Notifications under "The Patents Ordinance"

THE following specification has been accepted —

No 4,220 of April 23, 1955

VELUPPILLAI ARIARATNAM

"An air-cooled Refrigerating Machine without moving parts based on the intermittent wet-absorption principle"

Abstract —The Refrigerating Machine described consists of three main parts

(i) A vessel which acts alternately as generator (during the heating phase) and absorber (during the refrigerating phase) Ammonia is driven out of solution by heat during the heating phase and travels to the condenser after rectification When the kerosene burner supplying heat goes out the refrigerating phase commences and ammonia from the evaporator is absorbed with the evolution of heat This heat is dissipated by fins

(ii) An air-cooled multifin condenser in which the ammonia from the generator condenses From here it passes to the evaporator through a pipe of specially designed bore constituting a liquid seal

(iii) An evaporator consisting of a pipe suitably disposed in a brine solution Refrigeration is possible even during the heating phase due to the presence of the cooled brine
