Industrial Court at Colombo

No. I. D. 299

In the matter of an application made by the Indian Hume Pipe Company, Limited, No. 56, McCallum Road, Colombo, for reconsideration of the Award made under section 24 of the Industrial Disputes Act, No. 43 of 1950, on December 10, 1960, by an Industrial Court, in respect of an industrial dispute between the United Engineering Workers' Union and the Indian Hume Pipe Company, Limited, Colombo (No. I. D. 256), and published under section 25 (1) of the said Act in the Ceylon Government Gazette No. 12,255 of December 23, 1960.

THE DECISION

This is a decision made under section 28 of the Industrial Disputes Act, Chapter 131 of the Legislative Enactments, Ceylon (Revised Edition) as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Amendment) Acts, Nos. 14 and 62 of 1957.

2. By his order dated 24th April, 1961, the Hon'ble the Acting Minister of Labour and Nationalised Services, acting under section 27 of the aforementioned Act, referred to this Court for consideration an application dated 1st February, 1961, made to him by the Indian Hume Pipe Company Limited under the said section 27 for a re-consideration of the Award in I. D. No. 256, made under section 24 of the aforesaid Act, dated 10th December, 1960, in respect of two findings made by the Court in the said Award and to have the said Award set aside to that extent and replaced by a new Award.

The Indian Hume Pipe Company Limited of Colombo (hereinafter referred to as the Company) was one of the parties to the industrial dispute in respect of which the award in case No. I. D. 256 was made, the other party being the United Engineering Workers Union, 123, Union Place, Colombo 2 (hereinafter referred to as the "Union"). This decision relates to the same two parties.

3. At the inquiry into the application which was held by me the applicant company was represented by Mr. Advocate L. G. Weeramantry instructed by Mr. S. Kanagarajah. Mr. N. Shanmugathasan, General Secretary of the United Engineering Workers Union, appeared for the Union.

4. At the outset of the inquiry Mr. Shanmugathasan took a preliminary objection to my hearing the application of the Company on the ground that the Hon'ble Minister should not have referred the application for consideration by an Industrial Court under section 27 in as much as a period of twelve months from the date on which the award came into force had not expired, and as the application was not supported by a certificate under the hand of the Commissioner to the effect that a change in the economic and labour conditions warrants the reconsideration of the findings in the award before the expiry of that period, in accordance with the proviso to section 27.

The award in the case I. D. 256 is dated 10th December, 1960, and was published in Government Gazette of 23rd December, 1960, Mr. Shanmugathasan's argument was that as the application of the Company to the Minister was made on 1st February, 1961, the Minister should not have referred the application to the Court for consideration as a period of twelve months had not expired since 10th December, 1960, when the award came into force and this Court should therefore reject this application.

5. The reply of the counsel for the Company was that although the award was made on 10th December, 1961, it came into force in terms of section 25 (2) on the 1st May, 1959, as the Court in that award had ordered that the payment of dearness allowance at Government rates, which was the matter in dispute between the parties, should be made with retrospective effect from 1st May, 1959. Various authorities were cited to me by both parties with regard to the interpretation of section 27 and the proper procedure to be adopted if the reference made to this Court by the Minister was being challenged. As the matter was of importance I issued a notice on the Commissioner of Labour with the consent of both parties requesting him to appear before this Court either personally or through a representative and assist it in the consideration of the preliminary objection.

On the adjourned date of hearing Mr. E. R. de Fonseka, Crown Counsel, instructed by Mr. A. D. Dimbulana, Crown Prosecutor, appeared on behalf of the Commissioner of Labour and placed before me certain authorities and arguments bearing on the question. I am thankful to the Crown Counsel and the Commissioner of Labour for the assistance given in this matter.

At the end of the argument I over-ruled the objection raised by Mr. Shanmugathasan that this Court should not proceed to hear the application on the ground that it was made to the Minister before twelve months had elapsed from the date that the award in case I. D. 256 came into force and stated that I would give my reasons in my decision after hearing the application on its merits.

6. In stating my reasons I do not think it is necessary for me to refer to the various authorities cited by the parties and Crown Counsel nor to express any opinion as to the correct procedure to be followed if an order of reference made by the Minister under section 27 is being challenged by a party. In the present case a ruling on the preliminary objection can be made by a decision on the question as to when the Award in case No. I. D. 256 came into force. Mr. Shanmugathasan did not contest the fact if it had come into force earlier than twelve months before the application of the Company to the Minister then the Minister's order was rightly made. Section 25 (2) provides that "every award of an Industrial Court shall come into force on the date of the Award or on such date, if any, as may be specified therein, not being earlier than the date on which the industrial dispute to which the award relates first arose." From the wording of the section therefore it will be seen that the date on which an award comes into existence by its being signed is not necessarily the date on which it comes into force and that it can do so on an earlier date.

7. I am of the opinion that if an award is to come into force on an earlier date, it is not necessary that there should be an explicit statement in the award like "I order that this award shall come into force from ....." but that it would be sufficient to bring an award into force on an earlier date if the words used in the award makes an order binding on both parties as from an earlier date. In Case No. I. D. 256 the dispute between the parties was "the question of payment of dearness allowance at Government rates with effect from 1st May, 1959". The award contains the different points for and against raised by the parties, the decisions on those points, and the reasons for such decisions. The order made ultimately in paragraph 19 is as follows: "I accordingly make award that, while the wages and classifications of the Union's members employed in the Company (as shown in P. 9) will remain untampered with, all such persons should be paid with retrospective effect from 1st May, 1959, dearness allowance at the Government rates applicable to their respective daily wages in conformity with the relevant sections (A. B. C. & D.) of Part II of the second schedule appended to, and referred to, in Collective Agreement No. 1 of 1959". I am unable to agree with the argument of Mr. Shanmugathasan that the effect of these words is merely to order the Company to pay arrears of dearness allowance from the 1st May, 1959, to the date of the award, such dearness allowance being calculated at Government rates. As already stated the dispute between the parties was whether dearness allowance at Government rates should be paid as from 1st May, 1959. In my opinion the words used in paragraph 19 amount to a definite holding that the Union's members employed in the Company are entitled to receive dearness allowance at Government rates with effect from 1st May, 1959. It is true that later on there is an order that the Company will be entitled in paying the dearness allowance at Government rates from 1st May, 1959, "to deduct therefrom the total amount already paid as dearness allowance at Wages Board rates" but this order which enables the Company to take credit for the payments already made does not in any way take away from the effect of the determination quoted above that the Union's members employed in the Company are entitled to be paid dearness allowance calculated at Government rates from 1st May, 1959. As was pointed out by Crown Counsel, the effect of an award of an Industrial Court as provided in section 26 is that "the terms of the award shall be implied terms in the contract of employment between the employers and workmen bound by the award, and the award referred to in the section is one "for the time being in force". It cannot be disputed that the effect of the award in I. D. No. 256 is to make the payment of dearness allowance at Government rates to the Union's members employed in the Company an implied term in the contract of employment as from 1st May, 1959, which gives the workmen a right to sue the employer for payment of dearness allowance at that rate from 1st May, 1959. In my opinion therefore the award in that case came into force on 1st May, 1959. As the application made by the Company to the Minister under section 27 was after twelve months had expired from the date the award came into force as provided in sub-section 2 of section 25 the reference by the Minister of that application to this Court is in order.

8. I now turn to a consideration of the application on its merits. The Company desires a reconsideration of the Award in case No. I. D. 256 in respect of the following findings:—

"(a) a re-classification of the Company's workers need not be a consideration precedent to the consideration of the Union's demand, viz., the payment of dearness allowance at Government rates as from 1st May, 1959, to all categories of workers employed by the applicant Company;

(b) the totality of benefits received by the workers need not be taken into consideration in determining the dearness allowance."

Counsel for the Company, Mr. Weeramantry, stated in his address that he was not inviting this Court to consider this matter as an appeal. He urged that the question of the re-classification, or of the correct classification, of the workers into the categories in which they should fall was not properly or fully before the Tribunal in the previous case, that no evidence on that question was led and that as he had placed the necessary evidence before the Court in the present inquiry he could justifiably ask the Court to reconsider the question and review the finding in the previous case. He called as his witness Mr. N. H. Mirchandani, the Manager of the Company in Ceylon, who produced certain documents, including correspondence between the parties and a statement showing how the workers had been classified prior to the award in the previous case, and also another statement showing how it was proposed to re-grade them and the wages that they would draw after such re-grading (Document P. 12). In the previous inquiry what the Company did in the tabulation that was placed before that Court was "to classify most of its admittedly skilled workers as semi-skilled, and the semi-skilled workers as unskilled, and show against the name of each worker in one set of columns his grading (or rather de-grading), year of joining the Company's service, basic daily wage ..... and in another set of columns the basic daily wage, dearness allowance, and the total amount in wage plus allowance which he would be entitled to receive under the Company's proposed re-classification if the Collective Agreement rates, identical with the Government rates, of dearness allowance were adopted."

9. At the inquiry before me the Manager stated in his evidence that it was not now proposed to depress the basic wage drawn by any of the workers but in spite of the fact that some of the workers would be put into lower grades, as indicated in P. 12, their basic wage would remain untouched, but their dearness allowance would be calculated at Government rates according to the new grading. According to him most of the workers in the two factories of the Company at Colombo and Batticaloa were graded higher than they should be, when compared with the grading of workers who did similar types of work in their factories in India. It was not disputed that an industrial dispute between the Company and its workers had been referred to a Special Tribunal (Mr. G. Crosette Thambyah) under the old procedure and that an award was made by that Special Tribunal on 23rd February, 1946, in terms of an agreement arrived at between the parties. The first order made by that Tribunal was that the workers were to receive their basic wage and special allowance "as determined by the Engineering Wages Board in regard to various classes of workers falling under different categories of skilled, 1946 in terms of the award.

Mr. Mirchandani, the present Manager, assumed duties as such in Ceylon in July, 1947. He says that his impression is that he saw a file in his office relating to that Award but cannot remember the details. He was not in a position to say that his predecessor had not graded the workers in terms of that award. Two of the workers who were called by the Union, namely, B. W. Edmund and J. R. Peter, have stated that after the Award of 1946 the workers were graded into the three grades of skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled. I find that it is established that the grading of the workers did take place in 1946 terms of the award.

10. The witness J. R. Peter stated that at that grading he was put into the semi-skilled grade being an assistant moulder at that time. Early in 1948, he, with three other workers, D. M. de Silva, V. L. Haramanis, and A. R. Kumaran, addressed a letter to the Manager requesting that they be put into a higher grade in view of the type of work they were doing. He says that of the four he and A. R. Kumaran were promoted to the skilled grade and he produced a letter dated 12th February, 1948, written to him by the present Manager (Mr. Mirchandani) which states "you are promoted from today as a skilled (Moulder) worker and we trust you will perform your duties conscientiously." Mr. Mirchandani admitted having written this letter but stated that it had nothing to do with grading but that he put the man down as skilled in order to enable him to get two cents more in his increments. According to his evidence the practice adopted was that if a worker drew a daily wage in excess of Rs. 2, which was the wage fixed by the Wages Board for semi-skilled workers in the Engineering Trade, he classified him as a skilled worker, and similarly with regard to those who drew more than the minimum wage prescribed for unskilled and semi-skilled grades. The document R. 2 produced by the Union shows the grading of the workers in the Colombo factory as at May, 1959. There were 14 workers in the skilled grade. It was pointed out to Mr. Mirchandani that according to this list there were certain workers in receipt of a daily wage exceeding Rs. 2 but who were graded as semi-skilled and unskilled and he was asked to explain this. His reply was "I have just arbitrarily decided it at that time. At a certain stage probably I might have been informed by the Bombay office that I cannot do that. Then I may have stopped doing any classifications, but whatever was written we just continued to write". Mr. Mirchandani says he has worked for 11 years in factories of the Hume Pipe Company in India and has been Manager of the Company in Ceylon for the last fourteen years. This Company has got 57 factories in India besides the two in Ceylon. With regard to the method of classification which Mr. Mirchandani says he adopted, I quite agree with the observations of Mr. Shanmugathasan "that it is too fantastic a scheme for any Company, leave alone a Company so well organized as this, which is after all a branch of a very big combine having nearly fifty factories all over India. No responsible firm would lend itself to such a scheme."

11. The decisions of the Industrial Tribunals in India in disputes between the Company and its workers regarding grading which were relied upon at this inquiry were given in September, 1955, by the Industrial Tribunal, Coimbatore, in May, 1958, by the Labour Court, Madras, and in December, 1959, by the Industrial Tribunal, Lucknow. It is significant that in all three cases the dispute arose as the result of dissatisfaction on the part of the workers with their grading by the management and the question was therefore referred to an Industrial Tribunal. In the award of the Labour Court of Madras, published in Fort St. George Gazette, Madras, of June 4, 1958, supplement to Part I, at page 5, the following passage occurs:—"After all the classification of workers into the several grades is a managerial function and it is perfectly open to them to do so having regard to the nature of the work done by the workers, their capacity and the needs of the factory. It would not be quite appropriate for a Labour Court to interfere with this right of the management unless there is strong and reliable evidence to prove that this right is being abused by the management." A similar finding has been made by Industrial Courts in this country too where the question of who the proper authority is for the grading of workers has arisen. In the present case, however, the situation is quite unusual, for the management comes before the Court and asks it to make a re-classification of the workers employed by the Company on the ground that its own classification is wrong. This classification is one that has continued to exist since the award of the Special Tribunal in February, 1946. If, as is contended now, a large number of the workers in the Company have been graded too high considering the nature of the work performed by them, surely the Company had ample opportunity all these long years to put the matter right. If the work performed in the factories in Ceylon does not require more skill than the work done in the factories in India, why was it that nothing was done to alter the grading in Ceylon after the Industrial Tribunal at Coimbatore had approved of the Company's classification of their workers in their factories in that city into semi-skilled and unskilled grades only? There is, therefore, much substance in the contention of the Union that the Company decided on asking for a re-classification or de-grading of their workers only after the claim of the workers for payment of dearness allowance at Government rates had been referred to an Industrial Court, in order to reduce the amount which the Company would have to pay as dearness allowance if their claim succeeded. There is nothing in the documents produced to indicate that the Company had raised the question of re-classification in the negotiations that had preceded the reference to the Industrial Court. I find, therefore, that the evidence led before me strongly confirms the finding in the Award in case No. I. D. 256 "that the Company has not made out a cogent case for any revision of its present classification of workers as recorded in the unchallenged document P. 9 (same as R. 2)."

12. With regard to the statement of the Company that it is not proposed to pay any of the workers anything less than the basic wage now drawn by them, and the suggestion made in the document P. 12 for payment of a basic wage and dearness allowance after re-classification, I agree with Mr. Shanmugathasan that if that is given effect to there is bound to be trouble. Mr. Shanmugathasan has pointed out that unlike the payment of the special living allowance fixed by the Wages Board, the dearness allowance payable according to the Government rates is not determined by grades but by the wages drawn by the workers. According to the figures in the document P. 12, if the suggestion of the Company is adopted some workers will get less when the basic wage and dearness allowance are totalled while others will get more than they are drawing in terms of the Award in case No. I. D. 256. The payment suggested in P. 12 is not prepared on any principle but as was stated by Mr. Shanmugathasan is a "hotch-potch which will again lead us into a completely complicated and unscientific system."

I make these observations as great stress was placed upon this document P. 12 in the course of the argument. Its basis completely disappears in view of my finding that the Company has not made out any case for a re-classification of its workers.

13. There then remains the second point on which the Company desires reconsideration of the Award already made, namely the finding that "the totality of the benefits received by the workers need not be taken into consideration in determining the dearness allowance." On this question Mr. Weeramantry stated that he really has concentrated on his application for a re-classification, and that in deciding the main question which he was asking this Court to decide, namely, regrading, "should not the fact that these workers get certain benefits which are larger than the benefits in similar Companies be taken as a factor for the purpose of re-grading..... In other words we need not really consider it as a separate point but rather as an argument in support of my application for re-classification." I am not satisfied on the evidence placed before me that the workers in this Company do in fact get larger benefits than those in similar Companies. I see no reason to differ from the finding in the Award in the previous case that "the totality of benefits need not be a determining factor in deciding whether increased dearness allowance should or should not be given," although that factor would necessarily enter into the reasoning where an increase in the basic wage plus dearness allowance was being sought.

I also see no reason to differ from the finding in the Award, where each of the benefits has been considered and compared with benefits given by employers in other Companies, that the totality of the benefits given by this Company is about the same as that given by other Companies. But, even assuming that the benefits in this Company were slightly higher than in the other Companies, I am unable to agree that that fact should or could be taken into consideration in deciding the question whether the Company's application for a re-classification of its workers should be granted.

I therefore confirm the award dated 10th December, 1960, given in case No. I. D. 256 of this Court.
