Penalty for opening gates.

be within sight or hearing, or who shall forcibly open any gate which has been closed across the road by any authorized gateman or person in charge of such gates, or who shall in any way impede or interfere with any such gateman or person while in the execution of his duty, shall be guilty of an offence, and liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Rules for the construction of the Ordinance.

38 In the construction of this Ordinance, every railway official shall be deemed to be legally bound to do everything necessary for, or conducive to, the safety of the public, which he shall be required to do by this Ordinance, or by any rule which shall be made by the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, and of which rule such official shall have such notice; and every such official shall be deemed to be legally prohibited from doing every act which shall be likely to cause danger, and which by any such rule he shall be prohibited from doing.

Apprehension of offenders.

39 Every person who shall commit any offence mentioned in this Ordinance may be lawfully apprehended, without any warrant or written authority, by any railway official, or by any other person whom such railway official shall call to his aid, or by any police officer, anything in "The Criminal Procedure Code, 1898," to the contrary notwithstanding; and every person so apprehended shall, with all convenient despatch, be taken before a police magistrate to be dealt with according to law.

Jurisdiction of magistrates.

40 For the purposes of this Ordinance the police magistrates of Colombo, Kalutara, Panadure, Kandy, Galle, Matara, Matale, Gampola, Hatton, Nuwara Eliya, Haldummulla, Badulla, and also any other police magistrate who may hereafter be specially authorized thereto by Proclamation issued by the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, shall each have jurisdiction over all offences, acts, matters, and things cognizable by police courts, although such magistrates may otherwise have no jurisdiction in the place where the offence was committed, or where the act, matter, or thing took place.

Cases may be tried before police courts, though otherwise out of their jurisdiction.

41 And whereas the punishments assigned to certain offences under this Ordinance are beyond the jurisdiction of police courts, but it would be frequently more advantageous that such offences should be brought for trial before such courts in order that the punishment of offenders may be more prompt, even though it should be less severe: It is therefore enacted that in case of any person committing an offence under this Ordinance, and which offence would not otherwise be cognizable by a police court by reason of the punishment to which the same is subject, and a certificate shall be presented to any police court signed by the Attorney-General to the effect that such offence or act shall be prosecuted before such court, it shall be competent to such court to take cognizance of such offence or act, and to award in respect thereof so much of the punishment assigned thereto as police courts are empowered by law to award.

Punishment of children for breach of Ordinance.

42 And whereas many of the offences declared punishable by this Ordinance may be committed by children whom it would not be expedient to punish in manner herein provided: It is therefore enacted that it shall be competent to any police magistrate before whom any person under the age of sixteen years shall be convicted of an offence to order the moderate chastisement of such person instead of subjecting him to the punishment prescribed by this Ordinance, and such chastisement shall be inflicted immediately if the magistrate shall so direct.

A copy and translation of Ordinance to be shown at railway stations.

43 A copy of this Ordinance and of the rules, time tables, and tariff of charges, which shall from time to time be duly made and published, shall be exhibited in some conspicuous place at each station of the railway, so that they may be easily seen and read; and all such documents shall be so exhibited in English and in the vernacular languages of the district in which the station is situate, and in such other language, if any, as shall be required by order of the Governor.

Rebate to be granted on freight.
