistes demonstrated in life choices and words. Indeed, I may have forgotten Black Athena, Martin Bernal and that artiste in an Eritrean restaurant in Boston.

Virus, what virus? India gets back to work

SINNAR : India is on course to top the world in coronavirus cases, but from Maharashtra's whirring factories to Kolkata's thronging markets, people are back at work -- and eager to forget the pandemic for festival season.

After a strict lockdown in March that left millions on the brink of starvation, the government and people of the world's second-most populous country decided life must go on.

Sonali Dange, for instance, has two young daughters and an elderly mother-in-law to look after. She was hospitalised this year in excruciating pain after catching the coronavirus. But after the lockdown exhausted the family's savings, the 29-year-old had to return to work at a factory where she earns 25,000 rupees ($340) a month.

"Now that I have recovered, I am no longer so scared of the disease," she told AFP amid the din of machinery at the Nobel Hygiene plant east of Mumbai.

Worst since 1947

The pandemic's confirmed

fatality rate has been heaviest in richer nations with older populations - the US death toll is double that of India despite having only a quarter of the population.

Poor countries have suffered far worse economic pain, with the World Bank predicting 150 million people could fall into extreme poverty worldwide.

Many children in the developing world are now working to help their parents make ends meet, activists say, while thousands of young girls have been forced into marriage.

In Varanasi in northern India, 12-year-old Sanchit no longer attends school and instead collects cloth discarded from bodies before cremation on the city's ghats.

"On a good day, I earn around 50 rupees (70 US cents)," the boy told AFP.

The IMF projects India's GDP will contract by 10.3 percent this year, the biggest slump of any major emerging nation and its worst since independence in 1947.

down, it was a human catastrophe, leaving millions in the informal economy jobless, penniless and destitute almost overnight.

No one wants to go back to that, said Gargi Mukherjee, 42, as she shopped in the New Market area of Kolkata, thronging with festival-season customers, many without face masks. "For survival, people have to come out and do their jobs. If you don't earn, you cannot feed your family," she told AFP. Experts caution that the October-November season -when Hindus celebrate major festivals such as Durga Puja, Dussehra and Diwali -- may trigger a sharp increase in infections, as consumers crowd markets to snap up big-ticket items on discount.

"Of course corona is to be feared. But what can I do? I can't miss the moments of Durga Puja," said housewife Tiyas Bhattacharya Das, 25.

"Durga Puja comes once in the year, so I cannot miss the enjoyment of the shopping." Hunger or virus

Sunil Kumar Sinha, principal economist at the Mumbai-based India Ratings and Research agency, said Indians faced a stark choice.

"People have to choose whether to die of hunger or risk getting a virus that may or may not kill you," he told AFP.

Indeed India's relatively low mortality rate -- about 1.5 percent of its more than seven million cases -- has surprised many who warned coronavirus would lay waste to its crowded cities, beset by poor sanitation and crumbling public hospitals.

Even accounting for some likely undercounting, it is evident that the nightmare scenario of dead bodies piled in the streets as seen during the 1918 flu pandemic has mercifully not materialised.

Foot off the brake

Virus secondary as civilians try to survive Karabakh battle

The unexpected reprieve has given Prime Minister Narendra Modi leeway to resist a fresh lockdown, with the human toll -- and political cost -- of another shutdown higher than seeing case numbers soar.

But Bhramar Mukherjee, an epidemiologist at the University of Michigan, warned the government should not simply let the virus run its course.

"In order to open up, you need to intensify public health measures... If you completely take your foot off the brakes, the virus will take off too," Mukherjee told AFP.

Last month, the Indian Medical Association slammed the Modi government for its "indifference" to the sacrifices of front-line staff in one of the world's worst-funded health care systems.

"It appears that they are dispensable," it said.

Back in Kolkata, bookseller Prem Prakash, 67, was philosophical.

"You have to leave some things to fate," he told AFP. "Fearing death too much is not a solution. When that comes, you should accept it gracefully. (AFP)

UK researchers aim to infect volunteers to study Covid exposure

LONDON : British researchers on Tuesday said they hope to expose healthy volunteers to the virus that causes Covid-19 in a groundbreaking study to discover the amount needed for people to become infected.

The Human Challenge Programme -- a partner-ship that includes Imperial College London – hopes the work will ultimately help to "reduce the spread of the coronavirus, mitigate its impact and reduce deaths".

In what researchers called a world first, the opening stage of the project will examine the possibility of exposing healthy volunteers to the SARS-CoV-2 coronavirus.

IMF predicts 5.3% growth recovery for Sri Lanka in 2021

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) says Sri Lanka's expected gross domestic product could shrink 4.6% for 2020, up from 0.5% predicted earlier, though it expects the global economy to fare better.

However, the IMF says growth would recover to 5.3% in 2021. Global growth is projected at

-4.4% in 2020, a less severe contraction than (WEO) Update. The revision reflects better-than anticipated second quarter GDP out turns, mostly in advanced economies, where activity began to improve sooner than expected after lock downs were scaled back in May and June, as well as indicators of a stronger recovery in the third quarter.

India would shrink 10.3%, Maldives 18.7% while Bangladesh would grow one of the fastest rates in the world amid a Covid-19 crisis, the IMF said.

Global growth is projected at 5.2% in 2021, a little lower than in the June 2020 WEO Update, reflecting the more moderate downturn projected for 2020 and consistent with expectations of persistent social distancing. Following the contraction in 2020 and recovery in 2021, the level of global GDP in 2021 is expected to be a modest 0.6% above that of 2019. The growth projections imply wide negative output gaps and elevated unemployment rates this year and in 2021 across both advanced and emerging market economies. After the rebound in 2021, global growth is expected to gradually slow to about 3.5% into the medium term.

This implies only limited progress toward catching up to the path of economic activity for 2020-25 projected before the pandemic for both advanced and emerging market and developing economies.

The Valachchenai Paper Mill which has stalled operations for 26 years and resumed recently, has targeted 100 tonnes a day in the near future.

"After 26 years we have commenced production on a small scale and we are manufacturing around 20-25 tonnes daily and we hope to go up to 100 tonnes a day with a Rs. 800 million loan. Chairman of the National Paper Company Ltd (successors to the National Paper Corporation) Wimal Rupasinghe told Daily News Finance.

He explained that the company had also applied for a Treasury Guarantee for Rs. 800 million and would be raising the funds through the People's Bank

He said that the loan would see that the spare parts for refurbishment of the former machines would be replaced which would facilitate the increased production up to 100 tonnes per day.

He said that the increased production would take place within a time frame of three months after the spares are imported and installed in the factory. India will be the most likely country that we will be importing the machinery but we have to call for tenders, he said.

Industries, Minister Wimal Weerawansa observing the successful test run of Valaichchenai Paper Mill goes into full production, will produce an additional 60 tonnes a day. However, there are some legal issues and operational issues which have to be sorted out prior to the commencement of the production operations. These include refurbishment of wiring and electrical issues and also water and electricity issues, he said.

Fitch Affirms Melstacorp and Subsidiary Distilleries at 'AAA(Ika)'; Outlook Stable

Fitch Ratings has affirmed the National Long Term Ratings of Sri Lanka-based conglomerate, Melstacorp PLC, and its subsidiary, Distilleries Company of Sri Lanka PLC (DIST), at 'AAA(lka)'. The Outlook is stable.

Fitch has rated DIST, which is the stronger of the two entities, based on the consolidated profile of Melstacorp due to strong operational and modest legal linkages between the two entities, as defined in our Parent and Subsidiary Linkage Rating Criteria. DIST contributes around 70% to Melstacorp's consolidated EBIT-DA, shares the same board of directors and Melstacorp has unrestricted access to DIST's cash flows.

The affirmations reflect the group's ability to maintain leverage comfortably below the 4.5x negative rating sensitivity over the medium term, despite the corona virus pandemic led economic downturn, due to strong cash flows from its resilient spirits business.

Corona, weak borrowings to further jolt FLCs

Sri Lanka Finance and Leasing Dashboard: FY20

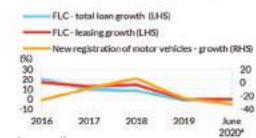

The risk of a second coronavirus wave, together with weak borrower sentiment in an already fragile operating environment, would put further stress on Sri Lankan Finance and Leasing Companies' (FLCs) credit profiles, adding to existing pressures on asset quality and profitability. These risks will test

FLCs' loss-absorbing capacity, but Fitch Ratings believes that the capital and profit buffers of most Fitchrated standalone-driven FLCs1 (except for Bimputh, which will experience material capital erosion due to losses) will be adequate to cushion against moderate asset-quality shocks.

Fitch expects Sri Lanka's real GDP to contract by 3.7% in 2020 due to the pandemic. The economic fallout has pressured the FLC sector's asset quality with the six-months past due non-performing loans

(NPLs) ratio spiking to 14.1% by end-June 2020 (1QFY21) (FYE20: 11.4%). The sector's return on assets turned negative to -2.3% in 1QFY21 (FYE20:1.9%) due to high credit costs. A prolonged restriction on vehicle importation and the resultant surge in second-hand vehicle prices are likely to hamper Sri Lankan FLCs'

FY15–FY20), and leasing not emerge unscathed from and hire purchases accountthe economic downturn ed for 55% of the sector's because they are largely sub-prime.'

Weak earnings due to rising credit costs and slow loan growth will weigh on FLCs' internal capital generation. We view this risk as more acute for small FLCs which already have weak profitability buffers, with credit costs consuming more than 70% of their pre-impairment operating profits.

A deadline extension to meet capital requirements and lower loan growth will ease near-term capital pressures for some companies. Out of 38 licensed finance companies in the sector, nine were non-compliant with minimum capital requirements at end-September 2020 and the Central Bank of Sri Lanka (CBSL) has granted an extension to rectify the non-compliance.

The National Savings Bank will provide users of their remittance services the opportunity to win prizes. The scheme under the stewardship of Chairman Keasila Jayawardana looks to promote the new partnership with Western Union.

The scheme was unveiled on October 19 at NSB Savings House (Head Office) with the first transactions through Western Union. Jayawardana expressed concern as to why it had taken so long for the State bank to partner with Western Union and it was one of her initial reforms at the institution.

Javawardana noted that it was the President's vision to help the worker. The Central Bank had previously in March 2019 discouraged banks from providing customers with additional benefits for their deposits. Jayawardana called on the public to take advantage of the 8.5% interest rate loans for housing and business purposes offered by the bank. She said that students could obtain financial credit at a rate of 9.5% with the bank

Jayawardana noted that Sri Lanka's highest foreign exchange earnings come from workers abroad. She noted that customers in Italy, Korea, and the Middle East would benefit with the 100% state guarantee that is only available at NSB.

People's Bank also made history recently by becoming the first state bank to accept fingerprints of pensioners for verification purposes, in lieu of the conventional life certificate. In keeping with the "Vistas of Prosperity and Splendour" manifesto of the Government which aims to utilize technology to enhance the efficiency and output of the State sector, the Department of Pensions recently introduced a facility that enables pensioners to use their fingerprint as verification instead of the time-consuming process of obtaining and submitting a life certificate to the Department. Accordingly, with this new facility any of the nearly 650,000 pensioners in the country, irrespective of whether they are a People's Bank customer or not can walk into any of the selected People's Bank branches and conveniently provide their fingerprint on a specialised electronic device. With the aim of helping govsequences for him, even after he became a director. Orson Welles, who had very little affection for the man, remembered a group of writers, including H. G. Welles, paying him a visit during a shoot. One of his gagmen appeared out of nowhere and proposed certain changes to the script. Chaplin, Orson recalled, was angry; the gagman, so essential to his work, was making him look like a hack in front of his guests. According to Orson, Chaplin proceeded to fire him for the sin of embarrassing him.

Those who view cinema as an essentially collaborative medium would take to task those who see in Chaplin the definitive author of his films. But what are movies if not the result of collaborations between directors, writers, actors, and technicians? Chaplin's work vindicates those who see in it the product, not just of collaboration, but also of conflict, between the world's greatest comedian and the men and women he worked with This, in its own special way, explains the paradox at the heart of Chaplin's art: while his background became the richest source of material for his work, he lacked the literary skills needed in an industry that was fast moving from one- and two-reelers to sixreelers. For the truth is that no one at the time believed comedy would work with more than three reels. The Tramp's greatest contribution to the cinema, then, was turning slapstick, even within the framework of the silent film - for most Tramp stories barring one contain no dialogue - into featurelength entertainments. He couldn't have done these alone. But they would have been nothing without him. It worked, and cut, both ways. The paradox of his methods underlay the paradox of his personality. As someone who's studied them will tell you, his films tend to vacillate between happiness and melancholy. The comedy in them, in other words, coexists with the pathos. If his early work seems to lack this dualism - can one, for instance, think of a single depressing moment in The Gold Rush (1923), or even City Lights (1925), acknowledged to be his best even by those who don't hold him in high regard? - it's largely because this dualism mirrored his personal life, and grew more and more evident with his troubles. Modern Times (1936), in which he talks gibberish in one sequence, gives way to The Great Dictator (1940), in which he talks all the way to the end. The oration at the end of the latter, where he pleads for peace, can be seen as a reflection of either his political concerns or his domestic troubles. A decade later he would be banned from entering the US: a victim of the anticommunist witchhunts of that decade. Arguably, this quality distinguished Chaplin from his contemporaries. Most of them, like him, came from minstrel shows, comic halls, and vaudeville acts. Yet born and raised in the US, they were a world away from his more Dickensian upbringing. His father, a music hall performer, died a month after he turned three; his mother, mentally ill, could find no income. Young Charlie found himself at a workhouse, long after she had been committed to an asylum; unlike Buster Keaton, whose parents ran a travelling show, he thus forayed into acting fatherless and virtually an orphan. Mack Sennett and Keystone Studios came much later; by then he had turned 24, and Sennett, on the lookout for a replacement for a retiring actor, thought him too young. Yet by the mid-1920s he had got to share with Mary Pickford the distinction of being the highest paid Hollywood star: $520,000 a year, at a time when the average American earned less than a thousand.

Modern Times (1936)

Not every critic was kind towards his work or art. Many of them dismissed him as an entertainer, and nothing more. Such tepid reviews continued long after he was recognised as the genius that he was, but then that really boils down to individual tastes. On the other hand, even those receptive to the greatness of his later work get turned down, and hence tend to ignore, his early films: David Shipman, in his massive two-volume study The Story of Cinema, spoke for everyone when he mused, "Just why he is so funny, it is impossible to say." Shrouded in mystery and enigma, at times he could, in his work, be quite disarming: Orson Welles thought him more sinister than funny. In their biography of the man, Peter Cotes and Thelma Niklaus ponder on the dualism of his personality, and how that influenced his stories. Speaking of Chaplin, Orson Welles brought up a circus analogy: "there are," he observed, "two basic kinds of clowns." One, white-faced and elegant, remained the opposite of the other, clumsy and unattractively large. Chaplin's secret, Welles suggested, was that he married the two: in the Tramp, he gave us an elegant clown, full of almost feminine charm, yet clad in baggy pants. One of the most enduring images of the Tramp is the final shot of him on the side of a road, getting up after pondering on everything he's done, pulling up his trousers, and walking to a hopeful, uncertain future, his stick whirling and his backside waving at a laughing audience. In these scenes he is fine, elegant; yet he is also clumsy, childish. Welles detested Chaplin, calling him "deeply dumb in many ways." Cotes and Niklaus, however, while not affirming Welles's estimation of the man, examine this dualism from another perspective. For them, Chaplin, while teetering between happiness and melancholy, teetered more fundamentally between good and evil. In his early and midcareer work - not only The Gold Rush and City Lights, but, more importantly perhaps, Modern Times and The Great Dictator – his characters embody basic goodness, "with evil as an exterior force." By the time of his most controversial work, Monsieur Verdoux (1947) – in which he plays an a bank employee, fired and now engaged in marrying wealthy women and killing them off for the money - though, good and evil can no longer survive as polar opposites. James Agee, one of the few who defended Verdoux – a film most Chaplin lovers in Sri Lanka have not heard of, much less seen when it first came out, argues that what little goodness there is in Chaplin (who is not playing the Tramp here) lies in his love for his bedridden wife and his child. He kills for them. When they leave owing to circumstances outside his control, he hence loses all hope, and willingly lets himself be caught. Agee put it better than most about how Chaplin resolves the dilemma of good versus evil in Verdoux, and on that note I conclude this little tribute to the cinema's greatest comic, and to how conscious he was of a world mired in war, poverty, and mindless complacency: "... in order to preserve intact in such a world as this those aspects of the personality which are best and dearest to one, it is necessary to exercise all that is worst in one."

icon from the 20th century, Charlie Chaplin remains the most imitated, probably the most plagiarised. Virtually everyone's had a shot at imitating the Tramp or the Little Fellow, his onscreen persona: "an archetype," Satyajit Ray wrote in a tribute, "which endeared him to the whole world."

Just as every budding opera singer tries his hand at Rossini's "Largo Al Factotum", every budding actor even at school tries to take on that top hat and stick, those washed down clothes, and that sense of dignified poverty, and walk in the shoes of the greatest comic the cinema ever bred. Very few succeed, and even those who do don't quite get him. Raj Kapoor didn't, since as Lester James Peries once observed, his Tramp "looked more opulent than his American counterpart." Neither did Cantinflas, the great Mexican actor. Our own Mahendra Perera gave it a shot, first as a tragic clown in Arumosam Wehi (2002) and later as a Chaplin lookalike in Address Naha (2018). Again though, not very successful.

Chaplin did not create the Tramp on his own. It was later, much later, that he got to direct his onscreen persona. Until then he worked under Mack Sennett, the father of the two-reel comedy, who also introduced to the world the other great comedy actors of the 1920s: Harold Lloyd, Fatty Arbuckle, and Harry Langdon. If these names aren't familiar to Sri Lankan audiences today, it's largely because Chaplin turned out to be the most demanding and the most independent minded among them, and, having been refused a pay rise, chose to leave them to become a filmmaker on his own. In 1914 Sennett turned him into a big star; by that year's end he had taken part in no fewer than 36 films for him, most of them one-reelers. A decade later he directed The Gold Rush, one of the greatest he ever made.

The earliest comics didn't write their own gags. They hired gagmen, well paid though not so well recognised. Since most of these comics worked for one movie company or another – Chaplin for Keystone Studios (1914) and for the Essnay Film Manufacturing Company (1915-1918) – they had to have others to write, and at times think, for them.

It remains debatable to what extent Chaplin continued with these gagmen and devolved on them the task of writing his

No one composer had touched the hearts of so many as Mendelssohn in both classical and light music the way he had. His extraordinary touch in scores such as E minor Violin Concerto or FIN-GAL'S CAVE has left his signature for no one to

Rediscovering the age of Shakespeare

SUNANDA MAHENDRA

Perhaps some of my good learned friends may disagree with me if I say that it is not mainly the title of a book that attracts us to possess it. This happened to me when I got the book titled The Age of Shakespeare (Phoenix 2004) by Frank Kermode. Not that I was disinterred on knowing more about the age of Shakespeare that mattered. I had a longstanding admiration for Ker-

I was given the impression that Frank Kermode is Britain's distinmost guished and bestloved literary critic. He has also compiled several brief sketches that go as pen portraits titled Not Entitled and Pieces of My Mind. I am not too sure whether some of the essays that were printed in the journal encounter happened to be published in book form. Coming on to the work in my hand The Age of Shakespeare, I rediscovered Kermode in several ways.

In the first instance, the total effect of the work does not sound high flown as the writer Kermode takes the reader into the birthplace of Shakespeare reminding of n South India, especially in Tamil Nadu, this instrument is called Jaltharangam. In Tamil "Jala" means water. The instrument which uses water as the main source, due to that it has got the name as Jaltharangam in Tamil. In North India, in the Hindi language, this particular instrument is called as Jaltarang, and in Urdu, it is called Jal-tharang. It brings out the sound of water waves.

The instrument Jaltharang means water waves. This instrument is always used as the main instrument with two or three accompaniments. It is not used as an accompanying instrument like other wind, leather and string instruments. Normally it consists about eighteen different size porcelain bowls in the same shape but different sizes. All the bowls are arranged in such a semi-circle manner in front of the Jaltharang player. The bowls are arranged in a half-circle manner. Different size porcelain containers are arranged systematically (especially from big to small). In the left side of the Jaltharang player, bigger size bowls are kept and smaller size bowls are kept on the right side.

Balinese music

Originally this instrument was practised and played in the South-East Asian region. Especially this was practised in Bali, Java and Myanmar. It originated from Gamelan orchestra in South East Asia. The Gamelan orchestra was the old traditional music of Balinese music. Gong of Gamelan was used with metal made tools, in different shapes for music. To bring out the sound, two thin bamboo sticks were used.

In Indian classical music, numerous varieties of musical instruments are in use. Most of the musical instruments are made out of wood, metal, leather strings and bamboo. Different variety of strings and different thickness of strings are used for different string instruments. Among all the instruments Jalatharang is an exceptional and unique Indian musical instrument. Like Jaltharang, Kasht-tarang and Kanch Tarang are almost similar to Jaltharang. All these instruments are made out of glass or porcelain. This particular Jaltharang instrument is called by different names in different Indian regions

All eighteen china bowls are filled with water at different levels. Earlier the total number of china bowls used for this instrumental music was more than the present era. Today the even total number of bowls used by the artists varies from one another. But today the maximum amount or the total number of bowls used for Jaltharang is not more than eighteen.

Some of these porcelain bowls are filled with water at rim level. The filled water porcelain bowls are played by the artist by holding two slender sticks with both hands. When the bowls are filled with more water, the pitch or the tone level would be low.

Pitch level

According to the pitch level, the water level of the bowls should be adjusted by the players (artistes). Many of times to adjust the pitch level of the Jaltharang, the player does numerous adjustments with the water level of the bowls. Excellent melodious tunes could be brought out or obtained when the bowls are stuck with sticks.

Jaltharang is popularly used in Indian music, but practising this musical instrument is quite rare as compared to other musical instruments. This instrument is often used in South India with Mridangam. In North Indian music even the gats of Sitar also could be beautifully played in this Jaltharang musical instrument. Many of times in North Indian music Jaltharang is accompanied with Tabla.

Jaltharang is used with some other string and air instruments when it is used with numerous other instruments ultimately the gentle melody of the Jaltharang is strongly affected. Normally medium and fast tempos are well maintained by this instrument. In South Indian music the most outstanding artistes in Jalatharangam were Subbiar and Harihara Bhagavathar. Still, many younger artistes are learning and playing this instrument with great enthusiasm. All the excellent nuances of music are invariably brought out in this waterbased bowl instrument.

Indian classical music both Carnatic and Hindustani are quite popular in Sri Lanka, but unfortunately, no Jaltharang musical instrumental artiste has entered yet in the Sri Lankan musical field.

Due to the penetration of western instrument keyboard, many of the tradi-

a sensitive journey. In the procedure, the childhood of Shakespeare is visualised as a growing up effect for the creative mind of the child in Shakespeare. The work goes to nine chapters paving the way for the reader to get a good picture of the land called England of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The province called Stratford is rediscovered giving substantial material from known and unknown sources. In a very lucid manner, Kermode traced the way the reformation affected not only theology and liturgy, but the distributions of national wealth and political power were also greatly altered by the dissolution of monasteries and other rich ecclesiastical establishments. Further Kermode traces the upheaval that affected not only the clergy, the ordinary people had to accommodate themselves to a radical change.

The total effect that Kermode makes the reader feels the pulse of the average man in the Elizabeth Era. Then coming on to Chapter two, Kermode gives the reader a glimpse of what London looked like when Shakespeare was driven to live there and observe what takes place in the cultural scene of the time. The chapter titled Shakespeare Goes to London is a sensitive and eye-opening panorama that kindled his creative skills. Kermode states:

It was into this turbulent city (London) hat William Shakespeare made his way as a young man, frequenting as he must, the parts of London and Southwark that eluded the attention of the Puritan city fathers. By what means he came there and exactly what he did when he got there, are still questions with no clear answers.'

LESSER-KNOWN SOURCES

But as pages move, Kermode gradually develops how the young man Shakespeare gathers his skills in the field of theatre. The sharp powers of learning and the desire to express in Shakespeare are brought to the forefront in Chapter Five titled The Theatres. Here the world of theatre into which Shakespeare entered is depicted.

The reader gets the feeling that the theatre sources that Shakespeare was made to be exposed are undergone similarly by the writer as well. The material thus found by Kermode goes into the making of two chapters titled as Early Shakespeare and The Globe. Author Kermode sensitively captures the poetic skills and the theatrical skills that go into the making of 36 creative pieces. Whenever Shakespeare was relaxing as Kermode notes he had the additional skill of writing sonnets that he included late into the body of his major plays. By way of courtesy, Kermode alludes his references to various other lesser-known sources as well.

This enables the reader to gauges the intensity of the work, he had undertaken. In many ways, as a reader, I found that the work of Kermode is a clear, penetrative and an eye-opening rediscovery of the age of Shakespeare. From another plane of expression. Kermode's attempt is more or less similar to a communication survey of the creativity in Shakespeare as well as his contemporaries. The cultural, technological and academic trends of the era of Shakespeare are traced in the best possible manner. The work of Kermode includes quite a number of rare illustrations and sketches about the period under discussion.

ALTHAF NAWAZ

St.Peter's College, Colombo one of the pioneer Catholic schools in the country played a significant role in producing several top class academics and sportsmen, who brought honour and fame for their 'Alma Mater' club and country.

Desmond Harridge was a versatile sportsman produced by St.Peter's College, Colombo. His father Noel was a businessman and mother Norma was a housewife from Colombo. He was born to a family of three with two elder brothers late Christopher who played Cricket and Rugby for college later represented the Colts Cricket Club while the other brother is Michael who is currently living in Colombo.

He was a sports fanatic from his tiny days as he went on to engage in Cricket and Athletics apart from best loved game of Rugby at College. His initial interest in rugby started when he was about six years old, while living down Isipathana Mawatha in the vicinity of Havelock Sports Club. He quite often walked across the grounds and watched the players practice there. His dad was a member of the club and used to take him frequently to witness the Park Club matches. His only 'boast' in Cricket is that Roy Dias was a former National 14 team.

In 1966, when he was mere 14 years old, he was picked to play as a second row forward for the College first XV team towards the latter part of the season. His first coach was Archibald Perera and the captain of the team that year was Hamzie Hameed. In the next two seasons, he established a regular position in the side and went on to be selected to play for Colombo and Combined Schools sides. In 1969, after playing just one game for St. Peter's, at the age of 17 years he decided to quit his academic career due to various reasons from school seeking employment at the Colombo Gas Company, while continuing his rugby career by joining Havelock Sports Club. Within two weeks of joining them, he was selected to play in their 'A' division team as a second row forward.

He launched his club career by making his debut against the Kandy Rugby Football Club.

The highlight of the year was, he was selected to play against the CR and FC, who were considered as one of their arch rivals in rugby. One of the unforgettable memories of that match was when he tackled Sari de Sylva, who was one of player under his captaincy in the under way of playing. His coach that year was Nimal Maralande.

In 1970, he remained as a regular player in the Havies side which was captained by Jeff Ratnam and went on to play in his first Clifford Cup final game where they were joint winners with the Police team in a cliff hanger game which ended in a 6-all draw. Next year rugby season was affected by the civil unrest in the country due to the insurgency and only Clifford Cup tournament was played in which they were knocked out by CR and FC in the semi final 6-14. However, later on that year he was chosen to play for a CRFU side vs the Paris University team which visited Sri Lanka. In 1972, while maturing as a quality player, fortunes changed and the pendulum swung his way as there were two notable events occurring in his rugby career.

Firstly, when he was selected to play for the Colombo and President's XV teams respectively against the London Welsh rugby team who visited Colombo after their victories over the All Blacks in New Zealand. Some of the players in their team were J.P.R Williams John Dawes John Spencerand Mervyn Davies, four of the great names on the international rugby arena at that stage. The his heroes due to his skills and robust second event was he being selected to represent Sri Lanka at the Rugby Asiad, which was played in Hong Kong, which was a real honour for any player. He played with Dr.

Maiya Gunasekera as his second row partner at the Asiad. Besides himself, there were two former Peterites in this team namely Hadji Omar and Hamish Paternott. Earlier that year, he also played two games against the visiting Australian Emus.

In 1973, he continued to play for the Havelocks under Royden de Silva's cap- much more than what just took place on taincy, who was also his regular partner in the second row there. While enjoying his rugby he then decided to get married . In 1974, at the age of 22 years, he was appointed as the captain of the Havelocks Sports Club. It happened as there was an influx of many young players, who had played school rugby in the previous year joined the club. He was lucky enough to associate with several experienced lads like Omar Sheriff, Anton Benedict, and Hafi Abdeen who also joined the club that year.

The side was coached by Gamini Fernando who was excellent at not just honing our skills, but also helped in building up their confidence while believing in their playing ability. This guided them in winning the Clifford Cup that year by outsmarting the CR and FC16-4 in the final.

However, the following year, he decided to join the Hotel Lanka Oberoi as an Assistant Manager and this involvement in working in many varied shift duties and irregular hours of work made it difficult to keep up with his rugby training. Coincidence with this factor, expecting the arrival of their first child, left him with no choice but to retire from the game.

The oval shaped ball game to him was the field of play but became his 'Way of life'. The camaraderie amongst the players, officials and supporters was just incredible and many friendships were formed, which remain very strong even up to now. This is not just with his former teammates, but also those whom he played against.

He says that the names of all those who were a part of his journey through this great game are too numerous to mention but Glen Van Langenberg, Noel Brohier, Tyrone Holdenbottle, Dan Ratnam Jeyer Rodriguesz Thajone Savanghan Shafi Jainudeen Jeffrey De Jong and Ana Saranapala of Havelocks while CR and FCs Reggie Bartholomeusz Didacus De Almeida Ronnie Schokman Tikiri Marambe Ajith Abeyratne and CH and FC s Darrel Wimalaratne Lorensz Pereira Rodney Paternott Bryan Baptist Horace Perera and Harindra Gunssekera were some of them.

He migrated to Australia in 1984 with his wife Suzie and have two sons Evan and Andre.

He is blessed with five grand children. He currently lives in Melbourne where he remains as an avid follower of the game and is a passionate supporter of the Wallabies.

Tokyo Olympics on alert for cyberattacks

Daily Acws

TOKYO, TUESDAY: Tokyo Olympics organisers said they were on constant alert for cyberattacks Tuesday but had yet to suffer "significant impact" after Britain accused Russia of targeting the Games

DN S

Britain's foreign ministry said Russian spies attacked the 2020 Games' organisers, logistics services and sponsors before the event was postponed by one year because of the Corona virus pandemic.

Tokyo 2020 officials said they had taken a range of countermeasures against digital attacks but did not disclose details, citing security concerns.

"While we have constantly monitored various types of cyberattack on the digital platforms owned by Tokyo 2020, no significant impact has been observed in our operations," an organising committee statement said.

Britain's allegations came as six Russian military intelligence officers were charged in the United States with carrying out cyberattacks on Ukraine's power grid, the 2017 French elections and the 2018 Pyeongchang Winter Olympic Games.

British daily The Guardian said alleged digital reconnaissance work on Tokyo 2020 had included spearphishing -- messages disguised to appear as if from a trusted friend or business connection, but which contain malware.

The planned attack also included setting up fake websites and researching individuals' account security, the newspaper said.

Japan's Olympic Minister Seiko Hashimoto declined to directly address the report on Tuesday, but said that "since the London Games, cyberattacks have been increasing".

The US justice department said the Pyeongchang Winter Olympics in South Korea were targeted after Russian athletes were banned from participating under their own flag because of government-sponsored doping efforts. "Their cyber attack combined the emotional maturity of a petulant child with the resources of a nation state," he said, adding that they attempted to pin it on North Korea.

"During the opening ceremony, they launched the 'Olympic Destroyer' malware attack, which deleted data from thousands of computers supporting the Games, rendering them inoperable," he said.

Lee Hee-beom, former president and CEO of the Pyeongchang organising committee, said he was unaware who was responsible for the attack until now.

"There was a hacking on the opening day but we could not not confirm its source," Lee told AFP.

"Internet connection was lost right after the ceremony from the hacking and we had to mobilise experts to restore it all night. Until now, I did not know who had done it." AFP

Johnson pulls out of second straight golf tournament

LOS ANGELES, TUESDAY: World No. 1 Dustin Johnson has pulled out of this week's ZoZo Championship in Los Angeles, the second straight event he has withdrawn from after testing positive for the new coronavirus.

The 36-year-old Johnson is recovering after experiencing some Covid-19 symptoms but is still not well enough to resume playing competitive golf, his agent David Winkle said.

"While he is feeling much better, he is still a bit low on energy and feels it would be best to wait and resume his schedule in Houston," Winkle told Golfweek.

Dhoni admits Chennai's failure after Royals thumping

DUBAI, MONDAY: Mahendra Singh Dhoni admitted on Monday that Chennai Super Kings have not lived up to their billing this Indian Premier League season after the three-time winners were outclassed by Rajasthan Royals.

Chennai skipper Dhoni's 200th match in the Twenty20 tournament turned out to be a damp squib as his team lost by seven wickets in Abu Dhabi to slip to the bottom of the eightteam table

Buttler, who came to bat at number five rather than his usual opening slot, put on an unbeaten 98-run stand with skipper Steve Smith, who made 26, after Royals lost three early wickets.

"I thought we bowled pretty well in the powerplay and the spinners did a good job in the middle with their leggies and googlies and squeezing," said Smith.

"Shreyas (Gopal) last two years has been sensational for us and (Rahul)

American Johnson also withdrew from last week's CJ Cup tournament in Las Vegas. If he continues to get better, his next event will be the Houston Open at Memorial Park Golf Course on November 5-8.

Because of the coronavirus pandemic, the ZoZo Championship was moved to the Sherwood Country Club near Los Angeles after making its debut in Japan last year. Tiger Woods is the defending champion.

The PGA Tour's next event is the Bermuda Championship from October 29-November 1. Johnson took over No. 1 in the world in August with a victory at the Northern Trust tournament. The 2016 US Open winner finished tied for second at the 2020 PGA Championship in August at San Francisco. AFP

Jos Buttler's unbeaten 70 and disciplined bowling helped the Steve Smith-led Rovals dominate the game after being put into field first.

"It's fair enough, this season we weren't there," a disappointed Dhoni said after Chennai's seventh loss from 10 matches.

Greece allows fans back to football stadiums

ATHENS, MONDAY: Greek government health authorities on Monday gave permission for a limited number of football supporters to attend football matches starting this week, albeit under strict rules.

Spectators had been banned since last March at the start of the Corona virus outbreak in the country. The first match with a 10 percent capacity to be allowed will be on Wednesday when Olympiakos hosts French side Marseille for the Champions League group stage contest at the Karaiskaki Stadium in Piraeus, near Athens. That will be followed by the Europa League group stage match between PAOK Thessaloniki and Omonia of Cyprus on Thursday.

In addition, one or two Greek Super League games will be allowed to take place with spectators this coming weekend.

The government said that the matches will be a test to see whether the gates should be allowed open for other games in the future.

UEFA has given the green light for matches to be held with spectators under strict health regulations and subject to the approval of that country's governments.

Spectators must wear masks at all times, fans need to stay 1.5 metres apart and remain in their assigned seats.

"Now, finally, the time has come for the gradual return of

Virtual swords drawn as eSports worlds in China defy virus

SHANGHAI, TUESDAY: ESports has bucked a grim trend to stage a world championship in Shanghai, even as numerous international sports tournaments across the globe are wiped out by the coronavirus.

And while events that are taking place often do so behind closed doors, the October 31 finals of the League of Legends worlds will be in front of more than 6,300 spectators.

League of Legends is a massively popular multiplayer online battle arena game and the world title is one of the biggest prizes in professional gaming.

There were 3.2 million applications for tickets for the championship decider at the end of this month at the new Pudong Football Stadium -- the arena's maiden event.

It can hold more than 30,000 but the attendance is limited to ensure social distancing.

Organisers anticipate that more than 100 million unique viewers online will watch the finals, which come after many sports competitions have been cancelled or postponed in virus-hit 2020, including the Tokyo Olympics. The tournament has a minimum prize pool of $2.225 million but the teams' support. All the participants final figure is likely to be far higher. In 2018 it eventually totalled nearly $7 million.

The staging of the championship is partly a reflection of how China, where coronavirus emerged late last year, has successfully got to grips with the deadly disease.

"Firstly the (coronavirus) situation in China is contained and safe," said Wensen Zeng, China eSports development lead at Riot Games, the developer of League of Legends.

"Secondly, you have to get the

It is now at the semi-final stage, but the tournament started out last month with 22 teams from all over the world. Getting 400-500 people into China was a huge logistical challenge.

There were visas to be arranged and coronavirus tests to be taken before arrival, while international air travel remains badly disrupted.

President's initiatives to bring bumper harvest

Sowing of paddy in Ampara district to be completed by October 31

(I.L.M.RIZAN, Addalaichenai Central Correspondent)

NEWS

About 109,000 acres of paddy will be cultivated during the Maha season 2020/21 in the Ampara district. The Agricultural and Irrigation department officials request Ampara district farmers of the areas to complete their paddy sowing of paddy for the Maha season before October 31.

Farmers said they are expecting to have bumper harvest under the guidance of President Gotabaya Rajapaksa. The Maha season cultivation has commenced from October 9. Cultivation activities are in progress. Sugarcane and subsidiary food crops too will be cultivated during the Maha season.

Most farmers are interested growing red rice in the region. During the fast seasons, there was a high demand for red rice variety. Most paddy farmers in the Akkaraipattu Irrigation region use certified seed paddy for cultivation. They obtain seed paddy from their seed paddy processing centres from throughout the district.

The cultivation meeting for the Maha season, attended by the Ampara District Secretary D.M.L.Bandaranayakke, officials from the Departments of Agriculture and Irrigation, Farmer Organization representatives and other interested partners, was held at the Akkaraipattu Muslim Central College (National School) Auditorium presided over by Gal Oya Right Bank Resident Project Manager S.L.A.Ansar recently.

Arrangements are made to issue fertilizer free of charge to the farmers through farmer organizations. Each farmer will receive Urea, TSP and MOP fertilizers. Farmers are already informed of this arrangement. The yield from paddy cultivation is expected to plentiful and many cultivators averse to paddy cultivation are returning.

As the premier Open and Distance Learning (ODL) institution in the island, with the same legal and academic status as any other National University in Sri Lanka, the OUSL offers a unique experience which not only gives students a sound understanding of subject knowledge but also instills other life skills as time management, selforganization, confidence, independence and leadership which many employers have praised in the graduates of OUSL.

Allied Health Science Degrees that Meet National Standards in Higher Education

The Faculty of Health Sciences:

The Faculty of Health Sciences is one of the six Faculties at the OUSL and have reached a milestone in 2020 by completing five years since its inception as a faculty. The Faculty of Health Sciences currently provides higher education to over of 4,000 students enrolled in the Honours degree programmes offered by the Departments of Nursing, Medical Laboratory Sciences, Pharmacy, Basic Sciences, and Psychology & Counselling. The BSc Nursing, Bachelor of Medical Laboratory Sciences and Bachelor of Pharmacy Honours Degree Programmes allow career advancement to those already in the healthcare sector. The BSc Honours Degree in Psychology which is the most recent degree to be offered by the Faculty, is for learners interested in the field to join the prestigious ranks of a healthcare professional. All these Honours Degree Programmes are conducted in the English medium.

Teaching and learning: The Open and Distance Learning (ODL) mode of teaching and learning is based on selfstudy and independent learning where distance learners assume responsibility in initiating a self-directed learning experience. Students will experience that regular lectures, a feature of face-toface teaching at a conventional university, is minimal at the OUSL. Instead, they will have the opportunity to plan their studies according to their schedules as students learn through carefully prepared study material together with other forms of support that facilitate theself-study mode of learning. The students will have discussion classes, online forums, audio visual support material complemented with compulsory practical exposure through laboratory and work-based training. In addition to subject specific knowledge, the OUSL is committed to helping learners of different ages and experiences to develop their competencies in independent learning, soft skills and English Language and computer skills through its Student Training Academic Readiness Programme offered to all new students.

Nine Regional Centres

The OUSL consists of a central campus in Nawala, and it is also present in all nine provinces of the country. The OUSL regional centres in Kandy, Matara, Jaffna, Anuradhapura. Badulla, Kurunegala, Batticaloa and Ratnapura offer study locations closest to students for selected learning activities. Though the OUSL is different in its teaching styles and the age groups of the student population, the degrees awarded are equal to those awarded by any other National University in Sri Lanka and are recognized internationally as well. Since 1980, the student body has increased from 3,000 to over 40,000, accounting to a large proportion of the total university enrolments in the country.

Affordability of fees

The cost of the OUSL degrees are very reasonable in comparison to other study programmes available in Sri Lanka, since part of the fees are subsidized by the Government as it is one of the 15 national universities coming under the purview of the UGC, Sri Lanka. Also, the flexible scheme of payment allows students to pay annually, in two instalments. Moreover, the OUSL provides financial assistance through several scholarships and bursaries based on merit and need.

Succeed as a graduate nurse

The OUSL's Bachelor of Science Honours inNursing is the first Nursing Degree Programme offered to the working professionals from a State University in Sri Lanka. This programme is therefore, an excellent opportunity for MLTs who have diploma level qualifications to become graduates and update themselves while working in the government or private health sector. It is designed to create professionally competent individuals to engage in the fast-developing field of Medical Laboratory Sciences while recognizing their role in the assurance of quality healthcare provision.

Turn your interest in Psychology to a degree level qualification

Bachelor of Science Honours in Psychology Degree Programme was launched for the first time in 2018 with the intention of widening opportunities for working professionals, adult learners as well as A/L school leavers to gain a degree with quality assured standards. A degree in Psychology provides the first step towards becoming a professional psychologist in Health, . Counselling, Developmental, Educational, Occupational and Clinical branches or any other sub-fields of the discipline. The most attractive quality of a Psychology Degree is that it can be applied to a wide range of other professional areas such as social work, education, business, human resource management, consumer, media, advertising or any other field which involves public engagement. Understanding the human mind, body and behaviour interaction is important in successfully navigating through the life's myriad journey and that will be complemented by a first degree in Psychology while enhancing your career advancement and/or further education in the field.

This year, applications for the above four Honours Degree programmes will be accepted from 11th October to 11thNovember, 2020. Applications for the Nursing, Pharmacy and Medical Laboratory Sciences are open for those health care professionals already possessing prior qualifications awarded by the Ministry of Health in the relevant fields whilst the Psychology Programme is open to those having only A/Levels in any subject stream.

All four Honours Degree Programmes consider previous academic qualifications and grant exemptions on evaluation for selected courses. "NQI, way forward for export competitiveness"

In today's global environment countries are interconnected and interlinked and therefore, the world is simply identified as the global village. Hence, the markets are very competitive and therefore survival in these markets becomes very challenging due to a variety of similar products available in the market. With the accelerated change of developing new technology, a wide variety of new products and services will introduce continuously to the market to address the changing needs of consumers.

For example, if we look back at the early part of nineteenthcentury school children did not have the experience of smart classrooms or use of I-Pad or Smart Phones as those were not available like today. But these items became part and parcel of the normal life of nowadays society due to new technology and in time to come, we cannot imagine the types of new products that will bring in to the society with the technological revolution and innovation. These new products once introduced sometimes catch the market or sometimes products become failures in the market.

This is common to every product in the market not only to new products. Hence we need to look at what is the secret behind the success of a product in the market. Products or services are purchased from the market by the customers. Hence, the products or the services purchased by the customers need to satisfy the expected requirements of the customers then only they become a repeated purchaser of that very same products or services. In other words, the "quality" of the products and services fulfill these requirements. Moreover, Globalization creates a market where the success of products or services is not dependent on the price but the quality of the products or services, and therefore "quality "becomes a competitive weapon in determining the fate of the products or services.

of acceptable proof that can lead to a technical barrier to trade.

Further, with the increasing number of standards and technical regulations imposed by the different markets with higher demands, technical trade barriers are becoming an important issue for manufactures, traders, and exporters. Hence, the manufacturers, as well as exporters, will have to meet these requirements to sell their products in the everchanging global markets and also when to consider entering into new markets to expand the market share which in turn brings foreign exchange to the country.

A National Quality Infrastructure (NQI) is a desire for improving the quality of products and services on a national scale while supports to promote demand for these products and services, which revitalize single enterprises and the economy as a whole. Moreover, NOI supports the local businesses to penetrate international markets in value chains by meeting the requirements of the export markets, while enhancing the competitiveness of the nation's economy. Given this, it is necessary to have a fully acceptable NQI covering the bigger picture as that would local adjustments and consider as a national standard. Standards play a vital role in the business environment as those describe the best practices and therefore it helps the producers as well as suppliers to use the resources in an optimum manner paving the way to cut down unnecessary costs. However, it is necessary to note that standards are voluntary. However, the most important thing is to have up-to-date standards so that the business entities can use these standards to improve and hence the processes to gain the maximum advantage in the market. Therefore, more emphasis in this area is very much required to develop the Sri Lankan industry and trade.

Technical Regulations

The standards published can be considered by different organizations under the powers vested on them and make it mandatory for compliance then those are identified as technical regulations. In Sri Lanka, several government institutions are engaged in regulating the market by issuing technical regulations. As a result, the market has a regulatory area where all products or services covered under those technical regulations shall fulfil the requirements stipulated in the specific regulations. Hence, sometimes the market gets disturbed if the technical regulations are not properly issued having negative consequences for economic growth. To avoid such issues and to ensure that the technical regulation is fit for the betterment of the industry and trade as well as the community, before issuing such regulations it should follow the Regulatory Impact Assessment (RIA) approach as that is the most recognized best practice. However, there is evidence in most of the technical regulations that became dysfunctional due to issue it for the sake of issuing without following the said best practice. In Sri Lanka, there is no single institution engaged in monitoring or coordinating of technical regulations and as a result, the technical regulations are not properly tracked and as a result, the business environment becomes so complex and uncertain creating unnecessary trade barriers.

scientific metrology that addresses the measurement, standards, and techniques, Industrial metrology that address calibration which is vital for industry equipment measurement, and legal metrology that takes care of the verifications that are important in the national interest point of view.

In Sri Lanka, there are three government laboratories providing calibration services to the industry and in addition to that few private sector bodies also provide the same facility to the industry. A calibration laboratory has to implement a quality system according to ISO/IEC17025 and to demonstrate its technical competence through the accreditation of the calibration scope offered to its clients in addition to the traceability of the reference standards used for customer calibrations These laboratories services are very much important and needs to ensure that services are provided in a very professional manner as that help the industries to save a lot of money by having an optimum utilization of resources because calibration ensures that the measurement equipment once calibrated provides the correct reading. A simple example is now a day most of the shopping places a piece of equipment is used to read the body temperature. The appropriate question comes to my mind whenever is see that practice whether that equipment is calibrated and how they handle this equipment as all are required to get a correct reading otherwise it becomes a useless exercise as it does not provide the expected outcome.

against the requirements of the standard. However, certification reduces the multi-testing of products, and also the most important thing of product certification is that it eliminates the multiple testing and also enhances the speed at which goods pass through the border. In other words, certification would function as a passport and address the technical trade barriers.

However, to grant product certification the relevant products have to be tested in the laboratories. In such a situation the reliability of the test results plays a vital role as the decision is based the post. The idea behind

Market Surveillance

One of the very important activity is to have a very systematic approach for market surveillance to ensure whether the products bearing the seals are fulfilled the requirements consistently so that the products in the market are safe for consumption or use. One of the important things is in many occasions these products need to be tested and for that technical sound, laboratories are required. Not only that the capacity to handle the workload efficiently and effectively by these laboratories is an important factor but also reducing too much delay of issuing the relevant test reports of the market samples may have an impact on making the right decisions in the consumer protection activities. Moreover, for standards, mandatory compliance product delay of getting test reports may create disturbances in the market and also on importers and exporters.

Gaps in the Existing System are aware, normally SME is the heart of the economy as it contributes to the economic development of any country and therefore there is a need to develop the SME sector.

The Way forward

Even though the required components of NQI is currently available in Sri Lanka it has not properly established by having a necessary regulatory framework enabling these institutions are properly coordinated, controlled, and updated to bring in institutional integration with the policy framework to have the internationally recognized accreditation of testing laboratories and of certifying bodies to be accepted throughout the supply chain and to achieve worldwide acceptance.

This can only be done by the formulation of fully pledge National Quality Infrastructure (NQI) within the country that will bring in the following benefits that contribute to economic growth while enhancing the quality of life of the citizens of Sri Lanka. Some of those benefits that can accrue by streamlining the NQI framework as listed below;

Increase investment opportunities as investors can penetrate any markets without any trade barriers due to acceptance of cer tificates and test reports for products by the buyers because of the sound NQI system having a mutual acceptance system of test reports and certificates of products.

Quality of Products or Services

Quality has different definitions and over the years different definitions have been introduced by the quality experts. One of the technical definitions is "quality means conformance to specifications". This definition is very much important as it can be used to measure the quality of products and hence it is possible to make a judgment about the acceptance or rejection of that product. As a result, these product standards become very important as any product quality has to be checked against the applicable product standard.

Therefore up to date, productbased standards play a prominent role within the industry and trade. For example, in most business entities competitiveness is often limited because their products or services do not comply with the minimum requirements for quality as specified in the applicable standard which is an essential component nowadays in commercial transactions, at the national or international level.

Moreover, this becomes a mandatory requirement for products in the regulatory markets, and therefore small and medium scale entrepreneurs sometimes face huge problems in fulfilling the minimum requirements for quality as stipulated in the standards due to lack of having a sound quality infrastructure within the country. The situation becomes more complicated due to the lack support the industry and trade to gain the maximum benefits not only in the international value chain but also in national markets while paving the way to contribute to the national economy. The main activities include under an NQI framework are standardization, metrology, conformity assessment (testing, inspection, and certification), and accreditation.

A well-organized NQI framework ensures the effective implementation of these activities with up-to-date information providing the way to reduce the multiple inspections and testing of products in the supply chain adding value to the entrepreneurs and also reducing costs of trade.

Standardization

The Sri Lanka Standards Institution (SLSI) is the premier institution responsible for the formulation of national standards for products, processes, and services. Normally standardizing bodies should comply with the Code of Good Practice for the Preparation, Adoption, and Application of Standards, also known as the "Standards Code", given as annex 3 of the WTO Agreement on Technical Barriers to Trade.

Sri Lanka Standards –SLS 0 describes the procedure for the development of standards. That code provides the principles that have to be followed concerning standardization work. SLSI is the member body of the International Organization for Standardization (ISO) and has the right to adopt any international standard considering the needs and the applicability of the country so that it becomes a national standard. Normally ISO standards can be adopted "as it is" and no need to develop new standards. Many examples can quote as the adoption of ISO standards.

Some examples are the ISO 9000 series of standards, and also ISO 14000 series of standards that are adopted as national standards. But in certain situations, the international standard may not be possible to adopt "as it is" due to technical or structural conditions and in such instances, new standards have to be drawn up or maybe done some

Metrology

The national measurement standards with their international traceability are another vital area in the country. In Sri Lanka, the Measurement Units, Standards, and Services Department (MUSSD) is the custodian of metrology. The main role of this department is to maintain the National Standard of measurement and SI Units and for realizing those Units of measurement through the development and maintenance of a standard of measurement, reference material. and reference techniques.

Three different important areas are essential in metrology as those are having an impact on the industry and trade and finally to the economy. Those are the

Conformity Assessment

Conformity Assessment is a mechanism that ensures the product, service, or system meets the requirements of a standard. Normally, conformity assessment includes testing, certification, and inspection. As of today, certification plays a major role in international and local trade because certification guarantee that the product conforms with the expected requirements, and to fulfil these tasks normally the product is tested against the expected requirements and see whether it fulfils the requirement.

There are two types of certification namely product and systems. For example in the Sri Lankan context, the SLS mark is a product certification where the final product is tested as per the applicable national standard in addition to process quality control assessment in deciding to grant certification. However, systems certification such as ISO 9001 quality management system is a management system certification that does not have any testing but assesses the compliance of the documented system on the test reports. In that context, the technical competence of the laboratories is very much important as the results depend on the correct operation, use of proper test method, the accuracy of test results interpretation, and measuring equipment with proper traceable calibration. However, in Sri Lanka, public and private sector manage laboratories and the recognition of those laboratories play an important role in enhancing the trade activities. Accreditation

In the market Accreditation and Certification are often seem to be confused or sometimes when an ISO certification is received it is advertised as ISO accreditation. This a main misconception. However, it is necessary to understand that Accreditation is at a higher level than a certification. For certification and accreditation, there are two different international standards and those standards indicate the requirements need to be fulfilled by the certification bodies and accreditation bodies. However, accreditation bodies' can accredit the certification bodies, testing laboratories, inspection bodies if those bodies do have the necessary capability and competence to carry out such functions professionally as per the stipulated requirements of the respective international standards. As a result, once the accreditation is received the certification bodies, testing bodies, and, inspection bodies certificates are recognized as acceptable and capable bodies to conduct such operations, and therefore, the output of those can be accepted with trust and confidence. This cannot be noticed by just following a checklist to confirm compliance with a standard. Normally, in the international chain, every country has an accreditation body and all accreditation bodies are interconnected to assure that the operational functions are more or less the same.

There is also an International Accreditation Forum (IAF) where these accreditation bodies are members of this forum that ensure the international acceptance of accreditation certificates issued by different bodies in the world. Sri Lanka Accreditation

The prevailing NQI system in Sri Lanka is incomplete as at present system the legislation for NQI was outdated and incomplete and there is a need to develop the legal framework addressing the gaps after doing a thorough assessment. This needs to be done considering the present operation of regulatory bodies and the technical regulations as within the country there is no proper authority to coordinate these activities as a result manufacturers, importers, exporters, and the general public may face issues when it comes to the compliance due to the non-availability of a supervising institution having full powers. It is very much important to have an Apex body to coordinate, supervise, assess, and to eliminate duplication or conflicting issues of the NQI institutions and to monitor the performance of these institutions to enhance efficiency. The most important fact is to have situations to make quick and faster decisions so that unforeseen costs that would add to the shoulders of the consumers having a detrimental effect on the economy can be avoided. Therefore, more disclosure-based regulations will need to be introduced and promoted transparency to expedite the approvals, certificates, and permits for various commercial transactions. With this approach, there should be stringent enforcement of penalties for wrongful disclosures.

Furthermore, the Apex body can develop recognize partnerships with internationally recognized bodies once the legal framework is developed providing such authority so that it facilitates eliminating trade barriers paving the way for local manufactures to enter into international markets. This will support the SMEs to enhance their capabilities while supporting them to directly look for new markets without going through intermediate parties. One best example is small scale organic products growers. they are unable to penetrate new markets or to sell their products directly in overseas as the international certificates require to enter into such markets are not affordable by the SMEs. As we

Enhance efficiency, productivity, and market access by reducing costs of trade and avoiding duplication in testing and inspection, streamlining operations, and eliminating restrictive regulations.

Enhance public health and safety with the effective implementation of technical regulations in the mandatory markets leading to consumer protection.

Facilitate free trade agreements and support World Trade Organization rules on eliminating technical barriers to trade (TBTs) by the acceptance of international standards and the mutual recognition of conformity assessment results.

Enhance the product quality and increased confidence in domestic and international markets, paving the way to create a healthy competition in these markets.

Concluding Remarks

According to the 2018 edition of the Global Competitiveness Report published by the World Economic Forum, Sri Lanka is the 84 most competitive nation in the world out of 140 countries ranked. This shows that Sri Lanka at present at a very low ranking position and therefore needs to strengthen its activities to become a prosperous nation.

Therefore one of the important areas of the country is to have a sound NQI system for improving the quality of products and services at the domestic level while supporting the national industry to meet the requirements of export markets, as that increases the competitiveness of the nation's economy and its ability to participate in global trade and value chains. Moreover, this leads to the expansion of markets and that helps create new jobs and higher economic incomes.

NATIONAL OPEN CALL FOR TENDER European Union Funded Integrated Economic Development Project

The overall objective of the Integrated Economic Development Project is to contribute to poverty reduction in Uva and Central Provinces.
